CLAIM YOUTH SLEW MOTHER

Funeral For Sacco, Vanzetti Sunday

BODIES WILL BE CREMATED AT FOREST HILLS BURIAL GROUND

Funeral Procession Will Be Within 200 Limit.

PLAN CAMPAIGN

Boston Police Guard is Reduced to Minimum.

BOSTON, Aug. 24.—While Communist riots were occurring in Paris and other European cities were reporting pitched battles, sympathizers of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti were meeting opposition here today in securing a hall in which to lay the two bodies in state.

Announce Line of March.

Carpenter, on orders from the owner, put up a barrier at the defense committee building. The Societa Salernitani hall, in the International Hod Carriers building on Salem street was hired but when the owner of the building, Mrs. Alice Twigg, heard of it she ordered a carpenter ... board up the entrance to the building.

Unable to obtain any other hall, the defense committee decided that the undertaking parlors would have to be used but the undertaker objected because of the small space but agreeing if a hall was not obtained.

Meanwhile, it became known that police were strenuously objecting to a Sunday funeral demonstration on the ground that there would be an influx of strangers from outside communities.

Dr. Francis X. Mahoney, city health commissioner, was asked for permits to keep the bodies after sunset Friday, the time set for their disposal under city regulations.

Plans for a funeral procession Sunday—the bodies to be kept under special health department permits—were drawn up by the Sacco-Venzetti defense committee today.

First in the parade will come two empty black hearses. Behind the hearses will march eight men in mourning carrying the two caskets, four men to each casket. Then will come 50 official mourners. Behind the group of 50 will move automobiles with Mrs. Rose Sacco and Miss Luigia Vanzetti and other women mourners.

This brings the funeral procession number to within 200 required by the police regulations. Sacco-Vanzetti

TURNER FLAYS DRY LEAGUE

Attorney General Asserts Lobbyists Control Politics.

COLUMBUS, Aug. 24.—Attorney General Edward C. Turner, today was on record as designating anti-saloon league and public utility lobbyists as "two dangers of government."

"If the public is to get justice, a greater part of the public and, particularly, the business men, must take an active part in politics," said Turner, addressing the newly-organized junior chamber of commerce here Tuesday night.

The only way you are going to get relief from activities of lobbyists is by making yourself felt at the polls" continued Turner, "but if you continue to stay away from the polls and continue to let the lobbyists control politics, this government of our will soon be in danger."

Turner directed attention to activities of lobbyists during the last session of the Ohio legislature. He accused the anti-saloon league of jamming through the legislature the Marshall bill, fixing compensation for village and justices of the peace. Turner charged that the league's lobbyists "stood by" while corporation lobbyists defeated efforts to modify, in the interests of consumers, existing statutes regulating operation of public utilities.

Infantile Paralysis Breaks Out In Salem; Sunday Schools Close

COUNTY HEALTH OFFICIALS ACT

Opening of Schools on September 6 Will Not be Halted Unless Other Cases Develope, Heatlh Commissioner Church Announces.

Meetings of the Salem Sunday schools next Sunday have been ordered cancelled upon orders of county health authorities in a move to halt the spread of infantile paralysis in Columbiana county.

The first case to be reported in this county is a child in the home of Ray Christen on the Damascus road, just outside the city of Salem, which was quarantined Monday. Dr. T. T. Church, county health commissioner, has asked officials of the Friends church at Damascus to bar children from their yearly meeting and upon his instructions Junior chautauqua sessions in Salem have been called off.

While county health authorities are not alarmed over the discovery of a case of the disease in this county every possible measure will be used to halt further cases. Parents in Salem have been urged to keep their children off the streets and from congregating in picture shows and other places where contagious diseases would be most likely.

Opening of Salem schools on Tuesday, September 6, will not be delayed unless there is a more serious outbreak, Dr. Church claims.

Numerous cases of paralysis in Martins Ferry, New Philadelphia, Dover, Uhrichsville, Cleveland and other eastern Ohio places have been reported during recent weeks. There have been no cases reported in this city, according to local health board authorities.

COLUMBUS, Aug. 24.—City and county health authorities will be allowed to make their own regulations in regard to the opening of schools, which threatens to be delayed because of the appearance of infantile paralysis in many communities, Dr. C. P. Chandler chief of the state department of communicable diseases announced here today.

New cases reported to state health authorities today numbered but four, the lowest since August 13 when the disease became apparent in many centers.

Of the cases reported, three were in new territory, and the fourth at Akron. Massillon, Columbus, and Green township, Hamilton county were the centers where the first cases were reported.

Dr. John Monger, head of the state department of health, declared today, tht it was the object of state officials to co-operate with city and county health boards, and that various regulations would be dictated by particular conditions, so long as the epidemic is not widespread.

COOLIDGE AND FAMILY CROSS YELLOWSTONE

Bound for Lake Where Executive Will Fish.

CROSSES DIVIDE.

Party Will Stop Off at Lake Hotel Tonight.

YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK, Wyo., Aug. 24.—Crossing and re-crossing the continental divide President Coolidge went his way eastward across Yellowstone National Park today in quest of new thrills of the sport of angling.

His destination was Yellowstone Lake where lurk cut throat trout, a species new to the president and which promises to tax his skill as a fisherman.

More scenic thrills, of which the park holds an overabundance engaged Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge and son, John enroute.

First, was the intial crossing of the continental divide at Carig, where the road sits 8,261 feet above sea level.

Here is located a lake, where waters in springtime flow both into the Atlantic and the Pacific.

Then came the second passage where the great watershed of the continent runs back across the road in a huge semi-circle.

From the stupendous solitude of 8,364 feet, the presidential party was enabled to gaze out on a horizon far past the park boundary lines and embracing Shashone Lake near Cody, Wyo.

Coming also as a diversion was an encounter with Jessie James, famous Yellowstone trail bear, who parks himself in the middle of the roads and "holds up" passing autos for candy or other sweets. Forest rangers with the party paid the ransom.

At West Thumb, first point reached on the huge lake, which has an area of about 140 miles, Mr. Coolidge came upon another of nature's freaks, "the fishing cone." The lake laps against one side of the road and on the other is a big natural cauldron filled with boiling water.

Until federal restriction interferred visitors used to be entertained by the spectacle of seeing a fish caught in the lake and, while still on the hook, whipped across the road into the cone and boiled.

Upon arrival at the Lake hotel, where the Coolidges will remain for the night, it was planned to take the executive immediately to Peale island, where he may fish in seclusion.

Shaw and a woman companion were arrested Monday night at Hebron, near Newark.

The croquet grounds and lawn tennis courts is to be covered with a six-inch layer of concrete, to be used whenever desired for dancing purposes. GOVERNOR WILL SEEK RULING

Retention of Alleged Fee by Senator Called Into Question.

COLUMBUS, Aug. 24.—Governor Vic Donahey, it was stated today will ask Attorney General Edward C. Turner for a ruling on the question of the legality of the alleged retention by Senator Clarence Hallman, Cincinnati, of a $1230 fee obtained from Clarence Waddell, Highland county.

Request for the ruling, Jacob Meckstroth, private secretary of the governor, said, will be submitted to Turner next week when Donahey returns from his summer cottage at Indian lake, where he has been suffering from an attack of summer grippe.

The fee, it was stated, was paid Hallman for alleged services in connection with a $6,500 award by the recent Ohio legislature to young Waddell because of permanent injuries due to vaccination at Camp Perry six years ago while Waddell was a member of the Ohio National Guard.

Meckstroth said the governor would ask Turner to rule whether the fee way legel and, if not to state what steps should be taken if any, to compel repayment of the money to Waddell, by Hallman. The governor's request followed complaint lodged by Waddell and his father, John Waddell, with the governor and other state officials, that the fee was excessive.

Because the governor was absent from his office Tuesday, Hallman refused to go to the governor's office and confer with Secretary Meckstroth, counsel for the senator stated. Contending that Donahey had no legal right to question his acts as a legislater of Attorney Hallman, out of courtesy for the governor, was willing to submit an explanation to the governor personally, and to no one else, it was stated.

Ship Tilts From Side to Side by Sea Convulsion.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—A strange convulsion at sea—generally believed to be a submarine earthquake of marked intensity—tilted the French liner France from side to side and hurled hundreds of pasengers from their chairs and beds, it was learned when the ship docked today.

None of the pasengers, however, was seriously injured, although several bore marks of their experience.

Ships, Which Have Been Combing Pacific for Last Week Will be Withdrawn Thursday.

Reinforced by the light cruiser Omaha and fifteen destroyers the navy search for the seven lost Hawaiian flyers was nearing the end today. All destroyers, aircraft vessels, airplanes and submarines will be called back from the hunt tomorrow night.

Three army planes and the Dole flight plane of Martin Jensen were expected to return to Luke Field, Honolulu, today from the island of Hawaii. The four planes flew there yesterday to investigate reports of a green flare supposedly seen flickering half way up the 13,000 foot slope of Mauna Lea, Hawaii's highest mountain.

Other than the naval reinforcements and the report of the green flare, there have been no new developments in the 2,400-mile hunt for the Miss Doran, Golden Eagle and Dallas Spirit, the three missing planes. Seven hundred miles at sea the aircraft carrier Langley nad the aircraft Aroostock swept slowly toward Hawaii with their brood of thirty airplanes. The careful search, however, has so far yielded only floating candy boxes and old potato crates.

Twenty-six naval vessels are now searching for the lost planes far at sea. In addition to the Langley and Aroostock, there are the original searching squadron of eight destroyers, and the cruiser Omaha, which, with her complement of fifteen destroyers, was diverted into the hunt from manouvers in Puget Sound.

EX-HIGH SCHOOL BOY DISAPPEARS AFTER POLICE LOCATE GRAVE

Father Engages Counsel to Defend His Son.

CHECK PASTIMES

Coroner's Jury Launches Probe Into Woman's Death.

By Albert F. Baenziger.

STREATOR, Ills., Aug. 24.—Elaborate preparations for the defense of Harry Hill, the former Streator high school cheerleader, now wanted for the murder of his mother, Mrs. Eliza Hill, was begun even before the decomposed body of his mother was unearthed from its shallow grave in the basement of the Hill mansion by Chief of Police William Robb.

Father Finds Grave.

This fact was disclosed today when it was announced that Attorneys W. J. Jones and former Judge Russell C. Osborn had been retained by Dr. Harry C. Hill, the boy's father, to look after his interest.

It was Attorney Jones who accompanied the father and Dr. G. A. Dicus on the initial search of the house when the newly-made grave was discovered after police were called in and body disinterred by the chief.

Supposedly acting solely in the interests of the father, Attorney Jones has followed in person every step of the investigation conducted by state's attorney Russell Hansen and the state officials have begun to place a new meaning on the silence of the elder Hill which up to the present time has been attributed to the shock following the tragedy.

While the state's attorney was preparing to have young Hill formally charged with the murder, Coroner L. D. Howe announced he would reconvene the jury today and call as principal witnesses Peter Busch, the gardner, who will testify that he was ordered by young Hill to smooth over the spot where the body was found—Alice Sawyer, the young man's sweetheart at whose home he visited Sunday night, William Brydges, the former Streator boy now living in Chicago, where Hill left yesterday noon, one hour ahead of the police, and Dr.

National Guard Withdrawn.

COLUMBUS, Aug. 24.—Uniformed Ohio National Guardsmen were off duty here today after having patrolled entrances to state offices, the state house, the governor's mansion and the state arsenal since Sunday noon for the purpose of thwarting possible attempts of violence by Sacco-Vanzetti sympathizers.

Ships, Which Have Been Combing Pacific for Last Week Will be Withdrawn Thursday.

Reinforced by the light cruiser Omaha and fifteen destroyers the navy search for the seven lost Hawaiian flyers was nearing the end today. All destroyers, aircraft vessels, airplanes and submarines will be called back from the hunt tomorrow night.

Three army planes and the Dole flight plane of Martin Jensen were expected to return to Luke Field, Honolulu, today from the island of Hawaii. The four planes flew there yesterday to investigate reports of a green flare supposedly seen flickering half way up the 13,000 foot slope of Mauna Lea, Hawaii's highest mountain.

Other than the naval reinforcements and the report of the green flare, there have been no new developments in the 2,400-mile hunt for the Miss Doran, Golden Eagle and Dallas Spirit, the three missing planes. Seven hundred miles at sea the aircraft carrier Langley nad the aircraft Aroostock swept slowly toward Hawaii with their brood of thirty airplanes. The careful search, however, has so far yielded only floating candy boxes and old potato crates.

Twenty-six naval vessels are now searching for the lost planes far at sea. In addition to the Langley and Aroostock, there are the original searching squadron of eight destroyers, and the cruiser Omaha, which, with her complement of fifteen destroyers, was diverted into the hunt from manouvers in Puget Sound.

Last night, according to reports, Cole attempted to creep into his home but was frightened away by guards.

Cole is said to have shot Swank fatally and wounded Richard Roberts, a companion, during an argument.

EX-HIGH SCHOOL BOY DISAPPEARS AFTER POLICE LOCATE GRAVE

Father Engages Counsel to Defend His Son.

CHECK PASTIMES

Coroner's Jury Launches Probe Into Woman's Death.

By Albert F. Baenziger.

STREATOR, Ills., Aug. 24.—Elaborate preparations for the defense of Harry Hill, the former Streator high school cheerleader, now wanted for the murder of his mother, Mrs. Eliza Hill, was begun even before the decomposed body of his mother was unearthed from its shallow grave in the basement of the Hill mansion by Chief of Police William Robb.

Father Finds Grave.

This fact was disclosed today when it was announced that Attorneys W. J. Jones and former Judge Russell C. Osborn had been retained by Dr. Harry C. Hill, the boy's father, to look after his interest.

It was Attorney Jones who accompanied the father and Dr. G. A. Dicus on the initial search of the house when the newly-made grave was discovered after police were called in and body disinterred by the chief.

Supposedly acting solely in the interests of the father, Attorney Jones has followed in person every step of the investigation conducted by state's attorney Russell Hansen and the state officials have begun to place a new meaning on the silence of the elder Hill which up to the present time has been attributed to the shock following the tragedy.

While the state's attorney was preparing to have young Hill formally charged with the murder, Coroner L. D. Howe announced he would reconvene the jury today and call as principal witnesses Peter Busch, the gardner, who will testify that he was ordered by young Hill to smooth over the spot where the body was found—Alice Sawyer, the young man's sweetheart at whose home he visited Sunday night, William Brydges, the former Shreator boy now living in Chicago where Hill left yesterday noon, one hour ahead of the police, and Dr.

CAN'T MAKE GENE LEAVE MOUNTAINS

Tunney Refuses to Hustle Himself Off to Chicago.

SPECULATOR, N. Y., Aug. 24.—Efforts are being made to get Gene Tunney to Illinois as quickly as possible but this far the champion has remained adamant.

Chicago business men interested in the fight figure that the titleholder should be on the ground early so as to build up interest in the match.

Tunney, on the other hand, contends that he is to do the fighting and as far as the talking is concerned, he will leave it to the promoter and fight commission.

It became known today that the real reason for Billy Gibson's visit here early this week was to attempt to prevail upon Tunney to change his plans and be at his Illinois training quarters at the Cedar Crest Country club by Sept. 1.

However, it is a well known fact that manager or no manager, Gene runs his own army. As a result he will leave when he figures that he has worked himself into the best possible condition up here.

Gene is enthusiastic about his Adirondack retreat. He is not bothered by the crowds and the summer visitors here respect his desire for privacy. He is not anxious to rush himself into the excitement and confusion that reign near the scene of a big fight.

Also, there is another consideration. Bill Osborne, hotel proprietor who has furnished Gene with a summer home here for two years and who was one of the few who thought he could beat Dempsey last year wants Gene to remain over Labor day, when thousands are expected to motor up into the mountains. Gene is fond of Osborne and loyal to him.

Although the champ will speak vaguely that he will leave around Sept. 1 it is known that he has given orders that his trunks are not to be moved before Sept. 3, and possibly not until after Labor day.

Tunney won't discuss it himself. He is endeavoring to keep his mind as far off the fight as possible.

REPORT FILLING STORE ROBBERY

Two automobile tires and $30 in money was stolen from the C. B. Williams filling station at New Waterford between 11 o'clock Monday night and 6 o'clock Tuesday morning, according to a report made to Sheriff George Wright.

The thieves first knocked a lock from a basement door. A ladder was taken from the cellar and erected against the side of the building, when a window was pried open. The theft is believed to have been the work of "local talent."

50,000 Head of Cattle Stampede in Strand Picture.

Over 50,000 head of cattle in a wild stampede is one of the thrilling action sequences in "The Land Beyond the Law," starting Ken Maynard at the Strand theatre. When Charles R. Rogers, producer of the Maynard pictures for First National, wanted to make sure of getting a real Western ranch for "The Land Beyond the Law," he arranged with Miller and Lux, among the best known ranches of California, for the use of their acreage and cattle.

Getting a stampede into a picture was a problem. While cattle are easily stampeded, it is not such an easy thing to do intentionally. Ken Maynard, Tom Santschi, Gibson Gowland and Noah Young, who appear in principal roles of "The Land Beyond the Law," were all ranchers prior to entering motion pictures. Since the most of the cowboys who were extras, had legitimate claims to the title "cowboy," the company simply forgot about being actors and joined in taking care of the cattle for the stampede.

One can picture, if it is difficult to make cattle stampede, how much more difficult it is to round them up When teh cattle finally quiet down they separate into little groups, spread over thousands of acres. This was due to the vigilance of Sol Polita, the cameraman, and H. J. Brown, the director.

Our Universe

Astronomers have been measuring the universe again, this time more accurately than ever before. Their methods and instruments are considered accurate enough to give their conclusions much authority, even if they are not final. And the results are staggering.

The conception of the universe as a thin disc, with our solar system located somewhere near its center, which has been gaining credence in recent years, is upheld. The milky way, once supposed to consist merely of star-mist, adn now known to be made of millions of great suns, is pierced by giant telescopes to find the stars on the outer edge of this great disc or wheel, and estimate their distance. That gives the radius of the universe. Multiply that by two, and we have its diameter. It is found that it is a little matter of 192 quadrillion miles, which in figures is 192,000,000,000,000,000.

That is not the end, for beyond is space, dark and immeasurable.

It stirs whatever imagination one has. It is inspiring, or appalling, according to the way you happen to look at it. There is ample provocation for big thoughts and lofty moods. Most of us, however, will pass up such considerations, and keep right on figuring the cost of meals and the mileage we got per gallon and who's going to marry whom and when the next card party will be.

There is something especially suggestive in the remark of one of the astronomers that the shape of this wondrous universe, which has been called a disc, is like a very thin watch. Will it ever run down? And if it does, will we, in the spirit or in some other embodiment, be present to witness the end? Or will we and the whole human race be utterly gone millions of years before that?

No answer is expected. These matters are too high for us—yet perhaps none the less worth thinking about.

Interest In The Philippines

Pedro Guevara, resident commissioner from the Philippines, told the Institute of Politics that immediate solution of the Philippine problem is demanded both by America's interests in the Far East and by the national interest of the islands themselves.

"An immediate solution" is more easily urged than discovered. But it is easy to agree with Guevara when he says that this is a most opportune time to undertake the task of solving the problem and to study the whole situation thoroughly. It must be recognized that there is a large amount of dissatisfaction there and much misapprehension as to America's real purpose. Jingoes on both sides stir up ill-feeling and confuse the situation.

The commissioner suggests that committees be appointed by our Congress and the Philippine legislature to meet "for the discussion of the facts and merits underlying the problem, with a view to recommending a satisfactory solution."

The growing of rubber in the islands has complicated the problem, and there is an ever-present fear among some Americans of Japanese aggression. The speaker said that the latter was unfounded and that Japan would be among the first to recognize Philippine independence. As to rubber, he would like to see the limitation of acreage owned by any one individual to 2,500 acres.

The whole subject certainly needs expert, disinterested and dispassionate scrutiny by men of large caliber and ability. It would be well, too, to have plain citizens taken an interest in the Philippine problem and study it open-mindedly.

A Child Labor Gain

Another state has advanced its child labor legislation another step. Louisiana has enacted a law providing an eight hour day, a 48 hour week and the requirement of a physician's certificate of physical fitness for employed children under 16. It makes no educational requirement for child workers and does not prohibit employment of children in dangerous occupations. Nevertheless it marks genuine progress.

Many states are far ahead of Louisiana in caring for their children. Others still lag behind. There are very few in which there is not still room for great improvement. Until every child in the land is saved from toil that injures health, retards education, stunts moral growth, mains and cripples the body, there will be work to do in the prevention of child labor. There are certain rights to which every child is entitled.

"Irish Move Against Ridicule on Screen." Everybody's doing that. Soon the film humorists will have to go to the moon, or Mars, for material.

Uncle Sam is going to run two national elections next year, one at home and one in Nicaragua. And gosh, how he dreads both of 'em!

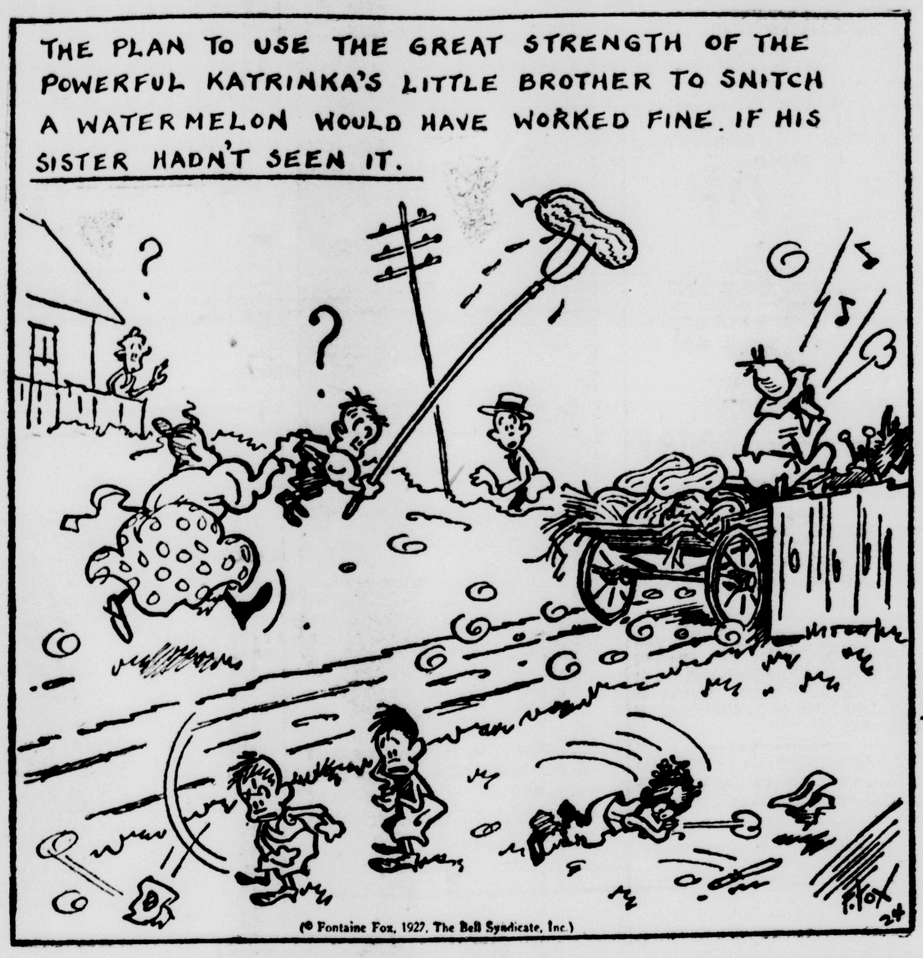

Allow us to repeat that the greatest need of this country is bigger and fatter fishing worms.

The retiring New York ferryboat captain who has navigated 900,000 miles should now take a water trip and see something west or east of the Hudson river.

An appeal is being made to the American public to lend money to the Latin-Americans to build better roads so we can all drive down and spend our money there.

Mexico may be an undesirable neighbor, as some Americans think, but at least she paid the July interest on her foreign debt.

The Powerful Katrinka's Little Brother— By Fontaine Fox

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—The police picked up "Dopey Sam" the other day. He is one of the innumerable East Side drug peddlers who confined his nefarious trade to school children. He, as have others, teaches children to use cocaine and heroin as a means of stimulating trade for his wares.

There are, it has been estimated by narcotic experts, some 10,000 children under the age of sixteen in greater New York who are chronic drug addicts. Like their elders, they acquire a cunning that hides the addiction from parents until they become human wreckage.

For many years little corner candy stores were the supply stations for the drugs, but vigilance became so strict that in later years distribution has been made through drug runners invariably drug addicts themselves.

Children who become drug users in every case resort to thievery to secure funds to satisfy their appetities. In a soft drink parlor recently a member of the narcotic squad pointed out a half dozen children whom he had reason to believe were chronic addicts.

They seemed stunted, listless and pasty. Some were under constant espionage, but so fox-like had they become that all trails eventually grew cold. The youthful dare devil gangsters usually prime themselves with heroin before they go on forays.

The reckless courage so often displayed is only drug stimulation and when captured and cut off from their supply they become prize weaklings. Heroin, a derivative of morphine, is the cheapest and deadliest of all habit-forming drugs.

This is the drug that is chiefly hawked among school children. It is almost impossible to trace to its source, because of the ingrained contempt of the East Side for "the squealer."

One of New York's biggest executives was having a conference the other day with his business associate. The associate opposed several suggestions of his chief and calmly pointed out his reasons therefor. Finally in sudden exasperation the boss jumped up, turning over a table, kicked over a passing chair and stalked from the room—slamming the door with a bang. In about ten minutes, he returned in meeker mood and turning to his waiting associate said: "The trouble with you is you lose your temper."

Jokesmiths have dented the "in conference" gag of high voltage executives. "In conference" offered many deductions. It might mean the boss was sleeping off a bad night, was not in or just didn't care to see the caller. So over the phone the other day one of those silken voiced, highly trained secretaries explained her employer was "in consultation." Another distinction, no doubt, without a difference.

A hot retort to the "in conference" excuse was in a theatrical producer's office. An actor was tossed this moth eaten excuse by the secretary. Taking a seat, he said: "All right, but tell him the next time he comes out for cracked ice, I only want to see him a minute."

Will Hays often talks to Hollywood from his New York offices a dozen times a day. Incidentally, he writes more letters, sends more telegrams, sees more people and talks over the lend distance more than any executive in New York. There are four phones on his desk—one in almost instant touch with Hollywood. Most of Hays' week-ends are spent at his home town, Sullivan, Ind., and two secretaries frequently accompany him back and forth to take dictation.

Flo Ziegfeld is Hays' nearest competitor as a sender of telegrams. Ziegfeld often sends 200-word telegrams that could easily be shortened to 10 words and convey the full meaning.

HASKINS' LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

The Fair of the Iron Horse.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 24. — During the last week in September and the first in October an exposition and pageant will be held at Baltimore that has been christened "The Fair of the Iron Horse." It will be the centennial celebration of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad and will tell most graphically the story of the development of inland transportation in the United States from the pack-horse of the Indian to the most modern homes-on-wheels and heavy, long-distance commodity carriers of today.

It will be an unusual celebration of its kind in that it is not a money-making affair. The public is cordially invited to attend, there will be no admission fee, reserved seats will be free, and parking space will be provided for 3,000 automobiles.

The B. & O. railroad is doing all this because it is proud of the fact that it was the pioneer railroad in the United States to operate a line for the public handling of passengers and freight, and because in all the hundred years of its existence it has not changed its corporate name, its charter, or it fundamental organization.

The exposition grounds consist of a 1,000-acre tract in Halethorpe, a Baltimore suburb. There a great loop track is being laid down around a 25-acre plaza. The old railroad station in America—the B. & O.'s Mount Clare station which still stands in Baltimore—is being reproduced. A grand stand 800 feet long and with 24 tiers of seats and a capacity of 12,000 is being erected. An old-time type of tavern and eating house will be put up. A brick and steel Hall of Transportation 502 feet in length is under construction and a motion picture theatre and all other necessary auxiliary buildings are being provided. There will be ample accommodations, it is stated, for more than 50,000 visitors.

The Transport Pageant.

The big feature of the exposition will be an instructive and educational panoramo, a drama on wheels five miles in length in all, which will depict a full century of the development of rail transport. There will also be a pre-Iron Horse section of the panorama which will portray primitive inland transport in this country and then the evolution of the American highway with its Conestoga wagons, prairie schooners, stage coaches, post chaises, and so on, through the horse-drawn era.

"The circuit rider will plod his lonely path," says the announcement. "Henry Clay will ride in a coach over the National Road to Washington. The famous Baltimore clipper ship, the canal boat, and the high-waisted river steamboat also will move upon the scene, all of course preliminary to the coming of the Iron Horse.

"And then, beginning with the midget-like Tom Thumb of 1820—the first American-built locomotive and the great-great-great-grandfather of the American branch of the locomotive family—and continuing through the curious 'grasshoppers' of the 30s, the strange-looking 'camels' of the 40s, the engines of the Civil war days, and on up to the fleet and aristocratic passenger and ponderous freight pullers of today, all the generations of the Iron Horse will move around the parade loop, many of them with the passenger and freight cars of their time, and all under their own steam."

In the Hall of Transportation there will be a museum in which will be shown 500 full-sized wooden models of the early engines of the world, miniature models showing the progress of the development of locomotives, cars, bridges, and other accessories of the steel highway, early-day conveyances, even to the crude vehicle used during the era of the Pharoahs, motor vehicles as they correlate with rail transportation, signal and safety and telegraph and telephone devices, the first sleeping car and the latest, the new bedroom car, the single-seat day coach, and working models of marvelous ship-loading and grain-handling machinery. High-speed hauling of perishable food products under refrigeration will be demonstrated.

In another building will be shown some of the many cooperative activities of the railroad, such as the scientific location of industries, the development of natural resources, increasing the productivity of the soil by working with the farmers, helping employes to become home owners, and safety first and kindred movements.

In short, it is promised that that which the national automobile shows of recent times have done for motor transport, the Fair of the Iron Horse will do in even greater detail for the numerous and varied activities of the railroad world.

Famous Conestoga Wagon.

One of the interesting vehicles that has already been received for the exposition is a famous old Conestoga wagon, built in 1813 at Middletown, Pa., and used for many years in carrying passengers and freight along the national pike.

The Conestoga wagon was a link in the chain of horse-drawn vehicles prior to the era of the railroad and came in between the stage coach and the prairie schooner. It made its first appearance during the latter part of the eighteenth century. It is a large, solid-looking wagon with huge rear wheels and smaller front ones, and arched picturesquely over the top is a large canopy of canvas slanting far forward in front and backward in the rear, making a spacious vehicle. Six horses were required to draw it, and the passengers frequently had to get out and walk up steep hills or where the road was unusually bad.

Another interesting exhibit that will be conspicuous in the pageant is the historic DeWitt Clinton locomotive, the first iron horse to puff its way in the State of New York. The old engine, with its train of curious carriages, was sent to Baltimore by the courtesy of the New York Central Lines.

The DeWitt Clinton train was one of the first to carry passengers in the New World and the locomotive was the third built in the United States for actual service. The first trip was made in 1831 over the 17 miles between Schenectady and Albany.

The locomotive was designed by John B. Jervis, chief engineer of the Mohawk & Hudson railroad, and was built by Dave Matthew, who was also its first engineer. The old-timer, with its long upturned nose of a smokestack sticking high in the air, its large queer-looking wheels, and its quaint set of remodeled stagecoach carriages, presents a striking contrast with a modern locomotive and train. Its maximum speed was 15 miles an hour, but that was considered breath-taking a century ago. Its weight was 12,000 pounds, less than the weight of one pair of wheels of the largest modern type of engine. The Lord Baltimore, one of the largest and most powerful locomotives in the world today, weighs with its tender 659,000 pounds, or 329 1-2 tons.

If the preliminary tests are successful the DeWitt Clinton will run under its own steam in the Baltimore pageant.

Our Universe

Astronomers have been measuring the universe again, this time more accurately than ever before. Their methods and instruments are considered accurate enough to give their conclusions much authority, even if they are not final. And the results are staggering.

The conception of the universe as a thin disc, with our solar system located somewhere near its center, which has been gaining credence in recent years, is upheld. The milky way, once supposed to consist merely of star-mist, adn now known to be made of millions of great suns, is pierced by giant telescopes to find the stars on the outer edge of this great disc or wheel, and estimate their distance. That gives the radius of the universe. Multiply that by two, and we have its diameter. It is found that it is a little matter of 192 quadrillion miles, which in figures is 192,000,000,000,000,000.

That is not the end, for beyond is space, dark and immeasurable.

It stirs whatever imagination one has. It is inspiring, or appalling, according to the way you happen to look at it. There is ample provocation for big thoughts and lofty moods. Most of us, however, will pass up such considerations, and keep right on figuring the cost of meals and the mileage we got per gallon and who's going to marry whom and when the next card party will be.

There is something especially suggestive in the remark of one of the astronomers that the shape of this wondrous universe, which has been called a disc, is like a very thin watch. Will it ever run down? And if it does, will we, in the spirit or in some other embodiment, be present to witness the end? Or will we and the whole human race be utterly gone millions of years before that?

No answer is expected. These matters are too high for us—yet perhaps none the less worth thinking about.

Interest In The Philippines

Pedro Guevara, resident commissioner from the Philippines, told the Institute of Politics that immediate solution of the Philippine problem is demanded both by America's interests in the Far East and by the national interest of the islands themselves.

"An immediate solution" is more easily urged than discovered. But it is easy to agree with Guevara when he says that this is a most opportune time to undertake the task of solving the problem and to study the whole situation thoroughly. It must be recognized that there is a large amount of dissatisfaction there and much misapprehension as to America's real purpose. Jingoes on both sides stir up ill-feeling and confuse the situation.

The commissioner suggests that committees be appointed by our Congress and the Philippine legislature to meet "for the discussion of the facts and merits underlying the problem, with a view to recommending a satisfactory solution."

The growing of rubber in the islands has complicated the problem, and there is an ever-present fear among some Americans of Japanese aggression. The speaker said that the latter was unfounded and that Japan would be among the first to recognize Philippine independence. As to rubber, he would like to see the limitation of acreage owned by any one individual to 2,500 acres.

The whole subject certainly needs expert, disinterested and dispassionate scrutiny by men of large caliber and ability. It would be well, too, to have plain citizens taken an interest in the Philippine problem and study it open-mindedly.

A Child Labor Gain

Another state has advanced its child labor legislation another step. Louisiana has enacted a law providing an eight hour day, a 48 hour week and the requirement of a physician's certificate of physical fitness for employed children under 16. It makes no educational requirement for child workers and does not prohibit employment of children in dangerous occupations. Nevertheless it marks genuine progress.

Many states are far ahead of Louisiana in caring for their children. Others still lag behind. There are very few in which there is not still room for great improvement. Until every child in the land is saved from toil that injures health, retards education, stunts moral growth, mains and cripples the body, there will be work to do in the prevention of child labor. There are certain rights to which every child is entitled.

"Irish Move Against Ridicule on Screen." Everybody's doing that. Soon the film humorists will have to go to the moon, or Mars, for material.

Uncle Sam is going to run two national elections next year, one at home and one in Nicaragua. And gosh, how he dreads both of 'em!

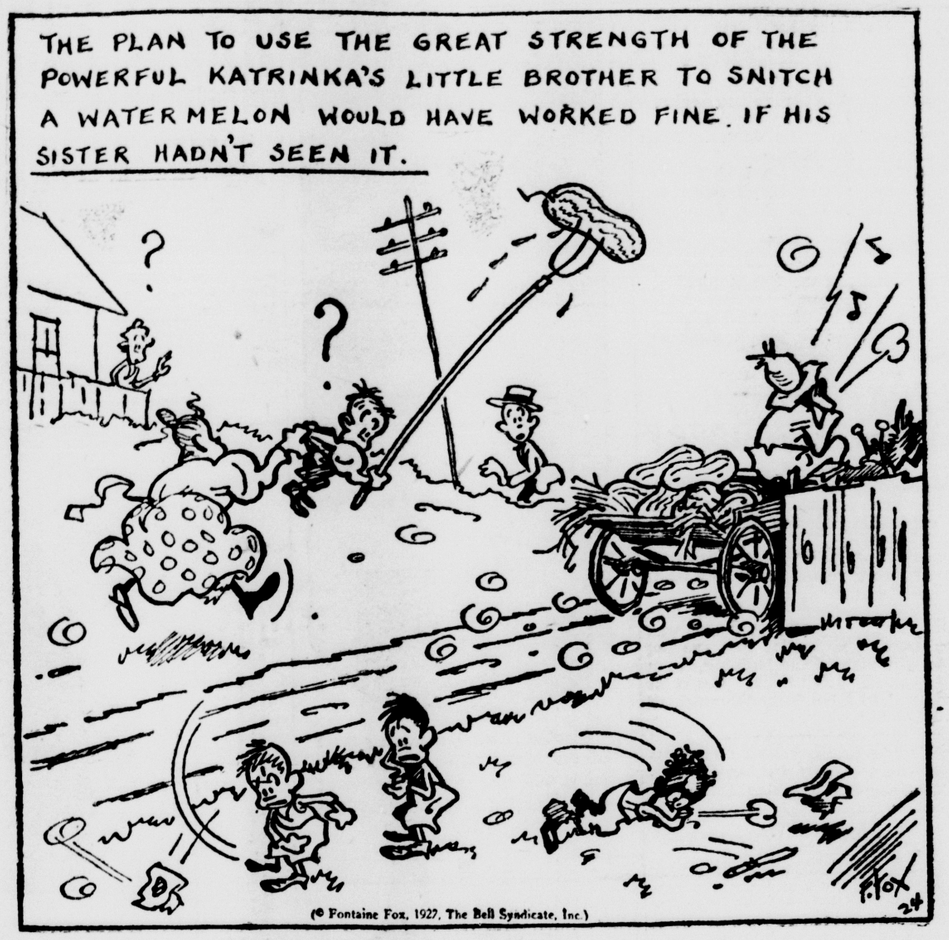

Allow us to repeat that the greatest need of this country is bigger and fatter fishing worms.

The retiring New York ferryboat captain who has navigated 900,000 miles should now take a water trip and see something west or east of the Hudson river.

An appeal is being made to the American public to lend money to the Latin-Americans to build better roads so we can all drive down and spend our money there.

Mexico may be an undesirable neighbor, as some Americans think, but at least she paid the July interest on her foreign debt.

The Powerful Katrinka's Little Brother— By Fontaine Fox

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—The police picked up "Dopey Sam" the other day. He is one of the innumerable East Side drug peddlers who confined his nefarious trade to school children. He, as have others, teaches children to use cocaine and heroin as a means of stimulating trade for his wares.

There are, it has been estimated by narcotic experts, some 10,000 children under the age of sixteen in greater New York who are chronic drug addicts. Like their elders, they acquire a cunning that hides the addiction from parents until they become human wreckage.

For many years little corner candy stores were the supply stations for the drugs, but vigilance became so strict that in later years distribution has been made through drug runners invariably drug addicts themselves.

Children who become drug users in every case resort to thievery to secure funds to satisfy their appetities. In a soft drink parlor recently a member of the narcotic squad pointed out a half dozen children whom he had reason to believe were chronic addicts.

They seemed stunted, listless and pasty. Some were under constant espionage, but so fox-like had they become that all trails eventually grew cold. The youthful dare devil gangsters usually prime themselves with heroin before they go on forays.

The reckless courage so often displayed is only drug stimulation and when captured and cut off from their supply they become prize weaklings. Heroin, a derivative of morphine, is the cheapest and deadliest of all habit-forming drugs.

This is the drug that is chiefly hawked among school children. It is almost impossible to trace to its source, because of the ingrained contempt of the East Side for "the squealer."

One of New York's biggest executives was having a conference the other day with his business associate. The associate opposed several suggestions of his chief and calmly pointed out his reasons therefor. Finally in sudden exasperation the boss jumped up, turning over a table, kicked over a passing chair and stalked from the room—slamming the door with a bang. In about ten minutes, he returned in meeker mood and turning to his waiting associate said: "The trouble with you is you lose your temper."

Jokesmiths have dented the "in conference" gag of high voltage executives. "In conference" offered many deductions. It might mean the boss was sleeping off a bad night, was not in or just didn't care to see the caller. So over the phone the other day one of those silken voiced, highly trained secretaries explained her employer was "in consultation." Another distinction, no doubt, without a difference.

A hot retort to the "in conference" excuse was in a theatrical producer's office. An actor was tossed this moth eaten excuse by the secretary. Taking a seat, he said: "All right, but tell him the next time he comes out for cracked ice, I only want to see him a minute."

Will Hays often talks to Hollywood from his New York offices a dozen times a day. Incidentally, he writes more letters, sends more telegrams, sees more people and talks over the lond distance more than any executive in New York. There are four phones on his desk—one in almost instant touch with Hollywood. Most of Hays' week-ends are spent at his home town, Sullivan, Ind., and two secretaries frequently accompany him back and forth to take dictation.

Flo Ziegfeld is Hays' nearest competitor as a sender of telegrams. Ziegfeld often sends 200-word telegrams that could easily be shortened to 10 words and convey the full meaning.

HASKINS' LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

The Fair of the Iron Horse.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 24. — During the last week in September and the first in October an exposition and pageant will be held at Baltimore that has been christened "The Fair of the Iron Horse." It will be the centennial celebration of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad and will tell most graphically the story of the development of inland transportation in the United States from the pack-horse of the Indian to the most modern homes-on-wheels and heavy, long-distance commodity carriers of today.

It will be an unusual celebration of its kind in that it is not a money-making affair. The public is cordially invited to attend, there will be no admission fee, reserved seats will be free, and parking space will be provided for 3,000 automobiles.

The B. & O. railroad is doing all this because it is proud of the fact that it was the pioneer railroad in the United States to operate a line for the public handling of passengers and freight, and because in all the hundred years of its existence it has not changed its corporate name, its charter, or it fundamental organization.

The exposition grounds consist of a 1,000-acre tract in Halethorpe, a Baltimore suburb. There a great loop track is being laid down around a 25-acre plaza. The old railroad station in America—the B. & O.'s Mount Clare station which still stands in Baltimore—is being reproduced. A grand stand 800 feet long and with 24 tiers of seats and a capacity of 12,000 is being erected. An old-time type of tavern and eating house will be put up. A brick and steel Hall of Transportation 502 feet in length is under construction and a motion picture theatre and all other necessary auxiliary buildings are being provided. There will be ample accommodations, it is stated, for more than 50,000 visitors.

The Transport Pageant.

The big feature of the exposition will be an instructive and educational panoramo, a drama on wheels five miles in length in all, which will depict a full century of the development of rail transport. There will also be a pre-Iron Horse section of the panorama which will portray primitive inland transport in this country and then the evolution of the American highway with its Conestoga wagons, prairie schooners, stage coaches, post chaises, and so on, through the horse-drawn era.

"The circuit rider will plod his lonely path," says the announcement. "Henry Clay will ride in a coach over the National Road to Washington. The famous Baltimore clipper ship, the canal boat, and the high-waisted river steamboat also will move upon the scene, all of course preliminary to the coming of the Iron Horse.

"And then, beginning with the midget-like Tom Thumb of 1820—the first American-built locomotive and the great-great-great-grandfather of the American branch of the locomotive family—and continuing through the curious 'grasshoppers' of the 30s, the strange-looking 'camels' of the 40s, the engines of the Civil war days, and on up to the fleet and aristocratic passenger and ponderous freight pullers of today, all the generations of the Iron Horse will move around the parade loop, many of them with the passenger and freight cars of their time, and all under their own steam."

In the Hall of Transportation there will be a museum in which will be shown 500 full-sized wooden models of the early engines of the world, miniature models showing the progress of the development of locomotives, cars, bridges, and other accessories of the steel highway, early-day conveyances, even to the crude vehicle used during the era of the Pharoahs, motor vehicles as they correlate with rail transportation, signal and safety and telegraph and telephone devices, the first sleeping car and the latest, the new bedroom car, the single-seat day coach, and working models of marvelous ship-loading and grain-handling machinery. High-speed hauling of perishable food products under refrigeration will be demonstrated.

In another building will be shown some of the many cooperative activities of the railroad, such as the scientific location of industries, the development of natural resources, increasing the productivity of the soil by working with the farmers, helping employes to become home owners, and safety first and kindred movements.

In short, it is promised that that which the national automobile shows of recent times have done for motor transport, the Fair of the Iron Horse will do in even greater detail for the numerous and varied activities of the railroad world.

Famous Conestoga Wagon.

One of the interesting vehicles that has already been received for the exposition is a famous old Conestoga wagon, built in 1813 at Middletown, Pa., and used for many years in carrying passengers and freight along the national pike.

The Conestoga wagon was a link in the chain of horse-drawn vehicles prior to the era of the railroad and came in between the stage coach and the prairie schooner. It made its first appearance during the latter part of the eighteenth century. It is a large, solid-looking wagon with huge rear wheels and smaller front ones, and arched picturesquely over the top is a large canopy of canvas slanting far forward in front and backward in the rear, making a spacious vehicle. Six horses were required to draw it, and the passengers frequently had to get out and walk up steep hills or where the road was unusually bad.

Another interesting exhibit that will be conspicuous in the pageant is the historic DeWitt Clinton locomotive, the first iron horse to puff its way in the State of New York. The old engine, with its train of curious carriages, was sent to Baltimore by the courtesy of the New York Central Lines.

The DeWitt Clinton train was one of the first to carry passengers in the New World and the locomotive was the third built in the United States for actual service. The first trip was made in 1831 over the 17 miles between Schenectady and Albany.

The locomotive was designed by John B. Jervis, chief engineer of the Mohawk & Hudson railroad, and was built by Dave Matthew, who was also its first engineer. The old-timer, with its long upturned nose of a smokestack sticking high in the air, its large queer-looking wheels, and its quaint set of remodeled stagecoach carriages, presents a striking contrast with a modern locomotive and train. Its maximum speed was 15 miles an hour, but that was considered breath-taking a century ago. Its weight was 12,000 pounds, less than the weight of one pair of wheels of the largest modern type of engine. The Lord Baltimore, one of the largest and most powerful locomotives in the world today, weighs with its tender 659,000 pounds, or 329 1-2 tons.

If the preliminary tests are successful the DeWitt Clinton will run under its own steam in the Baltimore pageant.

EXECUTIONS IN UNITED STATES BRINGS PROTEST FROM RADICALS

Soldiers and Police Guard American Embassy.

ARRESTS MADE

French Urged to Take No Part in Legion Convention.

PARIS, Aug. 24. — Order was restored here by the police early today after more than 1,000 persons, 200 of them policemen, had been injured in violent rioting by 100,000 socialists, communists and anarchists in protest against the Sacco-Vanzetti executions at Boston.

Rioters battled fiercely with the police in the boulevard Sebastopol where they tried to erect a barricade to hold back the gendarmerie.

Soldiers and police guarded the United States embassy and the demonstrators were not allowed to approach within half a mile of the building.

It was the worst rioting Paris has known since the war. Between 200 and 250 persons were arrested.

Shouting, "Down with the Americans," anarchists and communists broke into theaters and raided cafes, smashing furniture and crockery and driving out the patrons.

Property Damage High.

Most of the property damage was in Champs Elysees and along the boulevards Sebastopol and Strasbourg, and in the Montmartre district. This consisted of broken windows, pillaged shops and damaged automobiles.

The number of manifestants totaled 250.

In addition to the Paris rioting, demonstration also occurred at Rouen, in which many of the demonstrators were injured and six were arrested.

A second missile, believed to be a bomb, was found in a subway station today, this time in the cadet station. It was taken to the police laboratories for examination.

At least one American was among those arrested. He was John Lubke, who said he was born in Denver in 1905. The charge against him was attempted pillaging.

Hit Legion's Celebration.

PARIS, Aug. 24.—Gathering opposition to participation by Frenchmen in the program of the American Legion convention to be held here next month was indicated in events today growing out of demonstrations and rioting over the execution of Sacco and Vanzetti.

The mayor of Lille has informed the ministry of the interior that that city will not participate in any friendly manifestations for the Legion on September 19, when the Legion stages its parade.

Deputies Cachia, Marty and Doriot, communist members of the chamber of deputies, who are now serving sentences in Sante prison for their communist activities, have informed the president of the chamber that they intend to interpolate the government on "the impossibility of maintaining the September fete."

"Couturier," writing in the communist organ, Humanite, today declared "we can be sure, at least that on the occasion of the American Legion National holiday on September 19 Paris will not dance on the corpses of Sacco and Vanzetti."

Referring to last night's disturbances, the Humanite issued the proud boast that "the Paris workers are the masters of the streets.

Chicago Has Fire.

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—One entire block of stores and apartment buildings, located in the heart of Chicago's Latin quarter, was almost completely wiped out early today by a mysterious explosion and fire that followed in its wake.

The scene was Taylor street between Marshall avenue and Paulina street. The section that has been in constant turmoil recently as a result of Sacco-Vanzetti demonstrations.

Two business houses were leveled by the blast and fire which broke out immediately spread to twelve apartment buildings. Firemen and police are searching the ruins for bodies. It is not known whether there was any loss of life.

Authorities, after a hasty investigation, were unable to determine whether the blast was due to a bomb, possibly set by anarchists as a protest to the execution of Sacco and Vanzetti, or was due to some other cause.

Some time after the explosion Chief of Police Hughes received a telegram from Mrs. J. E. Bowle, Dayton, O., that she had been advised her sister, Mrs. Margaret Pesa was killed in the blast. Hughes ordered an investigation.

Bradford, Halifax, Bolton and Rochdale, important cities in northern England, have lost in population in the past 16 years.

Because of the drought in Argentine nearly all wool clipped this season was full of burs.

RAILROAD TO BUILD LINES

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—The interstate commerce commission today authorized the Toledo and Cincinnati railway to build two extensions in Butler county, Ohio. The railroad's application for authority called for a three-mile line between Hamilton Furnace to Woodsdale, and one and a half miles between Woodsdale and Middletown. The combined cost of the two new lines is estimated at $1,300,000.

Improve Oak Grove

Stephens, local manager for the Manufacturers Light and Heat Company, the cottages have been furnished with natural gas. The company extended its mains to the park entrance, from which point service lines have been run to the cottages. The cottages are also equipped with electric lights, running water from its private system, sanitary sewers and all city conveniences are provided. A hard-surfaced improved road from both East Liverpool and Wellsville passes the park entrance and a street car stop is within a few minutes walk of the grounds.

At a recent meeting of the association the following directors were elected: John W. Vodrey, Charles C. Ashbaugh, Corydon Arnold, Leon Rubin, and Frank Campbell. The directors have named the following officers:

President John W. Vodrey; secretary, C. W. Arnold; treasurer, Charles C. Ashbaugh.

Oak Grove park was established many years ago as a camp meeting ground for religious services but later was taken over as a summer recreation center for residents of East Liverpool and Welsiville. Tabernacle, which was located in the center of the cottage group was destroyed by fire.

Sacco, Vanzetti Funeral

sympathizers assured police that there will be no disturbance but stated that they could not prevent persons trailing the funeral cortege.

The line of march will be from North End Park, up Hanover street, along Tremont street, up School street, by the state house and down Beacon hill to the Back bay. In the Back bay district the coffins will be placed in the hearses for transfer beyond to Forest Hills cemetery for cremation.

Plan Conference Sunday.

A plan to take either the bodies or the ashes on a tour of the country was meeting with opposition from critics outside Boston, according to word received by the committee.

To establish the "innocence" of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, to bring about a senatorial investigation of the department of justice and to set up a commission to inquire into the decision of Governor Alvan T. Fuller and his advisory committee will be the object of a national Sacco-Vanzetti committee to be organized at a national conference in New York on Saturday and Sunday.

Boston's great police guard was reduced to a minimum today although a few armed men were still on watch in the pouring rain in front of public buildings.

Powers Hapgood, the Indianapolis liberal and former Harvard varsity track athlete, who was committed to the Psychopathic hospital at the height of the Sacco-Vanzetti affair was released and today was planning court action against the state police. Other out-of-town sympathizers of Sacco and Vanzetti remained in Boston for the funeral, although the large legal array had departed.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, Aug. 24. — Industrial and high priced specialties encountered considerable profit taking in early trading today, and were unable to continue the brilliant forward movement which was in progress at Tuesday's close. The oil stocks were also under the influence of the new price cuts in crude oil and the possibility of a cut in Pan-American's dividend, and prices in that section of the market were uniformly lower.

Baldwin locomotive appeared to be in a position to develop the market "fireworks" forecasted for today in connection with a preliminary meeting of important stockholding interests.

Both Arturus Cutten of Chicago and the Fisher interests in Detroit will receive representation on the board at a formal meeting tomorrow, according to market rumors, and there is keen inside demand for stock. On the first sale of 2,000 shares at 261 Baldwin showed a gain of 2¼ points from the previous day.

General financial and industrial conditions were unchanged. Current railroad reports emphasize the heavy falling off in July net earnings for some of the important roads, due to flood conditions, coal strikes and other unfavorable factors. Weekly traffic reports were a little more favorable. Call money was unchanged at 3½ per cent.

Persistent rumors of an impending cut in an American's dividend to $3 a share accompanied heavy selling of the stock down to 48½ the lowest price since 1924.

Action on the dividend may not be taken until next month, but current earnings show a considerable decline from the last year or so. Marland, Phillips and other well known independent oil stocks were also under pressure.

Stocks of the sugar companies were conspicuously strong and active on the firming up of the refined sugar markets. Cotton was strong and grain irregular.

Ex-High School Boy

George M. Elsbree, pastor of the Park Presbyterian church where Mrs. Hill and her son attended church.

Extend Search to Chicago.

In the meantime Chicago police have been supplied with the names and addresses of five Chicago girls found in a note book of young Hill by the Streator police and are watching these places in the hope that the boy might try to communicate with his father through them.

Accompanied Mother to Church.

The body of the murdered woman was shipped to Springfield today for burial. In the short coroner's session which preceded the issuance of a burial permit, Dr. Hill was spared the ordeal of identifying the body and was only called upon for the family history of the deceased.

In his testimony the doctor told the coroner that he was divorced from his wife in Reno some two years ago. Dr. Elsbree's statement to the coroner recited the fact that he had seen Mrs. Hill at church on the last Sunday in July and was attracted by the affectionate attendance young Hill showered on his mother.

"Mrs. Hill has been suffering from a foot ailment for some time," he said, "and Harry had his arm around her helping her down the stone steps."

The police are checking closely on young Hill's pastimes in Streator. They find that in two gambling houses here he lost large sums of money which will explain the $1,050 worth of checks that he forged his mother's name to since July. They also are checking up on the rumors that the young man was liberally supplied with moonshine on the theory that the crime might have been committed while under the influence of liquor.

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—Harry D. Hill, 21, wayward son of a prominent Streator physician, kept a jump ahead of police today as they combed Chicago for him in connection with the murder of his mother, Mrs. Eliza Hill, 55, whose body was found in a shallow grave in her home last Monday night.

Homes of a large number of Chicago girls, whose names, recorded as "Ethel," "Mazie," "Evelyn" and so forth, in one of Hill's notebooks found by police, were visited but without revealing a trace of him.

At most of the homes and apartments it was said no girls bearing such names were known.

From this police deduced that the names in the book were casual acquaintances, who gave Hill fictitious names and addresses.

William Brydges Jr., from whose home Hill disappeared yesterday only an hour before the arrival of detectives, went to Streator today to testify at the inquest.

Hill had spent Monday night at the Brydges home after driving in from Streator where he had been seen frequently and where authorities say he cashed checks totaling more than $1,200 drawn on his mother's account.

Investigation has revealed, police say, many of the checks were drawn after Mrs. Hill's death.

Fiancee Testifies.

STREATOR, Ills., Aug. 24.—"I knew of no objections Mrs. Hill had to our marriage," Miss Alice Sawyer, fiancee of Harry D. Hill, 21, sought as the slayer of his mother, declared today at the inquest.

Her eyes, swollen from weeping, Miss Sawyer testified in a low, even tone, and left scant doubt in the minds of the hundreds who jammed the chamber that she was prepared to stand by her lover.

On the arrival of a truck of coal at Whitstable, England, a skylark's nest containing four eggs was found.

EXECUTIONS IN UNITED STATES BRINGS PROTEST FROM RADICALS

Soldiers and Police Guard American Embassy.

ARRESTS MADE

French Urged to Take No Part in Legion Convention.

PARIS, Aug. 24. — Order was restored here by the police early today after more than 1,000 persons, 200 of them policemen, had been injured in violent rioting by 100,000 socialists, communists and anarchists in protest against the Sacco-Vanzetti executions at Boston.

Rioters battled fiercely with the police in the boulevard Sebastopol where they tried to erect a barricade to hold back the gendarmerie.

Soldiers and police guarded the United States embassy and the demonstrators were not allowed to approach within half a mile of the building.

It was the worst rioting Paris has known since the war. Between 200 and 250 persons were arrested.

Shouting, "Down with the Americans," anarchists and communists broke into theaters and raided cafes, smashing furniture and crockery and driving out the patrons.

Property Damage High.

Most of the property damage was in Champs Elysees and along the boulevards Sebastopol and Strasbourg, and in the Montmartre district. This consisted of broken windows, pillaged shops and damaged automobiles.

The number of manifestants totaled 250.

In addition to the Paris rioting, demonstration also occurred at Rouen, in which many of the demonstrators were injured and six were arrested.

A second missile, believed to be a bomb, was found in a subway station today, this time in the cadet station. It was taken to the police laboratories for examination.

At least one American was among those arrested. He was John Lubke, who said he was born in Denver in 1905. The charge against him was attempted pillaging.

Hit Legion's Celebration.

PARIS, Aug. 24.—Gathering opposition to participation by Frenchmen in the program of the American Legion convention to be held here next month was indicated in events today growing out of demonstrations and rioting over the execution of Sacco and Vanzetti.

The mayor of Lille has informed the ministry of the interior that that city will not participate in any friendly manifestations for the Legion on September 19, when the Legion stages its parade.

Deputies Cachia, Marty and Doriot, communist members of the chamber of deputies, who are now serving sentences in Sante prison for their communist activities, have informed the president of the chamber that they intend to interpolate the government on "the impossibility of maintaining the September fete."

"Couturier," writing in the communist organ, Humanite, today declared "we can be sure, at least that on the occasion of the American Legion National holiday on September 19 Paris will not dance on the corpses of Sacco and Vanzetti."

Referring to last night's disturbances, the Humanite issued the proud boast that "the Paris workers are the masters of the streets.

Chicago Has Fire.

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—One entire block of stores and apartment buildings, located in the heart of Chicago's Latin quarter, was almost completely wiped out early today by a mysterious explosion and fire that followed in its wake.

The scene was Taylor street between Marshall avenue and Paulina street. The section that has been in constant turmoil recently as a result of Sacco-Vanzetti demonstrations.

Two business houses were leveled by the blast and fire which broke out immediately spread to twelve apartment buildings. Firemen and police are searching the ruins for bodies. It is not known whether there was any loss of life.

Authorities, after a hasty investigation, were unable to determine whether the blast was due to a bomb, possibly set by anarchists as a protest to the execution of Sacco and Vanzetti, or was due to some other cause.

Some time after the explosion Chief of Police Hughes received a telegram from Mrs. J. E. Bowle, Dayton, O., that she had been advised her sister, Mrs. Margaret Pesa was killed in the blast. Hughes ordered an investigation.

Bradford, Halifax, Bolton and Rochdale, important cities in northern England, have lost in population in the past 16 years.

Because of the drought in Argentine nearly all wool clipped this season was full of burs.

RAILROAD TO BUILD LINES

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—The interstate commerce commission today authorized the Toledo and Cincinnati railway to build two extensions in Butler county, Ohio. The railroad's application for authority called for a three-mile line between Hamilton Furnace to Woodsdale, and one and a half miles between Woodsdale and Middletown. The combined cost of the two new lines is estimated at $1,300,000.

Improve Oak Grove

Stephens, local manager for the Manufacturers Light and Heat Company, the cottages have been furnished with natural gas. The company extended its mains to the park entrance, from which point service lines have been run to the cottages. The cottages are also equipped with electric lights, running water from its private system, sanitary sewers and all city conveniences are provided. A hard-surfaced improved road from both East Liverpool and Wellsville passes the park entrance and a street car stop is within a few minutes walk of the grounds.

At a recent meeting of the association the following directors were elected: John W. Vodrey, Charles C. Ashbaugh, Corydon Arnold, Leon Rubin, and Frank Campbell. The directors have named the following officers:

President John W. Vodrey; secretary, C. W. Arnold; treasurer, Charles C. Ashbaugh.

Oak Grove park was established many years ago as a camp meeting ground for religious services but later was taken over as a summer recreation center for residents of East Liverpool and Welsiville. Tabernacle, which was located in the center of the cottage group was destroyed by fire.

Sacco, Vanzetti Funeral

sympathizers assured police that there will be no disturbance but stated that they could not prevent persons trailing the funeral cortege.

The line of march will be from North End Park, up Hanover street, along Tremont street, up School street, by the state house and down Beacon hill to the Back bay. In the Back bay district the coffins will be placed in the hearses for transfer beyond to Forest Hills cemetery for cremation.

Plan Conference Sunday.

A plan to take either the bodies or the ashes on a tour of the country was meeting with opposition from critics outside Boston, according to word received by the committee.

To establish the "innocence" of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, to bring about a senatorial investigation of the department of justice and to set up a commission to inquire into the decision of Governor Alvan T. Fuller and his advisory committee will be the object of a national Sacco-Vanzetti committee to be organized at a national conference in New York on Saturday and Sunday.

Boston's great police guard was reduced to a minimum today although a few armed men were still on watch in the pouring rain in front of public buildings.

Powers Hapgood, the Indianapolis liberal and former Harvard varsity track athlete, who was committed to the Psychopathic hospital at the height of the Sacco-Vanzetti affair was released and today was planning court action against the state police. Other out-of-town sympathizers of Sacco and Vanzetti remained in Boston for the funeral, although the large legal array had departed.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, Aug. 24. — Industrial and high priced specialties encountered considerable profit taking in early trading today, and were unable to continue the brilliant forward movement which was in progress at Tuesday's close. The oil stocks were also under the influence of the new price cuts in crude oil and the possibility of a cut in Pan-American's dividend, and prices in that section of the market were uniformly lower.

Baldwin locomotive appeared to be in a position to develop the market "fireworks" forecasted for today in connection with a preliminary meeting of important stockholding interests.

Both Arturus Cutten of Chicago and the Fisher interests in Detroit will receive representation on the board at a formal meeting tomorrow, according to market rumors, and there is keen inside demand for stock. On the first sale of 2,000 shares at 261 Baldwin showed a gain of 2¼ points from the previous day.

General financial and industrial conditions were unchanged. Current railroad reports emphasize the heavy falling off in July net earnings for some of the important roads, due to flood conditions, coal strikes and other unfavorable factors. Weekly traffic reports were a little more favorable. Call money was unchanged at 3½ per cent.

Persistent rumors of an impending cut in an American's dividend to $3 a share accompanied heavy selling of the stock down to 48½ the lowest price since 1924.

Action on the dividend may not be taken until next month, but current earnings show a considerable decline from the last year or so. Marland, Phillips and other well known independent oil stocks were also under pressure.

Stocks of the sugar companies were conspicuously strong and active on the firming up of the refined sugar markets. Cotton was strong and grain irregular.

Ex-High School Boy

Extend Search to Chicago.

In the meantime Chicago police have been supplied with the names and addresses of five Chicago girls found in a note book of young Hill by the Streator police and are watching these places in the hope that the boy might try to communicate with his father through them.

Accompanied Mother to Church.

The body of the murdered woman was shipped to Springfield today for burial. In the short coroner's session which preceded the issuance of a burial permit, Dr. Hill was spared the ordeal of identifying the body and was only called upon for the family history of the deceased.

In his testimony the doctor told the coroner that he was divorced from his wife in Reno some two years ago. Dr. Elsbree's statement to the coroner recited the fact that he had seen Mrs. Hill at church on the last Sunday in July and was attracted by the affectionate attendance young Hill showered on his mother.

"Mrs. Hill has been suffering from a foot ailment for some time," he said, "and Harry had his arm around her helping her down the stone steps."

The police are checking closely on young Hill's pastimes in Streator. They find that in two gambling houses here he lost large sums of money which will explain the $1,050 worth of checks that he forged his mother's name to since July. They also are checking up on the rumors that the young man was liberally supplied with moonshine on the theory that the crime might have been committed while under the influence of liquor.

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—Harry D. Hill, 21, wayward son of a prominent Streator physician, kept a jump ahead of police today as they combed Chicago for him in connection with the murder of his mother, Mrs. Eliza Hill, 55, whose body was found in a shallow grave in her home last Monday night.

Homes of a large number of Chicago girls, whose names, recorded as "Ethel," "Mazie," "Evelyn" and so forth, in one of Hill's notebooks found by police, were visited but without revealing a trace of him.

At most of the homes and apartments it was said no girls bearing such names were known.

From this police deduced that the names in the book were casual acquaintances, who gave Hill fictitious names and addresses.

William Brydges Jr., from whose home Hill disappeared yesterday only an hour before the arrival of detectives, went to Streator today to testify at the inquest.

Hill had spent Monday night at the Brydges home after driving in from Streator where he had been seen frequently and where authorities say he cashed checks totaling more than $1,200 drawn on his mother's account.

Investigation has revealed, police say, many of the checks were drawn after Mrs. Hill's death.

Fiancee Testifies.

STREATOR, Ills., Aug. 24.—"I knew of no objections Mrs. Hill had to our marriage," Miss Alice Sawyer, fiancee of Harry D. Hill, 21, sought as the slayer of his mother, declared today at the inquest.

Her eyes, swollen from weeping, Miss Sawyer testified in a low, even tone, and left scant doubt in the minds of the hundreds who jammed the chamber that she was prepared to stand by her lover.

On the arrival of a truck of coal at Whitstable, England, a skylark's nest containing four eggs was found.

Better than Expensive "Bleaches"

The juice of two lemons squeezed into a bottle with Orchard White, will soothe sunburn, and clear up freckles, tan, dis-colored skin quicker than anything you can buy already prepared, and it doesn't cost you near as much.

Any druggist can sell you Orchard White, and it only takes a minute to mix it with the juice of two lemons. Then you have enough to last you all season.

It makes a delightful lotion which you can put on your face, neck, arms or hands at any time, and it will keep them nice and white. Mix a bottle now, so you will have it handy to use should your skin begin to turn dark, or rough.

Use Lemons to Whiten Your Skin

Better than Expensive "Bleaches"

The juice of two lemons squeezed into a bottle with Orchard White, will soothe sunburn, and clear up freckles, tan, dis-colored skin quicker than anything you can buy already prepared, and it doesn't cost you near as much.

Any druggist can sell you Orchard White, and it only takes a minute to mix it with the juice of two lemons. Then you have enough to last you all season.

It makes a delightful lotion which you can put on your face, neck, arms or hands at any time, and it will keep them nice and white. Mix a bottle now, so you will have it handy to use should your skin begin to turn dark, or rough.

Superior Cords Increase Lead In City League Flag Drive

Lefty Crandall Is Victor Over Grimm In Shutout Contest

More Than 3,000 Fans See 3-0 Battle at Smith Field; Miscues at Plate Handicap Laughlin Club.

Chester Superior Cords today are a full game ahead of the field in general and Laughlin in particular in a torrid second half City Industrial league race as a result of a shutout victory over the Potters last evening at Smith Field.

The clash ended with the count 3 to 0 in favor of Lefty Crandall and his cohorts. A crowd estimated at around 3,000, with probably 500 automobiles surrounding the field, the record attendance to date, took in the battle.

Laughlin has won 10 and lost three. The Superior Cords have won 10 and lost one, but still have a decision in the K. T. K. game hanging fire.

Lacking two regular outfielders, Billy Watson, who turned an ankle in the K. T. K. game, and Ronald Crawford, who is out of the city, Manager Pearl Dailey was forced to shift his lineup about. Webber moved over from right to middle and Bubin went to right and Ranaldi to left. After a disastrous first inning when a couple of throws got past Lang, catching, Ranaldi came in and donned the pad and big mitt, Lang going to the outgarden. Manager Dailey later on took First Sacker Heckathorne, a left handed hitter, out of the lineup in favor of Lee Babb.

In the fourth, when Grimm allowed his first hits, two being bunched with a sacrifice, the single earned run of the game was made.

Crandall permitted but three safe hits, singles in the first, second and fourth by Webber, Sayres and Lang, respectively. Webber clouted with one gone but Lang and Herbert were retired at first, Bakosh and Scullion making the assists. One of Bakosh's stops at the hot corner was made with his bare hand, transforming a near hit into a putout at first.

Two were gone when Sayres lined one to middle. But Crandall stopped Bubin's drive and retired the side.

TAKE 2 LEFTY OUT

Grimm, former Cumberland pitcher, equalled Crandall's performance in the matter of hits, allowing but three.

Chappie Finley contributed an outstanding performance at short. He stopped everything that came his way except in the last frame when Crandall sneaked a hit past second base in the gathering darkness and his pegging was perfect. Grimm had six assists, but uncorked one wild heave to second.

Crandall struck out seven and did not issue a single walk.

Johnny Evans opened the first frame with a walk. Wilde, on a sacrifice play, was safe at first when Heckathorne dropped Grimm's assist. Melchori was out bunting the third strike, and Evans scored on a passed ball. Conners stole second as Pete Cebula fanned. Wilde finished the circuit on another toss that got by Lang. Ranaldi then was called in. McConnell retired the side, Herbert to Heckathorne.

Conners opened the last half of the fourth with a single to right. Grimm attempted a quick return delivery on Pete Cebula and the latter, sticking his bat into the pitch, laid down a perfect bunt along the third base line. Herbert made a quick pickup and picked off Pete at first. McConnell doubled down the left field line into the crowd, scoring Conners. On a low throw by Grimm to second to get McConnell off base, the ball went into middle and McConnell to third. Bakosh fanned. Scullion drove to Grimm who threw to Ranaldi at the plate, cutting off McConnell.

Sherwood Wins From Cleaners

In a Community league game sprinkled plentifully with errors, the Sherwood nine won from Skid's Cleaners, 10 to 2, last evening at Sherwood.

Eight miscues were chalked up against the Cleaners and five against the Cardinals. Watson and Walker, of Sherwood, and Fry, of the Cleaners, with two hits apiece in three times up, were the leading clouters. The rival pitchers performed more consistently on the defense than their support, Powell having five assists and Mackall six.

Rule Britton Out; "too Old"

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—Jack Britton, former welterweight champion of the world, has lost his boxing license in New York state and will not be permitted to return to the ring against Georgie Levine here next Monday because he is "too old to fight."

The New York boxing commission cancelled Britton's license because he is forty years old, three years beyond the age limit.

NEW 880-YARD SWIM MARK SET

HONOLULU, Aug. 24.—A new world's record for the 880-yard swimming relay was owned by the fast Illinois Athletic club squad today. Competing in the national swimming championship here, the Illinois team of Weismuller, Halleren, Miller and Kimball, paddled the 880 yards in 9:35 clipping eight seconds from the old record.

The I. A. C. quartet defeated the Outrigger club team by fifteen yards. The Outrigger team was made up of Newport E. Crabbe, Sam Kahanamoku, and C. Crabbe. Johnny Weismuller's time was 2.15 3-5.

Earlier, Weismuller made a new world record in the 100 meters. Swimming a trial race, he crawled the distance in 58 1-5 seconds.

CARDINALS SNEAK UP ON PIRATES

Half-game Behind; Cubs Face Last Place Phillies.

By Les Conklin.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—The Chicago Cubs, held even by Brooklyn and badly battered by Boston, are due for a welcome change of diet today when they face the last-place Phillies. The Pirates, however, face tough opposition in Boston, as there is bitter feeling between the two teams because of the Smith-Bancroft feud.

In the only game played yesterday, the St. Louis Cardinals advanced to within half a game of the Bucs by swamping the Phillies, 13 to 3. The game was a home run orgy. Four St. Louis players, Blades, Hafey, Schuble and Sherdel, hit for the circuit. The Cards have won six out of seven on their eastern trip.

The Detroit Tigers, with just a chinaman's chance of nosing out the Yankees, begin a series with the league leaders today. Detroit has won thirteen straight and the Yanks have dropped four in a row, their longest losing streak of the season. Detroit's string of victories is the longest of the current season in the American League.

By winning eighteen of their remaining thirty-seven games, the Hugmen can reach 100 victories this season.

The Yankees are going in for pitchers in a big way. They have signed Ralph Birkover, 18-year-old Cincinnati amateur who wheighs 220 pounds.

DEMPSEY IS TAKING NO CHANCE

Orders Training Ring Lowered to Ground.

By Gene Hoffman.

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—Mindful of the time he was knocked through the ropes by Luis Firpo, Jack Dempsey has ordered his practice ring at Lincoln Fields, where he is training for his "comeback" battle with Gene Tunney, lowered to within one foot of the ground.

Jack intends to take no chances on injuring himself. While he does not fear the possibility that any of his sparring mates will encore the feat of Firpo, he reasons there is always a chance of slipping through the ropes. He therefore regards the elevated ring a serious menace to his physical well-being.

Further scrutiny of the squared arena revealed that neither the posts nor the sharp edges were padded. Jack also ordered these taken care of.

"I can't afford to take any chances," said Dempsey. "There is too much at stake. I slipped out of the ring several times at Saratoga Springs where I trained for Sharkey. But that ring was only eight inches off the ground and I didn't hurt myself."

Leo P. Flynn, generalissimo of the Dempsey camp, announced that only newspapermen and attendants will be admitted to the camp until Dempsey begins his boxing sessions, scheduled for next week.

In the meantime the ex-champ is confining his activities to road work and shadow boxing. On account of rain yesterday he did his road work on an indoor treadmill, covering the equivalent of three miles of the road.

SMOKY JOE'S CLUBBERS AT CHESTER

Homestead Grays-Superior Cords Play at 5:30.

Feing two tough City league games with K. T. K. and Turk Nash on successive days, Thursday and Friday, Manager "Punk" Riley of the Superior Cords today was still pondering his pitching selection for this afternoon's clash with the famous Homestead Grays.

The game will be played at Smith Field, beginning at 5:30 o'clock.

If Lefty Crandall, who worked against Laughlin last night, can come back Friday, then Herman, who pitched against the Beaver Falls Elks last week, will be in shape to work today's contst. But if Crandall needs more rest, then Herman will get the Friday assignment, with Curly Evans probably working Thursday against the Katies.

The Grays will bring with them the celebrated Smoky Joe Williams, who, on the shady side of 50, is still pitching winning ball. He has a row of 17 straight victories as one of his achievments for the season and a total of 27 victories, all told, against four defeats.

The Grays are never beaten until the last man is out, as witness the result of a recent game at Marion. Going into the ninth inning a run behind, the Grays began a bombardment of base hits that accounted for 12 runs. Included in the barrage were three home runs, one by Smoky Joe, one by Vic Harris and the third by Riggins, third sacker.

STARS FACING STRONG FIELD

Class of Opposition and Result of Pairings Makes Anything Possible as First Round Opens.

By Davis J. Walsh.

MINIKHADA CLUB, MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 24.—Off they go on the great adventure.

The first round of the national amateur golf championship was to be held on Minikhada course this morning and great was to be the excitement thereof. After a play-off in which seven cut of eleven contestants were to qualify, the following matches were scheduled for today:

George Von Elm, champion, vs John McKinlay, Jr.

Rudy Knepper, Sioux City, vs Harry Legg, Minneapolis.

Roland Mackenzie, Washington, D. C., vs George Thomas, Chicago.

Howard Walton, Chicago, vs David Martin, Los Angeles.

Chick Evans, Chicago, vs Ellsworth Augustus, Cleveland.

D. Ward, Chicago, vs Allen Moser, Los Angeles.

Eddie Held, St. Louis, vs Dexer Cummings, Chicago.

Paul Haviland, Bridgeport, vs Arthur Yates, Rochester.

Francis Ouimet, Boston, vs Billy Sixty, Milwaukee.

Densmore Shute, Huntington, W. Va., vs Max Marston, Philadelphia.

Clarke Corkran, Philadelphia, vs George V. Rotan, Houston, Texas.

Dr. O. F. Willing, Portland, vs Phillips Finley, Shinnecock Hills.

Harrison Johnston, Minneapolis, vs Dick Jones, New York.

Don Carrick, Toronto, vs Arthur Sweet, Chicago.

Bobby Jones, Atlanta, vs Maurice McCarthy, Brooklyn.

Eugene V. Homans, Englewood, N. J., vs Frank Dolp, Portland, Ore.

It was a great series of matches that was on for the first round today and almost any of them would do. Offhand the meetings between Evans and Augustus, Knepper and Legg, Held and Cummings, Shute and Marston, Corkran and Rotan, Johnston and Dick Jones, Bobby Jones and McCarthy and Homans and Dolp would fill the Polo grounds on a rainy Thursday. What they will do here today is only a matter of conjecture but very likely before the day is over there will be a gallery of 5,000 if there is one, and that one happens to be the chief marshal of the gallery, if any.

In brief this was to be a first round of first rounds in a national championship. Seldom if ever and at all, have they managed or contrived to bring together fighting golfers of the type of that must meet on the links this morning.

Considering the type of opposition it even was possible that the Emperor Jones himself and in person might pass out in the first round. Possible, but not probable; still he had to beat a golfer, a real golfer, and that was true of nearly every match that was scheduled for the round.

The good ones had to be good; if they weren't they would quit being good hurriedly and without further notice.

There were plenty of interesting matches on the first 18 holes of the two round schedules of match play. In the early schedule, the writer would pick, if he had the time, which he hasn't, the following meetings by preference:

That meeting between Evans, still a great golfer, and Augustus, always a great competitor; Rudy Knepper and Harry Legg, a pair of good scorers under customary conditions; the clash between Cummins and Held, a pair of gamecocks and the equally interesting meeting between Haviland and Yates, to say nothing of the Corkran-Rotan match.

Consider also the coupling of Johnston and Dick Jones, the clash of Willing, the veteran, and Finlay, the cub; the jowl to jowl advénture to Corkran and Rotan, low scorers both; and the possibility, that and nothing more, that Maurice McCarthy, of old Flatbush, might go simple enough to outshoot Bobby the only and original Jones.

There was drama, anyhow, awaiting even the most casual observer in almost any match of the first round. Imagine going out and following a couple of sharpshooters like Bobby Jones and McCarthy. The point is that probably 10,000 people will imagine this before the round starts and that Bobby will not be able to make a mashie niblick pitch without taking turf and a gent's heel at the same time.

Superior Cords Increase Lead In City League Flag Drive

Lefty Crandall Is Victor Over Grimm In Shutout Contest

More Than 3,000 Fans See 3-0 Battle at Smith Field; Miscues at Plate Handicap Laughlin Club.

Chester Superior Cords today are a full game ahead of the field in general and Laughlin in particular in a torrid second half City Industrial league race as a result of a shutout victory over the Potters last evening at Smith Field.

The clash ended with the count 3 to 0 in favor of Lefty Crandall and his cohorts. A crowd estimated at around 3,000, with probably 500 automobiles surrounding the field, the record attendance to date, took in the battle.

Laughlin has won 10 and lost three. The Superior Cords have won 10 and lost one, but still have a decision in the K. T. K. game hanging fire.

Lacking two regular outfielders, Billy Watson, who turned an ankle in the K. T. K. game, and Ronald Crawford, who is out of the city, Manager Pearl Dailey was forced to shift his lineup about. Webber moved over from right to middle and Bubin went to right and Ranaldi to left. After a disastrous first inning when a couple of throws got past Lang, catching, Ranaldi came in and donned the pad and big mitt, Lang going to the outgarden. Manager Dailey later on took First Sacker Heckathorne, a left handed hitter, out of the lineup in favor of Lee Babb.

In the fourth, when Grimm allowed his first hits, two being bunched with a sacrifice, the single earned run of the game was made.

Crandall permitted but three safe hits, singles in the first, second and fourth by Webber, Sayres and Lang, respectively. Webber clouted with one gone but Lang and Herbert were retired at first, Bakosh and Scullion making the assists. One of Bakosh's stops at the hot corner was made with his bare hand, transforming a near hit into a putout at first.

Two were gone when Sayres lined one to middle. But Crandall stopped Bubin's drive and retired the side.

TAKE 2 LEFTY o1t

Grimm, former Cumberland pitcher, equalled Crandall's performance in the matter of hits, allowing but three.

Chappie Finley contributed an outstanding performance at short. He stopped everything that came his way except in the last frame when Crandall sneaked a hit past second base in the gathering darkness and his pegging was perfect. Grimm had six assists, but uncorked one wild heave to second.

Crandall struck out seven and did not issue a single walk.

Johnny Evans opened the first frame with a walk. Wilde, on a sacrifice play, was safe at first when Heckathorne dropped Grimm's assist. Melchori was out bunting the third strike, and Evans scored on a passed ball. Conners stole second as Pete Cebula fanned. Wilde finished the circuit on another toss that got by Lang. Ranaldi then was called in. McConnell retired the side, Herbert to Heckathorne.

Conners opened the last half of the fourth with a single to right. Grimm attempted a quick return delivery on Pete Cebula and the latter, sticking his bat into the pitch, laid down a perfect bunt along the third base line. Herbert made a quick pickup and picked off Pete at first. McConnell doubled down the left field line into the crowd, scoring Conners. On a low throw by Grimm to second to get McConnell off base, the ball went into middle and McConnell to third. Bakosh fanned. Scullion drove to Grimm who threw to Ranaldi at the plate, cutting off McConnell.

Sherwood Wins From Cleaners

In a Community league game sprinkled plentifully with errors, the Sherwood nine won from Skid's Cleaners, 10 to 2, last evening at Sherwood.

Eight miscues were chalked up against the Cleaners and five against the Cardinals. Watson and Walker, of Sherwood, and Fry, of the Cleaners, with two hits apiece in three times up, were the leading clouters. The rival pitchers performed more consistently on the defense than their support, Powell having five assists and Mackall six.

Rule Britton Out; "too Old"

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—Jack Britton, former welterweight champion of the world, has lost his boxing license in New York state and will not be permitted to return to the ring against Georgie Levine here next Monday because he is "too old to fight."

The New York boxing commission cancelled Britton's license because he is forty years old, three years beyond the age limit.

NEW 880-YARD SWIM MARK SET

HONOLULU, Aug. 24.—A new world's record for the 880-yard swimming relay was owned by the fast Illinois Athletic club squad today. Competing in the national swimming championship here, the Illinois team of Weismuller, Halleren, Miller and Kimball, paddled the 880 yards in 9:35 clipping eight seconds from the old record.

The I. A. C. quartet defeated the Outrigger club team by fifteen yards. The Outrigger team was made up of Newport E. Crabbe, Sam Kahanamoku, and C. Crabbe. Johnny Weismuller's time was 2.15 3-5.

Earlier, Weismuller made a new world record in the 100 meters. Swimming a trial race, he crawled the distance in 58 1-5 seconds.

CARDINALS SNEAK UP ON PIRATES

Half-game Behind; Cubs Face Last Place Phillies.

By Les Conklin.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—The Chicago Cubs, held even by Brooklyn and badly battered by Boston, are due for a welcome change of diet today when they face the last-place Phillies. The Pirates, however, face tough opposition in Boston, as there is bitter feeling between the two teams because of the Smith-Bancroft feud.

In the only game played yesterday, the St. Louis Cardinals advanced to within half a game of the Bucs by swamping the Phillies, 13 to 3. The game was a home run orgy. Four St. Louis players, Blades, Hafey, Schuble and Sherdel, hit for the circuit. The Cards have won six out of seven on their eastern trip.

The Detroit Tigers, with just a chinaman's chance of nosing out the Yankees, begin a series with the league leaders today. Detroit has won thirteen straight and the Yanks have dropped four in a row, their longest losing streak of the season. Detroit's string of victories is the longest of the current season in the American League.

By winning eighteen of their remaining thirty-seven games, the Hugmen can reach 100 victories this season.

The Yankees are going in for pitchers in a big way. They have signed Ralph Birkover, 18-year-old Cincinnati amateur who wheighs 220 pounds.

DEMPSEY IS TAKING NO CHANCE

Orders Training Ring Lowered to Ground.

By Gene Hoffman.

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—Mindful of the time he was knocked through the ropes by Luis Firpo, Jack Dempsey has ordered his practice ring at Lincoln Fields, where he is training for his "comeback" battle with Gene Tunney, lowered to within one foot of the ground.

Jack intends to take no chances on injuring himself. While he does not fear the possibility that any of his sparring mates will encore the feat of Firpo, he reasons there is always a chance of slipping through the ropes. He therefore regards the elevated ring a serious menace to his physical well-being.

Further scrutiny of the squared arena revealed that neither the posts nor the sharp edges were padded. Jack also ordered these taken care of.

"I can't afford to take any chances," said Dempsey. "There is too much at stake. I slipped out of the ring several times at Saratoga Springs where I trained for Sharkey. But that ring was only eight inches off the ground and I didn't hurt myself."

Leo P. Flynn, generalissimo of the Dempsey camp, announced that only newspapermen and attendants will be admitted to the camp until Dempsey begins his boxing sessions, scheduled for next week.

In the meantime the ex-champ is confining his activities to road work and shadow boxing. On account of rain yesterday he did his road work on an indoor treadmill, covering the equivalent of three miles of the road.

SMOKY JOE'S CLUBBERS AT CHESTER

Homestead Grays-Superior Cords Play at 5:30.

Feing two tough City league games with K. T. K. and Turk Nash on successive days, Thursday and Friday, Manager "Punk" Riley of the Superior Cords today was still pondering his pitching selection for this afternoon's clash with the famous Homestead Grays.

The game will be played at Smith Field, beginning at 5:30 o'clock.

If Lefty Crandall, who worked against Laughlin last night, can come back Friday, then Herman, who pitched against the Beaver Falls Elks last week, will be in shape to work today's contst. But if Crandall needs more rest, then Herman will get the Friday assignment, with Curly Evans probably working Thursday against the Katies.

The Grays will bring with them the celebrated Smoky Joe Williams, who, on the shady side of 50, is still pitching winning ball. He has a row of 17 straight victories as one of his achievments for the season and a total of 27 victories, all told, against four defeats.

The Grays are never beaten until the last man is out, as witness the result of a recent game at Marion. Going into the ninth inning a run behind, the Grays began a bombardment of base hits that accounted for 12 runs. Included in the barrage were three home runs, one by Smoky Joe, one by Vic Harris and the third by Riggins, third sacker.

Toronto Pitcher Defeats Reading; No-Hit, No-Run Tilt

Class of Opposition and Result of Pairings Makes Anything Possible as First Round Opens.

MINIKHADA CLUB, MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 24.—Off they go on the great adventure.

The first round of the national amateur golf championship was to be held on Minikhada course this morning and great was to be the excitement thereof. After a play-off in which seven cut of eleven contestants were to qualify, the following matches were scheduled for today:

Under a thousand!

The 1928 Special Six Sedan by Chandler— $995 f. o. b. factory

FOR exceptional beauty, style and richness, for exceptional power, pep and hardihood, for exceptional comfort—this 1928 Special Six Sedan by Chandler is judged as the most spectacular six-cylinder value ever built for less than a thousand dollars.

Everywhere, from one end of the country to the other, it is regarded as a miracle for the money.

Everybody admires its fashionable design, its bristling power, its sparkling pick-up, its agility on hills. And its chassis can't, simply can't, develop squeaks—thanks to Chandler's "One Shot" lubrication system!

This new Special Six Sedan is fashioned after Chandler's magnificent 1928 Royal Eight. Just see it—and you'll see that we have built this car to sell itself.

The Way of the World

BY GROVE PATTERSON

CONSCIENCE AND CONVENTIONALITY.

The old phrase, "let your conscience be your guide," sets forth a fallacy. The conscience of one man or woman may be a sufficient and trustworthy guide. The conscience of another may be a complete failure as a guide. For conscience can die, or become so nearly dead that only the most shocking experiences can call it back to action. The standards of conventionality, some of them silly and stupid, are nevertheless of the highest value to civilization. They represent the accumulated experience of the race. There are certain things that can be done and cannot be done. Conventionality draws the lines. A sensitive conscience is a great asset in keeping folks on the right track--but it is not a 100 per cent guide.

SENTIMENTAL POWER.

Sentiment is about the most powerful thing in the world. Timber experts say it is poor policy to teach children to plant a tree on Arbor day and let them put a tree in the house on Christmas day. True enough--reforestation and Christmas don't work well together. But so long as there is still sweetness and love and light in the human heart Christmas will win. There are some things that rise above all practical considerations.

WORDS, WORDS, WORDS.

Read these lines by Elihu Root and be silent: "I think the power of coal saved in our locomotives is a little less than 5 per cent, and the loss is 95 per cent. If there is that loss in the power of coal you may multiply it by 100 to obtain an idea of the loss of the vast multitude of words that are poured out upon the people of America day by day and night by night--words upon words in logs, and there is not one-tenth of one-hundredth of 1 per cent of them which makes a lodgement and amounts to anything in the minds to which they are addressed."

AS TO REFORM.

It is the business of reformers to worry about regulations for the purpose of getting to do things in a better way. Most of us, as we grow older, have less and less desire to make rules for the governing of the habits of others. Of course the great problem of reform is to get people to want to improve themselves. Probably no professional and businesslike organization will ever quite achieve that task.

APPEARANCE DOES COUNT.

Experts now say personal appearance shouldn't count for much in deciding among applicants for jobs. Dress and cleanliness are minimized. The fact remains that they DO count and ALWAYS WILL COUNT, whether they should or not.

EAST LIVERPOOL REVIEW-TRIBUNE

FINAL EDITION

VOL. XLVII. NO. 246. EAST LIVERPOOL, OHIO, WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 24, 1927. PAGE ELEVEN

SYNOPSIS.

JOHN MOORE, New York business man, goes to Tucson, Ariz., on business, expecting to return to New York the next day. He meets a college associate, Philip Morton, who has business in Mexico. Both drink heavily of tequila and in the subsequent mixup in identity Moore finds himself in Mexico.

He has in his possession a portrait of a girl which had been Morton's. The girl, Ruth Henshaw, sends her ambassador, Ramon, to tell the supposed Morton that she will meet him at the church at Tubutama. She needs his help. He meets her, also Clench, an associate of her uncle's, and all go to the ranch, where John meets Lopez, Roderiguez and Barton Henshaw, the uncle. He learns that Morton's business with these men had to do with the secret importation of arms into Mexico.

Wong, Chinese cook, tells Moore to take Ruth away soon. John arranges with Ramon to have horses waiting to take them. Then Clench is murdered and Henshaw tries to fasten the murder on John.

John hears the sound of a motor, then Ruth's cry. He finds Wong lying beside the auto, stabbed to death. He goes to Ruth's room, holding Henshaw, Lopez and Roderiguez at the point of his gun, and directs her to come out. John, with Ruth's help, ties up the three men and he and Ruth ride away.

CHAPTER THIRTY-ONE.

There was a Mexican blanket on a wooden settee by the fireplace. John picked it up.

"No!" exclaimed the girl. "Do not cover him. He lived in the coverings of a cook. Let him alone now!"

And so, together, they left him there.

Again they were in the room with the three bound men on the floor.

"Where are the keys, do you know, to the outer doors?"

"In the gun cabinet."

John found them. "Listen a moment, Miss Henshaw. I want to lock these men into this house."

"There is only the kitchen door to the courtyard, which I bolted, and the dining room door to the garden. You have that key."

"Then we'll go. They'll find these men some time."

Back through the dining room to the great iron-barred garden door. The girl passed out; then John. He closed and locked the door.

The cold dawn was filtering through the garden as they mounted the terraces. The girl looked neither to left nor right. But the man looked everywhere. He was satisfied that he had done all he could to insure them a free head-start. He must see Ramon and tell him to turn those men over to the local authorities for murder—if he could manage it. If not, Ramon could at least delay releasing them until the girl and himself were far on their way. And that was all he asked of Fate—a head-start on the trail.

As he opened the door that led from the living room to the hilltop a dove wailed behind them. "Who's that? Who's that? Who's that?" it called.

"Hush," breathed the girl. "Do you hear that dove calling? I heard it last night. I could not sleep."

"I heard it," said John Moore. "Come."

But the girl stood still. "It stopped when you shot Clench—"

"Listen," said John. "I did not shoot Clench. No one did. He was stabbed with a hunting knife, just as Wong was."

A long shudder shook the girl.

"Come!" said John gently. "We must be gone from here.

He closed the door. There was no lock on the outside.

"Down that path," he directed the girl and she walked blindly where he pointed.

Where the hill dipped, John turned back for a last look at the great brick house. The door he had closed but a moment since swung open and a man stepped out. Seeing John, he darted inside again. But John had recognized him. It was Pedro, the chauffeur.

"The dove saw him!" was John's sudden thought; then, "We still have time. He won't follow us alone.' To the girl he said only, "We must go faster."

Together they sped down the hill and up the arroyo.

Beneath the palo verde tree where John Moore had stopped to laugh at his own precautionary measures stood Ramon with two saddled horses. The two men did not greet each other; they had no need of that. "Up," said John to the girl. She touched his hand with her foot and swung into her saddle.

"Start up the trail," said John to the girl. "I'll tell Ramon to release the men after a while."

"Good-bye Ramon," said Ruth, "and, thank you."

"Para nada, senorita," replied Ramon, simply. "De senor—he come."

As the girl moved forward John bent low on the neck of his horse. "Henshaw murdered Wong and Clench. I tied him with Roderiguez and Manuel and left them locked in the room off the dining room. I wounded Roderiguez and Manuel. But Henshaw is the one—look out for him. Roderiguez is a lamb beside him. Pedro, the chauffeur, followed us out on the hill. Head him off from releasing the others if you can. But don't take too many chances. We have a head-start."

"De horses are all out but dese, senor. What shall I do wid de bad men?"

"The police—?"

Ramon shrugged his shoulders hopelessly.

"Then just do your darndest! You'll hear from me soon. And see me as soon as I can manage it. Hasta luego, Ambassador! What's that—?"

Far away came the purr of a motor car.

"Good-bye!" called John, as he clapped heels to his horse.

He overtook the girl where the trail emerged from a clump of trees beside the dry stream bed into the open. The motor car was nearer now.

"Wait," said John, his hand on her horse's neck. "This is a much traveled road, this one in front of us?"

"The road from Magdalena."

"Ah! We'll wait in these trees and see—"

The girl dropped listlessly in her saddle.

A car swept around the bend of the road, towards them, passed them by.

"Ah!" said John Moore again. He lifted his hand to the girl's shoulder and gripped it. "Listen to me! Pedro is inside the big house now—and that man who passed was Morton. Wake up, girl. For Wong's sake—wake up!"

Slowly she looked up at him as if stirred from sleep.

John Moore smiled at her. "Good girl!" he cried. "Now, ride!"

From dawn to noon, from noon to dusk they had ridden the mountain trail beneath laden, sullen skies.

And now, with the dusk, came the rain. Great wind-driven sheets of it swinging from cliff to cliff down the valley, curtaining the mountain peaks from view and veiling the rocky gorge of the Fresnal in cold wet mist.

John Moore, watching it come swore to himself. "Damn the rain! She can't stand being wet. She's exhausted now."

The horses were picking their way among the rocks of the river bed. This was now merely a sandy wash, confined between great rock walls. It was the route the Ambassador had chosen—unless it should rain. John wondered how long it would be before a swift torrent might be tumbling over these rocks. He had heard of the sudden floods of this country.

He scanned the sides of the gulch. Straight and sheer they towered upward. Even these cow-ponies could not scale them! And according to Ramon they extended some four or five miles further. Could the horses make it in time? They were tired. The girl must be desperately so. She might be unable to go much farther without rest. She had ridden steadily all day, except for the two hours shelter from the rain, a fire against the cold night air, and hot food.

It did not occur to him that he might be unable to compel shelter for her from this wilderness of rocks and hills. Shelter she should have.

"Miss Henshaw," he said, "let's stop and hold a council of war."

Both horses stopped.

Ruth looked up at the man beside her. The cold wet wind had whipped the pink into her cheeks and beaded her hair with mist. But there were deep shadows beneath her eyes and her slender body drooped wearily in her saddle. Her hands rested one above the other on the saddlehorn while she waited for John Moore to speak again. She waited passively. She was too tired to wonder why he hesitated.

He was gazing down at her with a cheerful, pleasant expression—the one he had worn all day. She did not know that at this moment it required all of his will to maintain that expression; nor that the muscles of his throat had contracted until he could not speak.

"I am killing her!" he thought. "She is completely worn out and I have to make her go on still." He gripped his horse with his knees until the animal moved uneasily. "If I dared let her rest awhile—if I might lift her down from her saddle—she is only a tired tried child now—and let her rest."

He forced his gaze away from her, up the mist-filled gorge. But the refrain in his heart beat its way into his consciousness and throbbed there. "Let her rest—in my arms—in my arms."

The gray curtain of the rain swung nearer and a few drops struck his upturned face. Immediately he turned and spoke as he swung himself down from his horse. "It looks as if we are in for a wetting, young lady. Take off your coat. Quickly!" He pulled Morton's fancy green sweater over his head and handed it up to her. "Put this on under your coat."

"Not your sweater; you'll be cold, too."

"Rot. Do as I tell you. Here. Hustle. I'll put on my coat."

He untied his coat from the back of his saddle and slipped into it. Then he stooped to pick up small twigs littered among the rocks.

"Are you going to build a fire here?" Ruth asked.

For answer he stuffed the twigs into his pockets and then proceeded to fill all the crevices of the saddle bags with them; smiling as if amused the while.

VOL. XLVII. NO. 246. EAST LIVERPOOL, OHIO, WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 24, 1927. PAGE ELEVEN

SYNOPSIS.

JOHN MOORE, New York business man, goes to Tucson, Ariz., on business, expecting to return to New York the next day. He meets a college associate, Philip Morton, who has business in Mexico. Both drink heavily of tequila and in the subsequent mixup in identity Moore finds himself in Mexico.

He has in his possession a portrait of a girl which had been Morton's. The girl, Ruth Henshaw, sends her ambassador, Ramon, to tell the supposed Morton that she will meet him at the church at Tubutama. She needs his help. He meets her, also Clench, an associate of her uncle's, and all go to the ranch, where John meets Lopez, Roderiguez and Barton Henshaw, the uncle. He learns that Morton's business with these men had to do with the secret importation of arms into Mexico.

Wong, Chinese cook, tells Moore to take Ruth away soon. John arranges with Ramon to have horses waiting to take them. Then Clench is murdered and Henshaw tries to fasten the murder on John.

John hears the sound of a motor, then Ruth's cry. He finds Wong lying beside the auto, stabbed to death. He goes to Ruth's room, holding Henshaw, Lopez and Roderiguez at the point of his gun, and directs her to come out. John, with Ruth's help, ties up the three men and he and Ruth ride away.

CHAPTER THIRTY-ONE.

There was a Mexican blanket on a wooden settee by the fireplace. John picked it up.

"No!" exclaimed the girl. "Do not cover him. He lived in the coverings of a cook. Let him alone now!"

And so, together, they left him there.

Again they were in the room with the three bound men on the floor.

"Where are the keys, do you know, to the outer doors?"

"In the gun cabinet."

John found them. "Listen a moment, Miss Henshaw. I want to lock these men into this house."

"There is only the kitchen door to the courtyard, which I bolted, and the dining room door to the garden. You have that key."

"Then we'll go. They'll find these men some time."

Back through the dining room to the great iron-barred garden door. The girl passed out; then John. He closed and locked the door.

The cold dawn was filtering through the garden as they mounted the terraces. The girl looked neither to left nor right. But the man looked everywhere. He was satisfied that he had done all he could to insure them a free head-start. He must see Ramon and tell him to turn those men over to the local authorities for murder—if he could manage it. If not, Ramon could at least delay releasing them until the girl and himself were far on their way. And that was all he asked of Fate—a head-start on the trail.

As he opened the door that led from the living room to the hilltop a dove wailed behind them. "Who's that? Who's that? Who's that?" it called.

"Hush," breathed the girl. "Do you hear that dove calling? I heard it last night. I could not sleep."

"I heard it," said John Moore. "Come."

But the girl stood still. "It stopped when you shot Clench—"

"Listen," said John. "I did not shoot Clench. No one did. He was stabbed with a hunting knife, just as Wong was."

A long shudder shook the girl.

"Come!" said John gently. "We must be gone from here."

He closed the door. There was no lock on the outside.

"Down that path," he directed the girl and she walked blindly where he pointed.

Where the hill dipped, John turned back for a last look at the great brick house. The door he had closed but a moment since swung open and a man stepped out. Seeing John, he darted inside again. But John had recognized him. It was Pedro, the chauffeur.

"The dove saw him!" was John's sudden thought; then, "We still have time. He won't follow us alone.' To the girl he said only, "We must go faster."

Together they sped down the hill and up the arroyo.

Beneath the palo verde tree where John Moore had stopped to laugh at his own precautionary measures stood Ramon with two saddled horses. The two men did not greet each other; they had no need of that. "Up," said John to the girl. She touched his hand with her foot and swung into her saddle.

"Start up the trail," said John to the girl. "I'll tell Ramon to release the men after a while."

"Good-bye Ramon," said Ruth, "and, thank you."

"Para nada, senorita," replied Ramon, simply. "De senor—he come."

As the girl moved forward John bent low on the neck of his horse. "Henshaw murdered Wong and Clench. I tied him with Roderiguez and Manuel and left them locked in the room off the dining room. "De horses are all out but dese, senor. What shall I do wid de bad men?"

"The police—?"

SCOUTMASTER FILES REPORT

Cost of Camp Operation at Lake Placentia Detailed.

Boy Scouts who enrolled at the summer camp at Lake Placentia at North Georgetown during the seven week term during the last summer were fed at a cost of 72 cents per diem, according to a report compiled by County Scoutmaster C. E. Felton and filed with the county council. The total cost of feeding the boys while in camp for the entire period was $1,750.49.

At the close of the season the operation of the camp showed a deficit of $476.63, but this is covered by a budget charge of $500 designated before the opening of the camp for a possible deficit.

Boy Scouts paid $5 per week for their stay in camp, and a total of 313 Scout weeks is disclosed by the report. From this source $1,565 has been received by those in authority. From other sources, and including the money paid for board by the campers the receipts for the season totaled $1,658.80. The total expenditure for the camp season was $2,135.43.

Twenty troops of Boy Scouts were represented during the camping season, 130 boys being enrolled.

The 10 leaders who took part in the camp work included County Scoutmaster C. E. Felton, as director; Kenneth Jones, Dr. Holzbacher, medical examiner; Homer Herman, Bugler; Donald Poole, life saving instructor; Lewis Moore swimming instructor; Fred Detwiler, nature study; Charles Lewton, William Baker and Paul Conrad assisting in different phases of boy scout work.

During the camp season 23 boys passed the "tenderfoot" tests and 12 boys passed second class. Six boys passed to first class, and during the season 58 merit badges were passed. Only the badges required to become an Eagle Scout were taught, such as bird study, outdoor cooking, pioneering, life saving, swimming and wood carving. Every boy in camp learned to swim there being 20 in the latter class to receive instruction. Seventeen boys passed the Junior Red Cross life saving examination, and one became a senior life saver. One scout became an examiner.

"There were no serious accidents while the boys were in camp," Felton declared, "and there were only two cases of home sickness. No property was destroyed, and the Lake Placentia Co., congratulated the boys upon their good behavior. Five adult persons were rescued from the lake by the boy scouts, these being strangers who visited the park."

The county council is interested in obtaining a permanent camping spot for the Columbiana County Boy Scout organization. It has been suggested that a site with ample water be procured later which would be used only for scout camp purposes.

Expenditures during the camp season included groceries, butter and eggs $773.92; meat and fish $340.77; milk $203; ice $15; cook $290; assistant cook $82.80; miscellaneous expenditures which include rental of camp site, equipment, pipe, lumber and training school $384.94.

SCOUTMASTER FILES REPORT

Cost of Camp Operation at Lake Placentia Detailed.

Boy Scouts who enrolled at the summer camp at Lake Placentia at North Georgetown during the seven week term during the last summer were fed at a cost of 72 cents per diem, according to a report compiled by County Scoutmaster C. E. Felton and filed with the county council. The total cost of feeding the boys while in camp for the entire period was $1,750.49.

At the close of the season the operation of the camp showed a deficit of $476.63, but this is covered by a budget charge of $500 designated before the opening of the camp for a possible deficit.

Boy Scouts paid $5 per week for their stay in camp, and a total of 313 Scout weeks is disclosed by the report. From this source $1,565 has been received by those in authority. From other sources, and including the money paid for board by the campers the receipts for the season totaled $1,658.80. The total expenditure for the camp season was $2,135.43.

Twenty troops of Boy Scouts were represented during the camping season, 130 boys being enrolled.

The 10 leaders who took part in the camp work included County Scoutmaster C. E. Felton, as director; Kenneth Jones, Dr. Holzbacher, medical examiner; Homer Herman, Bugler; Donald Poole, life saving instructor; Lewis Moore swimming instructor; Fred Detwiler, nature study; Charles Lewton, William Baker and Paul Conrad assisting in different phases of boy scout work.

During the camp season 23 boys passed the "tenderfoot" tests and 12 boys passed second class. Six boys passed to first class, and during the season 58 merit badges were passed. Only the badges required to become an Eagle Scout were taught, such as bird study, outdoor cooking, pioneering, life saving, swimming and wood carving. Every boy in camp learned to swim there being 20 in the latter class to receive instruction. Seventeen boys passed the Junior Red Cross life saving examination, and one became a senior life saver. One scout became an examiner.

"There were no serious accidents while the boys were in camp," Felton declared, "and there were only two cases of home sickness. No property was destroyed, and the Lake Placentia Co., congratulated the boys upon their good behavior. Five adult persons were rescued from the lake by the boy scouts, these being strangers who visited the park."

The county council is interested in obtaining a permanent camping spot for the Columbiana County Boy Scout organization. It has been suggested that a site with ample water be procured later which would be used only for scout camp purposes.

Expenditures during the camp season included groceries, butter and eggs $773.92; meat and fish $340.77; milk $203; ice $15; cook $290; assistant cook $82.80; miscellaneous expenditures which include rental of camp site, equipment, pipe, lumber and training school $384.94.

Magnesia Best for Your Indigestion

Most people who suffer, either occasionally or chronically from gas, sourness and indigestion, have now discontinued disagreeable diet, patent foods and the use of harmful drugs, stomach tonics, medicines and artificial digestants, and instead, following the advice so often given in these columns, take a teaspoonful or four tablets of Bisurated Magnesia in a little water after meals with the result that their stomach no longer troubles them, they are able to eat as they please and they enjoy much better health. Those who use Bisurated Magnesia never dread the approach of meal time because they know this wonderful anti-acid and food corrective, which can be obtained from any good drug store, will instantly neutralize the stomach acidity, sweeten the stomach, prevent food fermentation, and make digestion easy. Try this plan yourself, but be certain to get Bisurated Magnesia especially prepared for stomach use.

BEEF CATTLE AT STATE FAIR

Proof that Ohio farmers know how to feed cattle for the production of juicy steaks and roasts will be in evidence, on the hoof, at the Ohio State Fair, August 29 to September 3.

A dozen carlots of fat cattle, steers brought from western ranges and fattened on Ohio farms, will be on exhibit this year as last year, under the supervision of live stock extension specialists of the Ohio State University and in cooperation with the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation and producers' commission firms.

Invitation to discuss, in open forum, the best way to produce good steaks at the lowest possible cost, will be extended to all who gather around the exhibit during State Fair week.

Since Ohio farmers repeatedly ask what part of the west the best feeder steers come from, the live stock extension men have arranged to have eight or ten cars of feeder cattle on view at the State Fair from as many different parts of the western range country, from Texas north to Montana.

Both feeder and fat cattle on exhibit will be sold at public auction at the close of the State Fair.

THE SERGEANT'S WERE GOOD SOLDIERS — THE WRECKAGE AT SHANGHAI MABEL'S — THE MILITARY POLICE SETTLED IT

FIRST EPISODE

IT STARTED back in Peking, where Sergt. Flagg and Sergt. Quirt were non-coms in the legation guard of the United States marines. The sergeants were good soldiers—both of them true to the best corps traditions, and both susceptible, as Shanghai Mabel discovered and proved to the satisfaction of the military police.

Sergt. Flagg had the pioneer spirit. He was easy to engage in amorous adventure, and the names of Maudes and Mamies and Daisies in a score of cities all over the world were tattooed on his brawny arms, and his chest and back bore likenesses to a portrait gallery of national beauties.

Legation guard life is leisurely but not always without its diversions—and diversions at this stage of the story was a synonym for Shanghai Mabel. Mabel had come to Peking out of the nowhere. Her next destination was as much a mystery as her last dwelling place.

What more natural than that Flagg's adventurous tendencies should involve Mabel also. The come-hither in Mabel's eye was as good as a command, and Sergt. Flagg pioneered in Mabel's affections.

Good soldiers are good followers as well as good leaders, and Sergt. Quirt found his way to Mabel's apartment without a compass. Flagg, who had brought offerings to the fair, resented the invasion. Quirt stayed, and Mabel's training in the diplomacy that deals with such situations between males equally well financed and therefore equally desirable, was unequal to the situation.

The incident was closed only after lively combat, the military police establishing peace after Mabel's apartment had been wrecked in the battle between the handsome sergeants.

MARCELINE DAY ROSE RAPIDLY

Girl in Barrymore Picture Entered Movies Two Years Ago.

Little more than two years ago, Marceline Day was attending high school at Venice, Calif., studying stenography. Through a trick of fate, she found herself drafted for a small "bit" in a motion picture. The movies promptly replaced stenography as her principal ambition and in the short time that has elapsed since her first screen test, she has come to be recognized as one of the most talented actresses in Hollywood at 17 years of age.

And now, at the critical point of her rapidly developing career, she appears in a feature role in "The Beloved Rogue," John Barrymore's first United Artists Pictures at the Ceramic theatre. On the strength of her showing in this elaborate screen classic her future is regarded as assured.

Cast as Charlotte de Vauxcelles, ward of Louis XI, eccentric ruler of France in the early fifteenth century, Marceline Day has been given a remarkable chance to shine brilliantly in innumerable scenes with the great Barrymore, who portrays France's famed vagabond poet, Francois Villon. She was selected for the part by Barrymore personally, because she fulfilled his idea of someone new, vibrant and girlish, for the most coveted role of its kind of the season. And these are the qualifications that enable her to accomplish her greatest stride towards stardom in "The Beloved Rogue."

Overjoyed at her selection for the role, Marceline said: "It is difficult for me to realize I am the luck girl to win this opportunity in 'The Beloved Rogue.' I feel it will mark the real turning point in my career, and whatever future seuccess I may have, I will owe largely to Mr. Barrymore, for he has given me my greatest chance."

PLAY FILMED ON BRINY DEEP

"Twelve Miles Out" was really filmed a hundred miles out!

This was decided upon when plans were completed for the sea scenes in John Gilbert's new Metro Goldwyn-Mayer starring vehicle, which is now showing at the American theatre. Gilbert, with Jack Conway, the director, sailed in an exact replica of a point some hundred miles west of Catalina, where thrilling races with revenue cutters and other graphic sea details were filmed.

The reason for the long trip is the difference between the Atlantic and the Pacific oceans. The Atlantic is so much rougher that at the twelve-mile limit the heavy waves that form an important part of the story may be seen, while on the Pacific the ocean is comparatively smooth for some eighty miles off the California coast. Beyond that the really waves, such as were necessary in story, begin.

The new picture is a vivid drama adventure on the high seas in which Gilbert plays the leading role as the nemesis of the ruler of a rum-running band headed by Ernest Torrence. Joan Crawford plays the heroine, and the cast includes Eileen Percy, Tom O'Brien, Bert Roach, Pauline Duval, Dorothy Sebastian, Gwen Lee and others of note.

It is an adaptation of William Anthony McGuire's stage play, directed by Jack Conway.

MARCELINE DAY ROSE RAPIDLY

Girl in Barrymore Picture Entered Movies Two Years Ago.

Little more than two years ago, Marceline Day was attending high school at Venice, Calif., studying stenography. Through a trick of fate, she found herself drafted for a small "bit" in a motion picture. The movies promptly replaced stenography as her principal ambition and in the short time that has elapsed since her first screen test, she has come to be recognized as one of the most talented actresses in Hollywood at 17 years of age.

And now, at the critical point of her rapidly developing career, she appears in a feature role in "The Beloved Rogue," John Barrymore's first United Artists Pictures at the Ceramic theatre. On the strength of her showing in this elaborate screen classic her future is regarded as assured.

Cast as Charlotte de Vauxcelles, ward of Louis XI, eccentric ruler of France in the early fifteenth century, Marceline Day has been given a remarkable chance to shine brilliantly in innumerable scenes with the great Barrymore, who portrays France's famed vagabond poet, Francois Villon. She was selected for the part by Barrymore personally, because she fulfilled his idea of someone new, vibrant and girlish, for the most coveted role of its kind of the season. And these are the qualifications that enable her to accomplish her greatest stride towards stardom in "The Beloved Rogue."

Overjoyed at her selection for the role, Marceline said: "It is difficult for me to realize I am the luck girl to win this opportunity in 'The Beloved Rogue.' I feel it will mark the real turning point in my career, and whatever future seuccess I may have, I will owe largely to Mr. Barrymore, for he has given me my greatest chance."

PLAY FILMED ON BRINY DEEP

"Twelve Miles Out" was really filmed a hundred miles out!

This was decided upon when plans were completed for the sea scenes in John Gilbert's new Metro Goldwyn-Mayer starring vehicle, which is now showing at the American theatre. Gilbert, with Jack Conway, the director, sailed in an exact replica of a point some hundred miles west of Catalina, where thrilling races with revenue cutters and other graphic sea details were filmed.

The reason for the long trip is the difference between the Atlantic and the Pacific oceans. The Atlantic is so much rougher that at the twelve-mile limit the heavy waves that form an important part of the story may be seen, while on the Pacific the ocean is comparatively smooth for some eighty miles off the California coast. Beyond that the really waves, such as were necessary in story, begin.

The new picture is a vivid drama adventure on the high seas in which Gilbert plays the leading role as the nemesis of the ruler of a rum-running band headed by Ernest Torrence. Joan Crawford plays the heroine, and the cast includes Eileen Percy, Tom O'Brien, Bert Roach, Pauline Duval, Dorothy Sebastian, Gwen Lee and others of note.

It is an adaptation of William Anthony McGuire's stage play, directed by Jack Conway.

STEPHENSON "CRACKS WHIP" TO SECURE PASSAGE OF MANY BILLS

STATE PRISON AT MICHIGAN CITY, IND., WHERE D. C. STEPHENSON IS SERVING A LIFE SENTENCE. OTHER PHOTOS ARE OF THE PRSON CHAPEL AND STEPHENSON, AT HIS MURDER TRIAL.

XIV.

By BONITA WITT,

Staff Writer for Central Press and Review-Tribune.

(Bills charged against Stephensonism in the Indiana legislature are many).

In the early days of 1925 the Indiana legislature began to feel the power of D. C. Stephenson, who insists he obtained the election of many of its members.

Stephenson disliked to hear himself mentioned as Indiana's dictator, preferring to remain in the background, a figure of mystery.

He delighted in his ability to make or break men and it was his frequent boast, "Give an ordinary man a shove and hell do the rest—it's a feat to take a monumental ass and make a man of him!"

"Cracking the Whip."

Determined to "get returns" on the money which he alleged he spent on the election of legislators, Stephenson cracked the whip early in 1925.

The most talked of bill which he succeeded in shoving through the assembly was a nutrition bill which compelled the superintendent of public instruction to purchase a book on diet for use in the schools. So sure was Stephenson that the book he had had written on nutrition by a doctor would be the one purchased that its printing was under way while the measure was still on the floor of the assembly and the plates are still in existence. He might have realized close to half a million dollars from royalties on the book had he been able to consummate the deal before his imprisonment for murder. In 1927 the bill was removed from the statute books.

Among the lesser bills passed, which are attributed to his influence, are two providing that the federal constitution be read in all schools, public and parochial. One making compulsory the reading of the Bible in schools was defeated.

Passed—But Not a Bill.

One bill which Stephenson worked to defeat provided that all eating places using oleomargarine in place of butter display signs to that effect. In spite of his opposition the bill passed and presumably was sent to the governor's office. Since that day it never has been seen. Whether it reached the governor's office has not been determined.

Interests opposing another bill are said to have had Stephenson kill it—and it was said to have been worth thousands of dollars to them to have it killed.

It is believed Stephenson hoped to gain the establishment of a central board of control for Indiana's 19 state institutions, but never introduced this proposal as a bill. These combined institutions receive approximately $7,500,000 a year in appropriations. Since only 5 or 6 per cent of this is spent for personal services, a large sum is left available for supplies, improvements, etc.

Charged to His Power.

The defeat of one bill requiring the posting of an excessive bond by pawnbrokers and another designed to abolish an "odor nuisance" from a packing house are traced to the former grand dragon's control over the lower house.

He was not, however, always successful. The "regular" Klan often deadlocked his efforts in the hope of crushing the man who, although expelled from their ranks, continued to "rule" Indiana.

Among the bills he failed to shove through the legislature, either because of Klan opposition or because he lacked votes in the senate, were a uniform text book law requiring that school books for each grade be uniform and a professional licensing bill providing for one secretary for all professional licensing boards. A corrupt secretary could have filled his pockets and those of the person who put him into office, with money gained from the issuance of illegal licenses. Another placed all state inspectors, including fish and game wardens, under one head.

A Friend's Opinion.

One man, an intimate friend of Stephenson in his palmy days, remarked to the writer: "Why all this outcry against 'Steve' because of his power in the state? Is it a crime to own a man politically? I think not. . . . However, it IS a crime to be owned politically."

The bill from which Stephenson and his political henchmen hoped to gain the most seems to have been a "road ripper" measure designed to change the setup of the highway commission. Several prominent politicians have been heard to remark: "I never would have supported the 'road ripper' had the governor not personally requested me to do so!"

But the measure was defeated and the subsequent attack on the highway commission paved the way for the investigations which are laying bare Stephenson's political secrets.

STEPHENSON "CRACKS WHIP" TO SECURE PASSAGE OF MANY BILLS

STATE PRISON AT MICHIGAN CITY, IND., WHERE D. C. STEPHENSON IS SERVING A LIFE SENTENCE. OTHER PHOTOS ARE OF THE PRSON CHAPEL AND STEPHENSON, AT HIS MURDER TRIAL.

XIV.

By BONITA WITT,

Staff Writer for Central Press and Review-Tribune.

(Bills charged against Stephensonism in the Indiana legislature are many).

In the early days of 1925 the Indiana legislature began to feel the power of D. C. Stephenson, who insists he obtained the election of many of its members.

Stephenson disliked to hear himself mentioned as Indiana's dictator, preferring to remain in the background, a figure of mystery.

He delighted in his ability to make or break men and it was his frequent boast, "Give an ordinary man a shove and he'll do the rest—it's a feat to take a monumental ass and make a man of him!"

"Cracking the Whip."

Determined to "get returns" on the money which he alleged he spent on the election of legislators, Stephenson cracked the whip early in 1925.

The most talked of bill which he succeeded in shoving through the assembly was a nutrition bill which compelled the superintendent of public instruction to purchase a book on diet for use in the schools. So sure was Stephenson that the book he had had written on nutrition by a doctor would be the one purchased that its printing was under way while the measure was still on the floor of the assembly and the plates are still in existence. He might have realized close to half a million dollars from royalties on the book had he been able to consummate the deal before his imprisonment for murder. In 1927 the bill was removed from the statute books.

Among the lesser bills passed, which are attributed to his influence, are two providing that the federal constitution be read in all schools, public and parochial. One making compulsory the reading of the Bible in schools was defeated.

Passed—But Not a Bill.

One bill which Stephenson worked to defeat provided that all eating places using oleomargarine in place of butter display signs to that effect. In spite of his opposition the bill passed and presumably was sent to the governor's office. Since that day it never has been seen. Whether it reached the governor's office has not been determined.

Interests opposing another bill are said to have had Stephenson kill it—and it was said to have been worth thousands of dollars to them to have it killed.

It is believed Stephenson hoped to gain the establishment of a central board of control for Indiana's 19 state institutions, but never introduced this proposal as a bill. These combined institutions receive approximately $7,500,000 a year in appropriations. Since only 5 or 6 per cent of this is spent for personal services, a large sum is left available for supplies, improvements, etc.

Charged to His Power.

The defeat of one bill requiring the posting of an excessive bond by pawnbrokers and another designed to abolish an "odor nuisance" from a packing house are traced to the former grand dragon's control over the lower house.

He was not, however, always successful. The "regular" Klan often deadlocked his efforts in the hope of crushing the man who, although expelled from their ranks, continued to "rule" Indiana.

Among the bills he failed to shove through the legislature, either because of Klan opposition or because he lacked votes in the senate, were a uniform text book law requiring that school books for each grade be uniform and a professional licensing bill providing for one secretary for all professional licensing boards. A corrupt secretary could have filled his pockets and those of the person who put him into office, with money gained from the issuance of illegal licenses. Another placed all state inspectors, including fish and game wardens, under one head.

A Friend's Opinion.

One man, an intimate friend of Stephenson in his palmy days, remarked to the writer: "Why all this outcry against 'Steve' because of his power in the state? Is it a crime to own a man politically? I think not. . . . However, it IS a crime to be owned politically."

The bill from which Stephenson and his political henchmen hoped to gain the most seems to have been a "road ripper" measure designed to change the setup of the highway commission. Several prominent politicians have been heard to remark: "I never would have supported the 'road ripper' had the governor not personally requested me to do so!"

But the measure was defeated and the subsequent attack on the highway commission paved the way for the investigations which are laying bare Stephenson's political secrets.

(Another Installment to Follow.)

In five months this year Honduras shipped more than 7,000,000 bunches of bananas to other countries.

WASHINGTON STEWART'S LETTER

CAPITAL FOLKS ARE EXPERTS AT POSING FOR PHOTOGRAPHS

Inclusive Central Press Dispatch to Review-Tribune.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—"A public man's usefulness seems to depend on the kind of photograph he takes."

This was a sarcastic crack I ran across the other day in an article I happened to be reading, commenting on the store politicians appear to set on getting effective-looking pictures of themselves before the voters in their various bailiwicks, or throughout the whole country, if they have ambitions on a national scale.

And never was a truer thing said in an ironical vein that this was.

THAT the right kind of a mug and general get-up mean ballots to a candidate on election day unquestionably is a theory with the overwhelming mass of expert testimony back of it. It's hardly possible to doubt its correctness—the belief in it's so nearly universal, on the part of those who actually have tested it, carefully.

A man may not want to resemble an Adonis. If he depends on hick support, he may want to look like a hick. If he depends on a labor constituency, he may want to look like a workingman. But he has an ideal that he wants to be called up to, whenever a cameraman's around.

Some of these folks are as finicky as any chorus girl. I've seen a congressman borrow his stenographer's vanity bag and powder his nose, to take the shine off, before posing.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE notably knows how to put his best foot foremost. Of course he's had a tremendous amount of practice. He doesn't go in for make-up but he knows all about lighting effects, pose, expression—how to make the most of himself. Frequently he gives useful tips to experienced photographers.

The president quite frankly realizes that he isn't naturally the type to make a very telling picture, but everything that science, art and good management can do to offset his unavoidable disadvantages he attends to, if the cameramen neglect it.

MRS. COOLIDGE isn't as particular as her husband—doesn't need to be—not that she lays any claims to the "Miss America" style of beauty, but she has good, substantial features and about the most attractive smile of any woman who ever lived in the White House.

THE Washington news photographers make a great point these times of getting their victims "in character," as they express it.

That is, if you're Chief Marvin of the weather bureau, they portray you pointing to a meteorological map; if you're Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, they try to persuade you to pose counting a stack of greenbacks; if you're Chairman Borah of the senate foreign relations committee, they "shoot" you with a world atlas under your arm.

EARLY in the last session of congress, Representative MacGregor of Buffalo, who, as chairman of the house accounts committee, has charge of the capitol restaurant, made a terrible howl about the quality of pie they were serving there.

The photographers persuaded him to visit the restaurant, order a quarter section of the pastry—blueberry—and, after biting out a semicircle, sit with the rest of it in his hand, chewing, and wearing a disgusted expression on his face, to indicate that he didn't like his mouthful, while they took about twenty "shots" of him.

It was "in character" allright but MacGregor didn't like it, when he saw it reproduced in the newspapers, as well as he'd expected to.

Funeral For Sacco, Vanzetti Sunday

BODIES WILL BE CREMATED AT FOREST HILLS BURIAL GROUND

Funeral Procession Will Be Within 200 Limit.

PLAN CAMPAIGN

Boston Police Guard is Reduced to Minimum.

BOSTON, Aug. 24.—While Communist riots were occurring in Paris and other European cities were reporting pitched battles, sympathizers of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti were meeting opposition here today in securing a hall in which to lay the two bodies in state.

Announce Line of March.

Carpenter, on orders from the owner, put up a barrier at the defense committee building. The Societa Salernitani hall, in the International Hod Carriers building on Salem street was hired but when the owner of the building, Mrs. Alice Twigg, heard of it she ordered a carpenter to board up the entrance to the building.

Unable to obtain any other hall, the defense committee decided that the undertaking parlors would have to be used but the undertaker objected because of the small space but agreeing if a hall was not obtained.

Meanwhile, it became known that police were strenuously objecting to a Sunday funeral demonstration on the ground that there would be an influx of strangers from outside communities.

Dr. Francis X. Mahoney, city health commissioner, was asked for permits to keep the bodies after sunset Friday, the time set for their disposal under city regulations.

Plans for a funeral procession Sunday—the bodies to be kept under special health department permits—were drawn up by the Sacco-Venzetti defense committee today.

First in the parade will come two empty black hearses. Behind the hearses will march eight men in mourning carrying the two caskets, four men to each casket. Then will come 50 official mourners. Behind the group of 50 will move automobiles with Mrs. Rose Sacco and Miss Luigia Vanzetti and other women mourners.

This brings the funeral procession number to within 200 required by the police regulations. Sacco-Vanzetti

TURNER FLAYS DRY LEAGUE

Attorney General Asserts Lobbyists Control Politics.

COLUMBUS, Aug. 24.—Attorney General Edward C. Turner, today was on record as designating anti-saloon league and public utility lobbyists as "two dangers of government."

"If the public is to get justice, a greater part of the public and, particularly, the business men, must take an active part in politics," said Turner, addressing the newly-organized junior chamber of commerce here Tuesday night.

The only way you are going to get relief from activities of lobbyists is by making yourself felt at the polls" continued Turner, "but if you continue to stay away from the polls and continue to let the lobbyists control politics, this government of our will soon be in danger."

Turner directed attention to activities of lobbyists during the last session of the Ohio legislature. He accused the anti-saloon league of jamming through the legislature the Marshall bill, fixing compensation for village and justices of the peace. Turner charged that the league's lobbyists "stood by" while corporation lobbyists defeated efforts to modify, in the interests of consumers, existing statutes regulating operation of public utilities.

Infantile Paralysis Breaks Out In Salem; Sunday Schools Close

COUNTY HEALTH OFFICIALS ACT

Opening of Schools on September 6 Will Not be Halted Unless Other Cases Develope, Heatlh Commissioner Church Announces.

Meetings of the Salem Sunday schools next Sunday have been ordered cancelled upon orders of county health authorities in a move to halt the spread of infantile paralysis in Columbiana county.

The first case to be reported in this county is a child in the home of Ray Christen on the Damascus road, just outside the city of Salem, which was quarantined Monday. Dr. T. T. Church, county health commissioner, has asked officials of the Friends church at Damascus to bar children from their yearly meeting and upon his instructions Junior chautauqua sessions in Salem have been called off.

While county health authorities are not alarmed over the discovery of a case of the disease in this county every possible measure will be used to halt further cases. Parents in Salem have been urged to keep their children off the streets and from congregating in picture shows and other places where contagious diseases would be most likely.

Opening of Salem schools on Tuesday, September 6, will not be delayed unless there is a more serious outbreak, Dr. Church claims.

Numerous cases of paralysis in Martins Ferry, New Philadelphia, Dover, Uhrichsville, Cleveland and other eastern Ohio places have been reported during recent weeks. There have been no cases reported in this city, according to local health board authorities.

COLUMBUS, Aug. 24.—City and county health authorities will be allowed to make their own regulations in regard to the opening of schools, which threatens to be delayed because of the appearance of infantile paralysis in many communities, Dr. C. P. Chandler chief of the state department of communicable diseases announced here today.

New cases reported to state health authorities today numbered but four, the lowest since August 13 when the disease became apparent in many centers.

Of the cases reported, three were in new territory, and the fourth at Akron. Massillon, Columbus, and Green township, Hamilton county were the centers where the first cases were reported.

Dr. John Monger, head of the state department of health, declared today, tht it was the object of state officials to co-operate with city and county health boards, and that various regulations would be dictated by particular conditions, so long as the epidemic is not widespread.

STORM HEADED TOWARD COAST

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24. — Disturbances of "great intensity" are central over the north-central Atlantic seaboard, the weather bureau said today in a special storm warning to postmasters and shipping interests.

At 10 a. m. the points of greatest intensity was 130 miles south of Nantucket, moving northeast. Strong winds this afternoon and tonight were forecast for the entire northern coast, with disturbances of gale force prevailing off New England.

COOLIDGE AND FAMILY CROSS YELLOWSTONE

Bound for Lake Where Executive Will Fish.

CROSSES DIVIDE

Party Will Stop Off at Lake Hotel Tonight.

YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK, Wyo., Aug. 24.—Crossing and re-crossing the continental divide President Coolidge went his way eastward across Yellowstone National Park today in quest of new thrills of the sport of angling.

His destination was Yellowstone Lake where lurk cut throat trout, a species new to the president and which promises to tax his skill as a fisherman.

More scenic thrills, of which the park holds an overabundance engaged Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge and son, John enroute.

First, was the intial crossing of the continental divide at Carig, where the road sits 8,261 feet above sea level.

Here is located a lake, where waters in springtime flow both into the Atlantic and the Pacific.

Then came the second passage where the great watershed of the continent runs back across the road in a huge semi-circle.

From the stupendous solitude of 8,364 feet, the presidential party was enabled to gaze out on a horizon far past the park boundary lines and embracing Shashone Lake near Cody, Wyo.

Coming also as a diversion was an encounter with Jessie James, famous Yellowstone trail bear, who parks himself in the middle of the roads and "holds up" passing autos for candy or other sweets. Forest rangers with the party paid the ransom.

At West Thumb, first point reached on the huge lake, which has an area of about 140 miles, Mr. Coolidge came upon another of nature's freaks, "the fishing cone." The lake laps against one side of the road and on the other is a big natural cauldron filled with boiling water.

Until federal restriction interferred, visitors used to be entertained by the spectacle of seeing a fish caught in the lake and, while still on the hook, whipped across the road into the cone and boiled.

Upon arrival at the Lake hotel, where the Coolidges will remain for the night, it was planned to take the executive immediately to Peale island, where he may fish in seclusion.

CANTON MAN HELD IN ROBBERY CASE

SIDNEY, O., Aug. 24. — Though George W. Shaw, 37, Canton, is still being held in the county jail here in connection with the investigation of the robbing of County Treasurer Berry of $37,000 in county funds, July 20, county and city officials today declared they were unable to establish the man's identity as one of the robbers.

Berry today told inquirers that he had visited Shaw in the county jail but could not identify him.

Shaw and a woman companion were arrested Monday night at Hebron, near Newark.

QUIET REPORTED IN MINE ZONES

COLUMBUS, Aug. 24.—Up to noon today, Adjutant General Frank B. Henderson had received no reports of any disturbances in Ohio's coal mining regions.

Henderson said he was advised that a number of imported strike-breakers arrived safely at the Provident mine, St. Clairsville, Tuesday night and that non-union miners were scheduled to reach the Florence mine, Martins Ferry, and at the Rose Valley mine, in Harrison county, southeast of Cadiz, today.

KING MICHAEL IS GUARDED

BUCHAREST, Aug. 24.—King Michael, infant ruler of Roumania, was closely guarded in the royal Siania palace today to prevent his exposure to the dangers of infantile paralysis, an epidemic of which is ravaging the Roumanian capital.

Twenty children were known to be dead and 130 others in Bucharest to have been stricken with the disease, it was stated.

IMPROVEMENTS WILL BE MADE TO OAK GROVE PARK NEXT YEAR

Swimming Pool, Bowling Alley to be Constructed.

DANCE FLOOR TOO

Grounds to be Beautified With Flower Beds and Trees.

Extensive improvements will be made to Oak Grove park campground, located between East Liverpool and Wellsville, before next summer as the result of action taken at a recent meeting of members of the association.

Construction of a bowling alley, swimming pool, sand box for the children, miniature roller coaster, two swings, two sliding boards and a minature merry-go-round has been ordered. The croquet grounds and lawn tennis courts is to be covered with a six-inch layer of concrete, to be used whenever desired for dancing purposes. Ladies of the park have agreed to arrange music for such dances whenever they are held.

The proposed improvements will be in charge of the entertainment committee and are to be completed not later than May 30, next year. Clarence Good, custodian of the grounds, has been instructed to erect three rose trellises and three flower mounds on the grounds. One of the mounds will be near the park entrance and will be planted in red and white flowers, with the name of the camp grounds in the white flowers, the red forming the back ground. Two hundred silver maple trees will be planted about the grounds this fall.

The community garage is also to be remodeled, with the possible erection of an addition so that 20 machines can be taken care of.

The association has also voted to permit the erection of two more cottages on the grounds. The number of cottages at the present time is 18 and numerous requests are on file for permission to build others. The maximum number of cottages will be kept at 20.

GOVERNOR WILL SEEK RULING

Retention of Alleged Fee by Senator Called Into Question.

COLUMBUS, Aug. 24.—Governor Vic Donahey, it was stated today will ask Attorney General Edward C. Turner for a ruling on the question of the legality of the alleged retention by Senator Clarence Hallman, Cincinnati, of a $1230 fee obtained from Clarence Waddell, Highland county.

Request for the ruling, Jacob Meckstroth, private secretary of the governor, said, will be submitted to Turner next week when Donahey returns from his summer cottage at Indian lake, where he has been suffering from an attack of summer grippe.

The fee, it was stated, was paid Hallman for alleged services in connection with a $6,500 award by the recent Ohio legislature to young Waddell because of permanent injuries due to vaccination at Camp Perry six years ago while Waddell was a member of the Ohio National Guard.

Meckstroth said the governor would ask Turner to rule whether the fee way legel and, if not to state what steps should be taken if any, to compel repayment of the money to Waddell, by Hallman. The governor's request followed complaint lodged by Waddell and his father, John Waddell, with the governor and other state officials, that the fee was excessive.

Because the governor was absent from his office Tuesday, Hallman refused to go to the governor's office and confer with Secretary Meckstroth, counsel for the senator stated. Contending that Donahey had no legal right to question his acts as a legislater of Attorney Hallman, out of courtesy for the governor, was willing to submit an explanation to the governor personally, and to no one else, it was stated.

Search For Missing Planes About Ended

PRINCE MAY BE SUICIDE VICTIM

BELGRADE, Aug. 24.—Prince George Karage Orgevitch, elder brother of King Alexander of Jugo-Slavia was in a serious condition today as a result of what was reported to be an attempt at suicide.

Prince George had been declared insane some years ago, following a violent attack on a servant, whom the prince kicked to death, and a subsequent attack on his brother, King Alexander. He also had been publicly involved in numerous love affairs. For some time he had been interned in his country estate outside of Belgrade. He renounced his right of succession to the throne March 27, 1909.

QUAKE ROCKS FRENCH LINER

Ship Tilts From Side to Side by Sea Convulsion.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—A strange convulsion at sea—generally believed to be a submarine earthquake of marked intensity—tilted the French liner France from side to side and hurled hundreds of pasengers from their chairs and beds, it was learned when the ship docked today.

None of the pasengers, however, was seriously injured, although several bore marks of their experience.

"I never saw anything like it in the forty years I have been at sea" said Captain Marius Aubert, commander of the vessel.

National Guard Withdrawn.

COLUMBUS, Aug. 24.—Uniformed Ohio National Guardsmen were off duty here today after having patrolled entrances to state offices, the state house, the governor's mansion and the state arsenal since Sunday noon for the purpose of thwarting possible attempts of violence by Sacco-Vanzetti sympathizers.

Ships, Which Have Been Combing Pacific for Last Week Will be Withdrawn Thursday.

Reinforced by the light cruiser Omaha and fifteen destroyers the navy search for the seven lost Hawaiian flyers was nearing the end today. All destroyers, aircraft vessels, airplanes and submarines will be called back from the hunt tomorrow night.

Three army planes and the Dole flight plane of Martin Jensen were expected to return to Luke Field, Honolulu, today from the island of Hawaii. The four planes flew there yesterday to investigate reports of a green flare supposedly seen flickering half way up the 13,000 foot slope of Mauna Lea, Hawaii's highest mountain.

Other than the naval reinforcements and the report of the green flare, there have been no new developments in the 2,400-mile hunt for the Miss Doran, Golden Eagle and Dallas Spirit, the three missing planes. Seven hundred miles at sea the aircraft carrier Langley nad the aircraft Aroostock swept slowly toward Hawaii with their brood of thirty airplanes. The careful search, however, has go for yielded only floating candy boxes and old potato crates.

Twenty-six naval vessels are now searching for the lost planes far at sea. In addition to the Langley and Aroostock, there are the original searching squadron of eight destroyers, and the cruiser Omaha, which, with her complement of fifteen destroyers, was diverted into the hunt from manouvers in Puget Sound.

MURDER SUSPECT GIVES SELF UP

MT. VERNON, O., Aug. 24.—Richard Cole, Fredericktown, sought since Sunday night since the murder of Harry Swank, surrendered today to deputy sheriffs near his home.

Bloodhounds and sheriff's posses had surrounded a large swamp near Fredericktown since Monday but found no trace of Cole.

Last night, according to reports, Cole attempted to creep into his home but was frightened away by guards.

Cole is said to have shot Swank fatally and wounded Richard Roberts, a companion, during an argument.

EX-HIGH SCHOOL BOY DISAPPEARS AFTER POLICE LOCATE GRAVE

Father Engages Counsel to Defend His Son.

CHECK PASTIMES

Coroner's Jury Launches Probe Into Woman's Death.

By Albert F. Baenziger.

STREATOR, Ills., Aug. 24.—Elaborate preparations for the defense of Harry Hill, the former Streator high school cheerleader, now wanted for the murder of his mother, Mrs. Eliza Hill, was begun even before the decomposed body of his mother was unearthed from its shallow grave in the basement of the Hill mansion by Chief of Police William Robb.

Father Finds Grave.

This fact was disclosed today when it was announced that Attorneys W. J. Jones and former Judge Russell C. Osborn had been retained by Dr. Harry C. Hill, the boy's father, to look after his interest.

It was Attorney Jones who accompanied the father and Dr. G. A. Dieus on the initial search of the house when the newly-made grave was discovered after police were called in and body disinterred by the chief.

Supposedly acting solely in the interests of the father, Attorney Jones has followed in person every step of the investigation conducied by state's attorney Russell Hansen and the state officials have begun to place a new meaning on the silence of the elder Hill which up to the present time has been attributed to the shock following the tragedy.

While the state's attorney was preparing to have young Hill formally charged with the murder, Coroner L. D. Howe announced he would reconvene the jury today and call as principal witnesses Peter Busch, the gardner, who will testify that he was ordered by young Hill to smooth over the spot where the body was found—Alice Sawyer, the young man's sweetheart at whose home he visited Sunday night, William Brydges, the former Streator boy now living in Chicago, where Hill left yesterday noon, one hour ahead of the police, and Dr.

TAXING BOARDS RATIFY LEVIES

Clash Marks Meeting of Chester Board of Education.

County, city and district school levies were ratified by the various taxing bodies at meetings held yesterday in every district of the county in accordance with the provisions of the state law.

Members of the county court met at New Cumberland when estimates as prepared two weeks ago were ratified without change. The ame action was taken at a meeting of council held in the municipal building last night.

Board of education meeting was held in the high school building with members E. Y. Miller and C. A. Bollinger present. E. B. Bondurant, third member, underwent an operation Monday in the East Liverpool City hospital.

Delegation of taxpayers attended the session and protested the item levying a tax of 18 cents for the payment of the claim of the Finley Brothers company for $6,469.48 for work on the high school building. Claim was advanced in a resolution that adoption of the budget with this item included authorized under provisions of house bill No. 159 passed at the last sesssion of the legislature would be illegal.

Bollinger moved that this provision be eliminated but the motion failed for lack of a second. The meeting then adjourned without any further action being taken.

LABOR MEETING AT PARKERSBURG

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., Aug. 24.—Nomination of officers of the state Federation of Labor occurred at yesterday's afternoon's session of the state convention in session here. John B. Easton, Williamstown, present president of the organization, was nominated for that office with no other names being placed for the same position.

Others nominated were: Secretary-treasurer, J. C. L. Jarrett, Charleston; vice presidents (five to be elected), Harry Norrington, Wheeling; F. B. Hill, Huntington; Fred Stubbs, Monongah; Mrs. C. A. Riley, Charleston; Frank Mehl, Parkersburg and Harry Kidd, of Clarksburg.

Speakers of the afternoon were John J. Manning, secretary of the label department of the American Federation of Labor; Howard Jarrett, commissioner of labor for West Virginia. Mr. Jarrett spoke of efforts of the labor department to protect the lives of the workers of the state. He praised the child labor laws of West Virginia and said that neither state had a better law to protect its child labor and prevent employment of young boys and girls in factories.

BURNS FATAL TO MILL WORKER

Coroner George A. Arner, of Hancock county, returned a verdict of "accidental death" yesterday in the case of Joseph Wazniac, 43, of Sugardale, O., who died in the Ohio Valley hospital, Steubenville, as a result of burns received while at work in the plant of the Weirton Steel company.

Wazniac was burned about the head, arms and neck when an ingot burst at the open hearth department of the mill Monday afternoon. He was given treatment at the emergency hospital and later removed to the Steubenville institution.

He leaves his widow and four children.

CAN'T MAKE GENE LEAVE MOUNTAINS

Tunney Refuses to Hustle Himself Off to Chicago.

SPECULATOR, N. Y., Aug. 24.—Efforts are being made to get Gene Tunney to Illinois as quickly as possible but this far the champion has remained adamant.

Chicago business men interested in the fight figure that the titleholder should be on the ground early so as to build up interest in the match.

Tunney, on the other hand, contends that he is to do the fighting and as far as the talking is concerned, he will leave it to the promoter and fight commission.

It became known today that the real reason for Billy Gibson's visit here early this week was to attempt to prevail upon Tunney to change his plans and be at his Illinois training quarters at the Cedar Crest Country club by Sept. 1.

However, it is a well known fact that manager or no manager, Gene runs his own army. As a result he will leave when he figures that he has worked himself into the best possible condition up here.

Gene is enthusiastic about his Adirondack retreat. He is not bothered by the crowds and the summer visitors here respect his desire for privacy. He is not anxious to rush himself into the excitement and confusion that reign near the scene of a big fight.

Also, there is another consideration. Bill Osborne, hotel proprietor who has furnished Gene with a summer home here for two years and who was one of the few who thought he could beat Dempsey last year wants Gene to remain over Labor day, when thousands are expected to motor up into the mountains. Gene is fond of Osborne and loyal to him.

Although the champ will speak vaguely that he will leave around Sept. 1 it is known that he has given orders that his trunks are not to be moved before Sept. 3, and possibly not until after Labor day.

Tunney won't discuss it himself. He is endeavoring to keep his mind as far off the fight as possible.

"I dunno, sah, 'cause I ain't never bought none dat er-way—I either kin git in 'em or I can't."

Big Secret.

"I hear your teacher has given you a punishment. What was it for?"

REPORT FILLING STORE ROBBERY

Two automobile tires and $30 in money was stolen from the C. B. Williams filling station at New Waterford between 11 o'clock Monday night and 6 o'clock Tuesday morning, according to a report made to Sheriff George Wright.

The thieves first knocked a lock from a basement door. A ladder was taken from the cellar and erected against the side of the building, when a window was pried open. The theft is believed to have been the work of "local talent."

KEN MAYNARD OPENS TODAY

50,000 Head of Cattle Stampede in Strand Picture.

Over 50,000 head of cattle in a wild stampede is one of the thrilling action sequences in "The Land Beyond the Law," starting Ken Maynard at the Strand theatre. When Charles R. Rogers, producer of the Maynard pictures for First National, wanted to make sure of getting a real Western ranch for "The Land Beyond the Law," he arranged with Miller and Lux, among the best known ranches of California, for the use of their acreage and cattle.

Getting a stampede into a picture was a problem. While cattle are easily stampeded, it is not such an easy thing to do intentionally. Ken Maynard, Tom Santschi, Gibson Gowland and Noah Young, who appear in principal roles of "The Land Beyond the Law," were all ranchers prior to entering motion pictures. Since the most of the cowboys who were extras, had legitimate claims to the title "cowboy," the company simply forgot about being actors and joined in taking care of the cattle for the stampede.

One can picture, if it is difficult to make cattle stampede, how much more difficult it is to round them up When teh cattle finally quiet down they separate into little groups, spread over thousands of acres. This was due to the vigilance of Sol Polita, the cameraman, and H. J. Brown, the director.

Our Universe

Astronomers have been measuring the universe again, this time more accurately than ever before. Their methods and instruments are considered accurate enough to give their conclusions much authority, even if they are not final. And the results are staggering.

The conception of the universe as a thin disc, with our solar system located somewhere near its center, which has been gaining credence in recent years, is upheld. The milky way, once supposed to consist merely of star-mist, adn now known to be made of millions of great suns, is pierced by giant telescopes to find the stars on the outer edge of this great disc or wheel, and estimate their distance. That gives the radius of the universe. Multiply that by two, and we have its diameter. It is found that it is a little matter of 192 quadrillion miles, which in figures is 192,000,000,000,000,000.

That is not the end, for beyond is space, dark and immeasurable.

It stirs whatever imagination one has. It is inspiring, or appalling, according to the way you happen to look at it. There is ample provocation for big thoughts and lofty moods. Most of us, however, will pass up such considerations, and keep right on figuring the cost of meals and the mileage we got per gallon and who's going to marry whom and when the next card party will be.

There is something especially suggestive in the remark of one of the astronomers that the shape of this wondrous universe, which has been called a disc, is like a very thin watch. Will it ever run down? And if it does, will we, in the spirit or in some other embodiment, be present to witness the end? Or will we and the whole human race be utterly gone millions of years before that?

No answer is expected. These matters are too high for us—yet perhaps none the less worth thinking about.

Interest In The Philippines

Pedro Guevara, resident commissioner from the Philippines, told the Institute of Politics that immediate solution of the Philippine problem is demanded both by America's interests in the Far East and by the national interest of the islands themselves.

"An immediate solution" is more easily urged than discovered. But it is easy to agree with Guevara when he says that this is a most opportune time to undertake the task of solving the problem and to study the whole situation thoroughly. It must be recognized that there is a large amount of dissatisfaction there and much misapprehension as to America's real purpose. Jingoes on both sides stir up ill-feeling and confuse the situation.

The commissioner suggests that committees be appointed by our Congress and the Philippine legislature to meet "for the discussion of the facts and merits underlying the problem, with a view to recommending a satisfactory solution."

The growing of rubber in the islands has complicated the problem, and there is an ever-present fear among some Americans of Japanese aggression. The speaker said that the latter was unfounded and that Japan would be among the first to recognize Philippine independence. As to rubber, he would like to see the limitation of acreage owned by any one individual to 2,500 acres.

The whole subject certainly needs expert, disinterested and dispassionate scrutiny by men of large caliber and ability. It would be well, too, to have plain citizens taken an interest in the Philippine problem and study it open-mindedly.

A Child Labor Gain

Another state has advanced its child labor legislation another step. Louisiana has enacted a law providing an eight hour day, a 48 hour week and the requirement of a physician's certificate of physical fitness for employed children under 16. It makes no educational requirement for child workers and does not prohibit employment of children in dangerous occupations. Nevertheless it marks genuine progress.

Many states are far ahead of Louisiana in caring for their children. Others still lag behind. There are very few in which there is not still room for great improvement. Until every child in the land is saved from toil that injures health, retards education, stunts moral growth, mains and cripples the body, there will be work to do in the prevention of child labor. There are certain rights to which every child is entitled.

"Irish Move Against Ridicule on Screen." Everybody's doing that. Soon the film humorists will have to go to the moon, or Mars, for material.

Uncle Sam is going to run two national elections next year, one at home and one in Nicaragua. And gosh, how he dreads both of 'em!

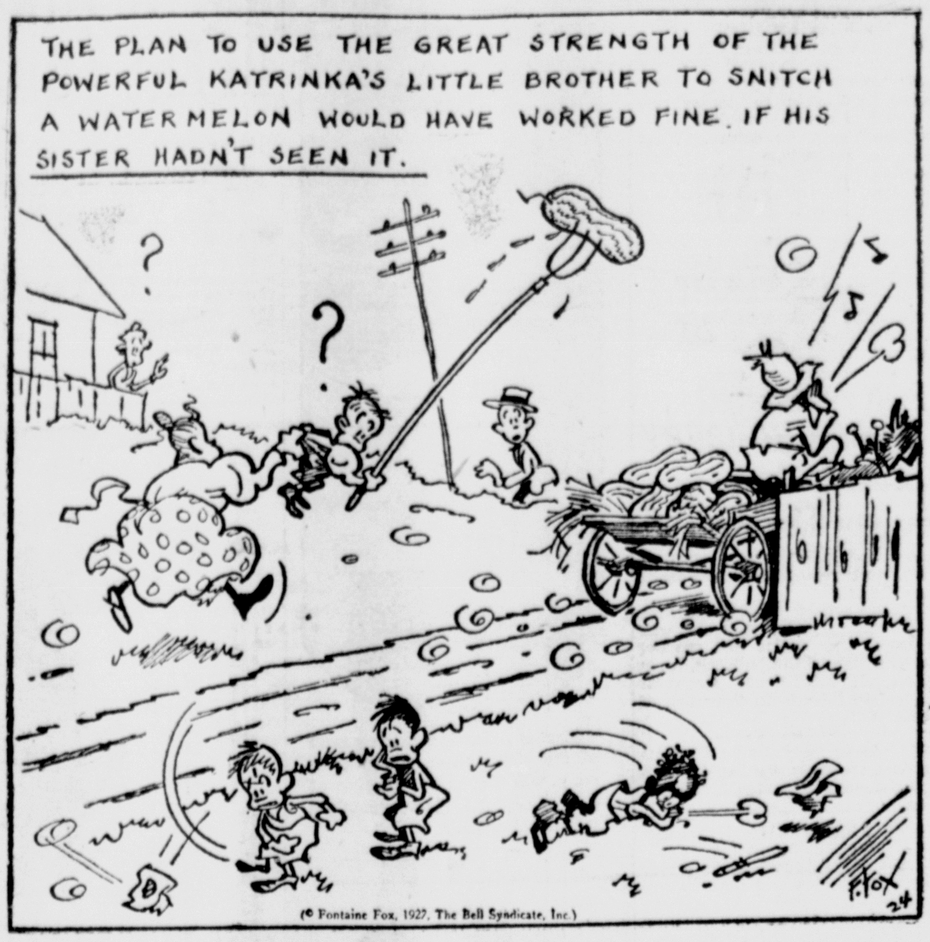

Allow us to repeat that the greatest need of this country is bigger and fatter fishing worms.

The retiring New York ferryboat captain who has navigated 900,000 miles should now take a water trip and see something west or east of the Hudson river.

An appeal is being made to the American public to lend money to the Latin-Americans to build better roads so we can all drive down and spend our money there.

Mexico may be an undesirable neighbor, as some Americans think, but at least she paid the July interest on her foreign debt.

(© Fontaine Fox, 1927, The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—The police picked up "Dopey Sam" the other day. He is one of the innumerable East Side drug peddlers who confined his nefarious trade to school children. He, as have others, teaches children to use cocaine and heroin as a means of stimulating trade for his wares.

There are, it has been estimated by narcotic experts, some 10,000 children under the age of sixteen in greater New York who are chronic drug addicts. Like their elders, they acquire a cunning that hides the addiction from parents until they become human wreckage.

For many years little corner candy stores were the supply stations for the drugs, but vigilance became so strict that in later years distribution has been made through drug runners invariably drug addicts themselves.

Children who become drug users in every case resort to thievery to secure funds to satisfy their appetities. In a soft drink parlor recently a member of the narcotic squad pointed out a half dozen children whom he had reason to believe were chronic addicts.

They seemed stunted, listless and pasty. Some were under constant espionage, but so fox-like had they become that all trails eventually grew cold. The youthful dare devil gangsters usually prime themselves with heroin before they go on forays.

The reckless courage so often displayed is only drug stimulation and when captured and cut off from their supply they become prize weaklings. Heroin, a derivative of morphine, is the cheapest and deadliest of all habit-forming drugs.

This is the drug that is chiefly hawked among school children. It is almost impossible to trace to its source, because of the ingrained contempt of the East Side for "the squealer."

One of New York's biggest executives was having a conference the other day with his business associate. The associate opposed several suggestions of his chief and calmly pointed out his reasons therefor. Finally in sudden exasperation the boss jumped up, turning over a table, kicked over a passing chair and stalked from the room—slamming the door with a bang. In about ten minutes, he returned in meeker mood and turning to his waiting associate said: "The trouble with you is you lose your temper."

Jokesmiths have dented the "in conference" gag of high voltage executives. "In conference" offered many deductions. It might mean the boss was sleeping off a bad night, was not in or just didn't care to see the caller. So over the phone the other day one of those silken voiced, highly trained secretaries explained her employer was "in consultation." Another distinction, no doubt, without a difference.

A hot retort to the "in conference" excuse was in a theatrical producer's office. An actor was tossed this moth eaten excuse by the secretary. Taking a seat, he said: "All right, but tell him the next time he comes out for cracked ice, I only want to see him a minute."

Will Hays often talks to Hollywood from his New York offices a dozen times a day. Incidentally, he writes more letters, sends more telegrams, sees more people and talks over the lond distance more than any executive in New York. There are four phones on his desk—one in almost instant touch with Hollywood. Most of Hays' week-ends are spent at his home town, Sullivan, Ind., and two secretaries frequently accompany him back and forth to take dictation.

Flo Ziegfeld is Hays' nearest competitor as a sender of telegrams. Ziegfeld often sends 200-word telegrams that could easily be shortened to 10 words and convey the full meaning.

HASKINS' LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

The Fair of the Iron Horse.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 24. — During the last week in September and the first in October an exposition and pageant will be held at Baltimore that has been christened "The Fair of the Iron Horse." It will be the centennial celebration of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad and will tell most graphically the story of the development of inland transportation in the United States from the pack-horse of the Indian to the most modern homes-on-wheels and heavy, long-distance commodity carriers of today.

It will be an unusual celebration of its kind in that it is not a money-making affair. The public is cordially invited to attend, there will be no admission fee, reserved seats will be free, and parking space will be provided for 3,000 automobiles.

The B. & O. railroad is doing all this because it is proud of the fact that it was the pioneer railroad in the United States to operate a line for the public handling of passengers and freight, and because in all the hundred years of its existence it has not changed its corporate name, its charter, or it fundamental organization.

The exposition grounds consist of a 1,000-acre tract in Halethorpe, a Baltimore suburb. There a great loop track is being laid down around a 25-acre plaza. The old railroad station in America—the B. & O.'s Mount Clare station which still stands in Baltimore—is being reproduced. A grand stand 800 feet long and with 24 tiers of seats and a capacity of 12,000 is being erected. An old-time type of tavern and eating house will be put up. A brick and steel Hall of Transportation 502 feet in length is under construction and a motion picture theatre and all other necessary auxiliary buildings are being provided. There will be ample accommodations, it is stated, for more than 50,000 visitors.

The Transport Pageant.

The big feature of the exposition will be an instructive and educational panoramo, a drama on wheels five miles in length in all, which will depict a full century of the development of rail transport. There will also be a pre-Iron Horse section of the panorama which will portray primitive inland transport in this country and then the evolution of the American highway with its Conestoga wagons, prairie schooners, stage coaches, post chaises, and so on, through the horse-drawn era.

"The circuit rider will plod his lonely path," says the announcement. "Henry Clay will ride in a coach over the National Road to Washington. The famous Baltimore clipper ship, the canal boat, and the high-waisted river steamboat also will move upon the scene, all of course preliminary to the coming of the Iron Horse.

"And then, beginning with the midget-like Tom Thumb of 1820—the first American-built locomotive and the great-great-great-grandfather of the American branch of the locomotive family—and continuing through the curious 'grasshoppers' of the 30s, the strange-looking 'camels' of the 40s, the engines of the Civil war days, and on up to the fleet and aristocratic passenger and ponderous freight pullers of today, all the generations of the Iron Horse will move around the parade loop, many of them with the passenger and freight cars of their time, and all under their own steam."

In the Hall of Transportation there will be a museum in which will be shown 500 full-sized wooden models of the early engines of the world, miniature models showing the progress of the development of locomotives, cars, bridges, and other accessories of the steel highway, early-day conveyances, even to the crude vehicle used during the era of the Pharoahs, motor vehicles as they correlate with rail transportation, signal and safety and telegraph and telephone devices, the first sleeping car and the latest, the new bedroom car, the single-seat day coach, and working models of marvelous ship-loading and grain-handling machinery. High-speed hauling of perishable food products under refrigeration will be demonstrated.

In another building will be shown some of the many cooperative activities of the railroad, such as the scientific location of industries, the development of natural resources, increasing the productivity of the soil by working with the farmers, helping employes to become home owners, and safety first and kindred movements.

In short, it is promised that that which the national automobile shows of recent times have done for motor transport, the Fair of the Iron Horse will do in even greater detail for the numerous and varied activities of the railroad world.

Famous Conestoga Wagon.

One of the interesting vehicles that has already been received for the exposition is a famous old Conestoga wagon, built in 1813 at Middletown, Pa., and used for many years in carrying passengers and freight along the national pike.

The Conestoga wagon was a link in the chain of horse-drawn vehicles prior to the era of the railroad and came in between the stage coach and the prairie schooner. It made its first appearance during the latter part of the eighteenth century. It is a large, solid-looking wagon with huge rear wheels and smaller front ones, and arched picturesquely over the top is a large canopy of canvas slanting far forward in front and backward in the rear, making a spacious vehicle. Six horses were required to draw it, and the passengers frequently had to get out and walk up steep hills or where the road was unusually bad.

Another interesting exhibit that will be conspicuous in the pageant is the historic DeWitt Clinton locomotive, the first iron horse to puff its way in the State of New York. The old engine, with its train of curious carriages, was sent to Baltimore by the courtesy of the New York Central Lines.

The DeWitt Clinton train was one of the first to carry passengers in the New World and the locomotive was the third built in the United States for actual service. The first trip was made in 1831 over the 17 miles between Schenectady and Albany.

The locomotive was designed by John B. Jervis, chief engineer of the Mohawk & Hudson railroad, and was built by Dave Matthew, who was also its first engineer. The old-timer, with its long upturned nose of a smokestack sticking high in the air, its large queer-looking wheels, and its quaint set of remodeled stagecoach carriages, presents a striking contrast with a modern locomotive and train. Its maximum speed was 15 miles an hour, but that was considered breath-taking a century ago. Its weight was 12,000 pounds, less than the weight of one pair of wheels of the largest modern type of engine. The Lord Baltimore, one of the largest and most powerful locomotives in the world today, weighs with its tender 659,000 pounds, or 329 1-2 tons.

If the preliminary tests are successful the DeWitt Clinton will run under its own steam in the Baltimore pageant.

Soldiers and Police Guard American Embassy.

ARRESTS MADE

French Urged to Take No Part in Legion Convention.

PARIS, Aug. 24. — Order was restored here by the police early today after more than 1,000 persons, 200 of them policemen, had been injured in violent rioting by 100,000 socialists, communists and anarchists in protest against the Sacco-Vanzetti executions at Boston.

Rioters battled fiercely with the police in the boulevard Sebastopol where they tried to erect a barricade to hold back the gendarmerie.

Soldiers and police guarded the United States embassy and the demonstrators were not allowed to approach within half a mile of the building.

It was the worst rioting Paris has known since the war. Between 200 and 250 persons were arrested.

Shouting, "Down with the Americans," anarchists and communists broke into theaters and raided cafes, smashing furniture and crockery and driving out the patrons.

Property Damage High.

Most of the property damage was in Champs Elysees and along the boulevards Sebastopol and Strasbourg, and in the Montmartre district. This consisted of broken windows, pillaged shops and damaged automobiles.

The number of manifestants totaled 250.

In addition to the Paris rioting, demonstration also occurred at Rouen, in which many of the demonstrators were injured and six were arrested.

A second missile, believed to be a bomb, was found in a subway station today, this time in the cadet station. It was taken to the police laboratories for examination.

At least one American was among those arrested. He was John Lubke, who said he was born in Denver in 1905. The charge against him was attempted pillaging.

Hit Legion's Celebration.

PARIS, Aug. 24.—Gathering opposition to participation by Frenchmen in the program of the American Legion convention to be held here next month was indicated in events today growing out of demonstrations and rioting over the execution of Sacco and Vanzetti.

The mayor of Lille has informed the ministry of the interior that that city will not participate in any friendly manifestations for the Legion on September 19, when the Legion stages its parade.

Deputies Cachia, Marty and Doriot, communist members of the chamber of deputies, who are now serving sentences in Sante prison for their communist activities, have informed the president of the chamber that they intend to interpolate the government on "the impossibility of maintaining the September fete."

"Couturier," writing in the communist organ, Humanite, today declared "we can be sure, at least that on the occasion of the American Legion National holiday on September 19 Paris will not dance on the corpses of Sacco and Vanzetti."

Referring to last night's disturbances, the Humanite issued the proud boast that "the Paris workers are the masters of the streets.

Chicago Has Fire.

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—One entire block of stores and apartment buildings, located in the heart of Chicago's Latin quarter, was almost completely wiped out early today by a mysterious explosion and fire that followed in its wake.

The scene was Taylor street between Marshall avenue and Paulina street. The section that has been in constant turmoil recently as a result of Sacco-Vanzetti demonstrations.

Two business houses were leveled by the blast and fire which broke out immediately spread to twelve apartment buildings. Firemen and police are searching the ruins for bodies. It is not known whether there was any loss of life.

Authorities, after a hasty investigation, were unable to determine whether the blast was due to a bomb, possibly set by anarchists as a protest to the execution of Sacco and Vanzetti, or was due to some other cause.

Some time after the explosion Chief of Police Hughes received a telegram from Mrs. J. E. Bowle, Dayton, O., that she had been advised her sister, Mrs. Margaret Pesa was killed in the blast. Hughes ordered an investigation.

Bradford, Halifax, Bolton and Rochdale, important cities in northern England, have lost in population in the past 16 years.

Because of the drought in Argentine nearly all wool clipped this season was full of burs.

RAILROAD TO BUILD LINES

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—The interstate commerce commission today authorized the Toledo and Cincinnati railway to build two extensions in Butler county, Ohio. The railroad's application for authority called for a three-mile line between Hamilton Furnace to Woodsdale, and one and a half miles between Woodsdale and Middletown. The combined cost of the two new lines is estimated at $1,300,000.

Improve Oak Grove

Stephens, local manager for the Manufacturers Light and Heat Company, the cottages have been furnished with natural gas. The company extended its mains to the park entrance, from which point service lines have been run to the cottages. The cottages are also equipped with electric lights, running water from its private system, sanitary sewers and all city conveniences are provided. A hard-surfaced improved road from both East Liverpool and Wellsville passes the park entrance and a street car stop is within a few minutes walk of the grounds.

At a recent meeting of the association the following directors were elected: John W. Vodrey, Charles C. Ashbaugh, Corydon Arnold, Leon Rubin, and Frank Campbell. The directors have named the following officers:

President John W. Vodrey; secretary, C. W. Arnold; treasurer, Charles C. Ashbaugh.

Oak Grove park was established many years ago as a camp meeting ground for religious services but later was taken over as a summer recreation center for residents of East Liverpool and Welsiville. Tabernacle, which was located in the center of the cottage group was destroyed by fire.

Sacco, Vanzetti Funeral

sympathizers assured police that there will be no disturbance but stated that they could not prevent persons trailing the funeral cortege.

The line of march will be from North End Park, up Hanover street, along Tremont street, up School street, by the state house and down Beacon hill to the Back bay. In the Back bay district the coffins will be placed in the hearses for transfer beyond to Forest Hills cemetery for cremation.

Plan Conference Sunday.

A plan to take either the bodies or the ashes on a tour of the country was meeting with opposition from critics outside Boston, according to word received by the committee.

To establish the "innocence" of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, to bring about a senatorial investigation of the department of justice and to set up a commission to inquire into the decision of Governor Alvan T. Fuller and his advisory committee will be the object of a national Sacco-Vanzetti committee to be organized at a national conference in New York on Saturday and Sunday.

Boston's great police guard was reduced to a minimum today although a few armed men were still on watch in the pouring rain in front of public buildings.

Powers Hapgood, the Indianapolis liberal and former Harvard varsity track athlete, who was committed to the Psychopathic hospital at the height of the Sacco-Vanzetti affair was released and today was planning court action against the state police. Other out-of-town sympathizers of Sacco and Vanzetti remained in Boston for the funeral, although the large legal array had departed.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, Aug. 24. — Industrial and high priced specialties encountered considerable profit taking in early trading today, and were unable to continue the brilliant forward movement which was in progress at Tuesday's close. The oil stocks were also under the influence of the new price cuts in crude oil and the possibility of a cut in Pan-American's dividend, and prices in that section of the market were uniformly lower.

Baldwin locomotive appeared to be in a position to develop the market "fireworks" forecasted for today in connection with a preliminary meeting of important stockholding interests.

Both Arturus Cutten of Chicago and the Fisher interests in Detroit will receive representation on the board at a formal meeting tomorrow, according to market rumors, and there is keen inside demand for stock. On the first sale of 2,000 shares at 261 Baldwin showed a gain of 2¼ points from the previous day.

General financial and industrial conditions were unchanged. Current railroad reports emphasize the heavy falling off in July net earnings for some of the important roads, due to flood conditions, coal strikes and other unfavorable factors. Weekly traffic reports were a little more favorable. Call money was unchanged at 3½ per cent.

Persistent rumors of an impending cut in an American's dividend to $3 a share accompanied heavy selling of the stock down to 48½ the lowest price since 1924.

Action on the dividend may not be taken until next month, but current earnings show a considerable decline from the last year or so. Marland, Phillips and other well known independent oil stocks were also under pressure.

Stocks of the sugar companies were conspicuously strong and active on the firming up of the refined sugar markets. Cotton was strong and grain irregular.

Ex-High School Boy

Extend Search to Chicago.

In the meantime Chicago police have been supplied with the names and addresses of five Chicago girls found in a note book of young Hill by the Streator police and are watching these places in the hope that the boy might try to communicate with his father through them.

Accompanied Mother to Church.

The body of the murdered woman was shipped to Springfield today for burial. In the short coroner's session which preceded the issuance of a burial permit, Dr. Hill was spared the ordeal of identifying the body and was only called upon for the family history of the deceased.

In his testimony the doctor told the coroner that he was divorced from his wife in Reno some two years ago. Dr. Elsbree's statement to the coroner recited the fact that he had seen Mrs. Hill at church on the last Sunday in July and was attracted by the affectionate attendance young Hill showered on his mother.

"Mrs. Hill has been suffering from a foot ailment for some time," he said, "and Harry had his arm around her helping her down the stone steps."

The police are checking closely on young Hill's pastimes in Streator. They find that in two gambling houses here he lost large sums of money which will explain the $1,050 worth of checks that he forged his mother's name to since July. They also are checking up on the rumors that the young man was liberally supplied with moonshine on the theory that the crime might have been committed while under the influence of liquor.

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—Harry D. Hill, 21, wayward son of a prominent Streator physician, kept a jump ahead of police today as they combed Chicago for him in connection with the murder of his mother, Mrs. Eliza Hill, 55, whose body was found in a shallow grave in her home last Monday night.

Homes of a large number of Chicago girls, whose names, recorded as "Ethel," "Mazie," "Evelyn" and so forth, in one of Hill's notebooks found by police, were visited but without revealing a trace of him.

At most of the homes and apartments it was said no girls bearing such names were known.

From this police deduced that the names in the book were casual acquaintances, who gave Hill fictitious names and addresses.

William Brydges Jr., from whose home Hill disappeared yesterday only an hour before the arrival of detectives, went to Streator today to testify at the inquest.

Hill had spent Monday night at the Brydges home after driving in from Streator where he had been seen frequently and where authorities say he cashed checks totaling more than $1,200 drawn on his mother's account.

Investigation has revealed, police say, many of the checks were drawn after Mrs. Hill's death.

Fiancee Testifies.

STREATOR, Ills., Aug. 24.—"I knew of no objections Mrs. Hill had to our marriage," Miss Alice Sawyer, fiancee of Harry D. Hill, 21, sought as the slayer of his mother, declared today at the inquest.

Her eyes, swollen from weeping, Miss Sawyer testified in a low, even tone, and left scant doubt in the minds of the hundreds who jammed the chamber that she was prepared to stand by her lover.

On the arrival of a truck of coal at Whitstable, England, a skylark's nest containing four eggs was found.

Better than Expensive "Bleaches"

The juice of two lemons squeezed into a bottle with Orchard White, will soothe sunburn, and clear up freckles, tan, dis-colored skin quicker than anything you can buy already prepared, and it doesn't cost you near as much.

Any druggist can sell you Orchard White, and it only takes a minute to mix it with the juice of two lemons. Then you have enough to last you all season.

It makes a delightful lotion which you can put on your face, neck, arms or hands at any time, and it will keep them nice and white. Mix a bottle now, so you will have it handy to use should your skin begin to turn dark, or rough.

Superior Cords Increase Lead In City League Flag Drive

Lefty Crandall Is Victor Over Grimm In Shutout Contest

More Than 3,000 Fans See 3-0 Battle at Smith Field; Miscues at Plate Handicap Laughlin Club.

Chester Superior Cords today are a full game ahead of the field in general and Laughlin in particular in a torrid second half City Industrial league race as a result of a shutout victory over the Potters last evening at Smith Field.

The clash ended with the count 3 to 0 in favor of Lefty Crandall and his cohorts. A crowd estimated at around 3,000, with probably 500 automobiles surrounding the field, the record attendance to date, took in the battle.

Laughlin has won 10 and lost three. The Superior Cords have won 10 and lost one, but still have a decision in the K. T. K. game hanging fire.

Lacking two regular outfielders, Billy Watson, who turned an ankle in the K. T. K. game, and Ronald Crawford, who is out of the city, Manager Pearl Dailey was forced to shift his lineup about. Webber moved over from right to middle and Bubin went to right and Ranaldi to left. After a disastrous first inning when a couple of throws got past Lang, catching, Ranaldi came in and donned the pad and big mitt, Lang going to the outgarden. Manager Dailey later on took First Sacker Heckathorne, a left handed hitter, out of the lineup in favor of Lee Babb.

In the fourth, when Grimm allowed his first hits, two being bunched with a sacrifice, the single earned run of the game was made.

Crandall permitted but three safe hits, singles in the first, second and fourth by Webber, Sayres and Lang, respectively. Webber clouted with one gone but Lang and Herbert were retired at first, Bakosh and Scullion making the assists. One of Bakosh's stops at the hot corner was made with his bare hand, transforming a near hit into a putout at first.

Two were gone when Sayres lined one to middle. But Crandall stopped Bubin's drive and retired the side.

TAKE 2 LEFTY

In the fourth Lang led off with a single to right but the advantage was lost when Herbert lifted a fly to Johnny Evans in left and Ranaldi and Babb fanner.

Grimm, former Cumberland pitcher, equalled Crandall's performance in the matter of hits, allowing but three.

Chappie Finley contributed an outstanding performance at short. He stopped everything that came his way except in the last frame when Crandall sneaked a hit past second base in the gathering darkness and his pegging was perfect. Grimm had six assists, but uncorked one wild heave to second.

Crandall struck out seven and did not issue a single walk.

Johnny Evans opened the first frame with a walk. Wilde, on a sacrifice play, was safe at first when Heckathorne dropped Grimm's assist. Melchori was out bunting the third strike, and Evans scored on a passed ball. Conners stole second as Pete Cebula fanned. Wilde finished the circuit on another toss that got by Lang. Ranaldi then was called in. McConnell retired the side, Herbert to Heckathorne.

Conners opened the last half of the fourth with a single to right. Grimm attempted a quick return delivery on Pete Cebula and the latter, sticking his bat into the pitch, laid down a perfect bunt along the third base line. Herbert made a quick pickup and picked off Pete at first. McConnell doubled down the left field line into the crowd, scoring Conners. On a low throw by Grimm to second to get McConnell off base, the ball went into middle and McConnell to third. Bakosh fanned. Scullion drove to Grimm who threw to Ranaldi at the plate, cutting off McConnell.

Sherwood Wins From Cleaners

In a Community league game sprinkled plentifully with errors, the Sherwood nine won from Skid's Cleaners, 10 to 2, last evening at Sherwood.

Eight miscues were chalked up against the Cleaners and five against the Cardinals. Watson and Walker, of Sherwood, and Fry, of the Cleaners, with two hits apiece in three times up, were the leading clouters. The rival pitchers performed more consistently on the defense than their support, Powell having five assists and Mackall six.

Rule Britton Out; "too Old"

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—Jack Britton, former welterweight champion of the world, has lost his boxing license in New York state and will not be permitted to return to the ring against Georgie Levine here next Monday because he is "too old to fight."

The New York boxing commission cancelled Britton's license because he is forty years old, three years beyond the age limit.

NEW 880-YARD SWIM MARK SET

HONOLULU, Aug. 24.—A new world's record for the 880-yard swimming relay was owned by the fast Illinois Athletic club squad today. Competing in the national swimming championship here, the Illinois team of Weismuller, Halleren, Miller and Kimball, paddled the 880 yards in 9:35 clipping eight seconds from the old record.

The I. A. C. quartet defeated the Outrigger club team by fifteen yards. The Outrigger team was made up of Newport E. Crabbe, Sam Kahanamoku, and C. Crabbe. Johnny Weismuller's time was 2.15 3-5.

Earlier, Weismuller made a new world record in the 100 meters. Swimming a trial race, he crawled the distance in 58 1-5 seconds.

CARDINALS SNEAK UP ON PIRATES

Half-game Behind; Cubs Face Last Place Phillies.

By Les Conklin.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—The Chicago Cubs, held even by Brooklyn and badly battered by Boston, are due for a welcome change of diet today when they face the last-place Phillies. The Pirates, however, face tough opposition in Boston, as there is bitter feeling between the two teams because of the Smith-Bancroft feud.

In the only game played yesterday, the St. Louis Cardinals advanced to within half a game of the Bucs by swamping the Phillies, 13 to 3. The game was a home run orgy. Four St. Louis players, Blades, Hafey, Schuble and Sherdel, hit for the circuit. The Cards have won six out of seven on their eastern trip.

The Detroit Tigers, with just a chinaman's chance of nosing out the Yankees, begin a series with the league leaders today. Detroit has won thirteen straight and the Yanks have dropped four in a row, their longest losing streak of the season. Detroit's string of victories is the longest of the current season in the American League.

By winning eighteen of their remaining thirty-seven games, the Hugmen can reach 100 victories this season.

PLAN CHECK ON 'FOUL' BATTLES

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—The New York boxing commission has ordered all referees and judges on its staff to attend a meeting here tomorrow to discuss means of supressing the epidemic of fouls which has marred bouts here. It may be decided to have referees confer with judges before declaring a foul.

DEMPSEY IS TAKING NO CHANCE

By Gene Hoffman.

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—Mindful of the time he was knocked through the ropes by Luis Firpo, Jack Dempsey has ordered his practice ring at Lincoln Fields, where he is training for his "comeback" battle with Gene Tunney, lowered to within one foot of the ground.

Jack intends to take no chances on injuring himself. While he does not fear the possibility that any of his sparring mates will encore the feat of Firpo, he reasons there is always a chance of slipping through the ropes. He therefore regards the elevated ring a serious menace to his physical well-being.

Further scrutiny of the squared arena revealed that neither the posts nor the sharp edges were padded. Jack also ordered these taken care of.

"I can't afford to take any chances," said Dempsey. "There is too much at stake. I slipped out of the ring several times at Saratoga Springs where I trained for Sharkey. But that ring was only eight inches off the ground and I didn't hurt myself."

Leo P. Flynn, generalissimo of the Dempsey camp, announced that only newspapermen and attendants will be admitted to the camp until Dempsey begins his boxing sessions, scheduled for next week.

In the meantime the ex-champ is confining his activities to road work and shadow boxing. On account of rain yesterday he did his road work on an indoor treadmill, covering the equivalent of three miles of the road.

SMOKY JOE'S CLUBBERS AT CHESTER

Homestead Grays-Superior Cords Play at 5:30.

Fcing two tough City league games with K. T. K. and Turk Nash on successive days, Thursday and Friday, Manager "Punk" Riley of the Superior Cords today was still pondering his pitching selection for this afternoon's clash with the famous Homestead Grays.

The game will be played at Smith Field, beginning at 5:30 o'clock.

If Lefty Crandall, who worked against Laughlin last night, can come back Friday, then Herman, who pitched against the Beaver Falls Elks last week, will be in shape to work today's contst. But if Crandall needs more rest, then Herman will get the Friday assignment, with Curly Evans probably working Thursday against the Katies.

The Grays will bring with them the celebrated Smoky Joe Williams, who, on the shady side of 50, is still pitching winning ball. He has a row of 17 straight victories as one of his achievments for the season and a total of 27 victories, all told, against four defeats.

The Grays are never beaten until the last man is out, as witness the result of a recent game at Marion. Going into the ninth inning a run behind, the Grays began a bombardment of base hits that accounted for 12 runs. Included in the barrage were three home runs, one by Smoky Joe, one by Vic Harris and the third by Riggins, third sacker.

Toronto Pitcher Defeats Reading; No-Hit, No-Run Tilt

TORONTO, Aug. 24.—John Prudhomme, right hand pitcher of the Toronto club of the International league, occupies a niche in the hall of fame today. He twirled a no-hit, no-run game against Reading here. Four Reading batters reached first base on passes. Toronto won easily, 14 to 0.

CALIFORNIA IN FIRST PRACTICE

BERKELEY, Calif., Aug. 24.—University of California has begun whipping its 1927 football machine into shape. First practice of the season was held yesterday with eight members of the 1926 squad in attendance. Scores of others reported for "tryout" duty. Paul Perrin, Dick Blewett, Don Koch, Red Gill, Bert Schwarts and Harold Brockenridge, all stars of last year's team, were among those who answered the gridiron roll call.

TONY CANZONERI IS SUSPENDED

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—Tony Canzoneri, prominent featherweight contender, has been suspended indefinitely by the New York boxing commission for being overweight in his bout with Pete Sarmiento here last week.

SCRAP FOR RIGHT TO MEET MANDELL

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—Sid Terris of New York and Phil McGraw of Detroit, leading contenders for Sammy Mandell's lightweight crown, clash at Ebbets Field here tonight. Terris hopes to be matched with Mandell soon.

STARS FACING STRONG FIELD

Class of Opposition and Result of Pairings Makes Anything Possible as First Round Opens.

By Davis J. Walsh.

MINIKHADA CLUB, MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 24.—Off they go on the great adventure.

The first round of the national amateur golf championship was to be held on Minikhada course this morning and great was to be the excitement thereof. After a play-off in which seven cut of eleven contestants were to qualify, the following matches were scheduled for today:

George Von Elm, champion, vs John McKinlay, Jr.

Rudy Knepper, Sioux City, vs Harry Legg, Minneapolis.

Roland Mackenzie, Washington, D. C., vs George Thomas, Chicago.

Howard Walton, Chicago, vs David Martin, Los Angeles.

Chick Evans, Chicago, vs Ellsworth Augustus, Cleveland.

D. Ward, Chicago, vs Allen Moser, Los Angeles.

Eddie Held, St. Louis, vs Dexer Cummings, Chicago.

Paul Haviland, Bridgeport, vs Arthur Yates, Rochester.

Francis Ouimet, Boston, vs Billy Sixty, Milwaukee.

Densmore Shute, Huntington, W. Va., vs Max Marston, Philadelphia.

Clarke Corkran, Philadelphia, vs George V. Rotan, Houston, Texas.

Dr. O. F. Willing, Portland, vs Phillips Finley, Shinnecock Hills.

Harrison Johnston, Minneapolis, vs Dick Jones, New York.

Don Carrick, Toronto, vs Arthur Sweet, Chicago.

Bobby Jones, Atlanta, vs Maurice McCarthy, Brooklyn.

Eugene V. Homans, Englewood, N. J., vs Frank Dolp, Portland, Ore.

It was a great series of matches that was on for the first round today and almost any of them would do. Offhand the meetings between Evans and Augustus, Knepper and Legg, Held and Cummings, Shute and Marston, Corkran and Rotan, Johnston and Dick Jones, Bobby Jones and McCarthy and Homans and Dolp would fill the Polo grounds on a rainy Thursday. What they will do here today is only a matter of conjecture but very likely before the day is over there will be a gallery of 5,000 if there is one, and that one happens to be the chief marshal of the gallery, if any.

In brief this was to be a first round of first rounds in a national championship. Seldom if ever and at all, have they managed or contrived to bring together fighting golfers of the type of that must meet on the links this morning.

Considering the type of opposition it even was possible that the Emperor Jones himself and in person might pass out in the first round. Possible, but not probable; still he had to beat a golfer, a real golfer, and that was true of nearly every match that was scheduled for the round.

The good ones had to be good; if they weren't they would quit being good hurriedly and without further notice.

There were plenty of interesting matches on the first 18 holes of the two round schedules of match play. In the early schedule, the writer would pick, if he had the time, which he hasn't, the following meetings by preference:

That meeting between Evans, still a great golfer, and Augustus, always a great competitor; Rudy Knepper and Harry Legg, a pair of good scorers under customary conditions; the clash between Cummins and Held, a pair of gamecocks and the equally interesting meeting between Haviland and Yates, to say nothing of the Corkran-Rotan match.

Consider also the coupling of Johnston and Dick Jones, the clash of Willing, the veteran, and Finley, the cub; the jowl to jowl adventure to Corkran and Rotan, low scorers both; and the possibility, that and nothing more, that Maurice McCarthy, of old Flatbush, might go simple enough to outshoot Bobby the only and original Jones.

There was drama, anyhow, awaiting even the most casual observer in almost any match of the first round. Imagine going out and following a couple of sharpshooters like Bobby Jones and McCarthy. The point is that probably 10,000 people will imagine this before the round starts and that Bobby will not be able to make a mashie niblick pitch without taking turf and a gent's heel at the same time.

With Wolfe allowing the opposition but one hit, the K. of C. defeated the Golden Stars, 2 to 0, in a Community league tilt last evening at the Northside.

The 1928 Special Six Sedan by Chandler— $995 f. o. b. factory

FOR exceptional beauty, style and richness, for exceptional power, pep and hardihood, for exceptional comfort—this 1928 Special Six Sedan by Chandler is judged as the most spectacular six-cylinder value ever built for less than a thousand dollars.

Everywhere, from one end of the country to the other, it is regarded as a miracle for the money.

Everybody admires its fashionable design, its bristling power, its sparkling pick-up, its agility on hills. And its chassis can't, simply can't, develop squeaks—thanks to Chandler's "One Shot" lubrication system!

This new Special Six Sedan is fashioned after Chandler's magnificent 1928 Royal Eight. Just see it—and you'll see that we have built this car to sell itself.

The Way of the World

CONSCIENCE AND CONVENTIONALITY.

The old phrase, "let your conscience be your guide," sets forth a fallacy. The conscience of one man or woman may be a sufficient and trustworthy guide. The conscience of another may be a complete failure as a guide. For conscience can die, or become so nearly dead that only the most shocking experiences can call it back to action. The standards of conventionality, some of them silly and stupid, are nevertheless of the highest value to civilization. They represent the accumulated experience of the race. There are certain things that can be done and cannot be done. Conventionality draws the lines. A sensitive conscience is a great asset in keeping folks on the right track—but it is not a 100 per cent guide.

SENTIMENTAL POWER.

Sentiment is about the most powerful thing in the world. Timber experts say it is poor policy to teach children to plant a tree on Arbor day and let them put a tree in the house on Christmas day. True enough—reforestation and Christmas don't work well together. But so long as there is still sweetness and love and light in the human heart Christmas will win. There are some things that rise above all practical considerations.

WORDS, WORDS, WORDS.

Read these lines by Elihu Root and be silent: "I think the power of coal saved in our locomotives is a little less than 5 per cent, and the loss is 95 per cent. If there is that loss in the power of coal you may multiply it by 100 to obtain an idea of the loss of the vast multitude of words that are poured out upon the people of America day by day and night by night—words upon words in logs, and there is not one-tenth of one-hundredth of 1 per cent of them which makes a lodgement and amounts to anything in the minds to which they are addressed."

AS TO REFORM.

It is the business of reformers to worry about regulations for the purpose of getting to do things in a better way. Most of us, as we grow older, have less and less desire to make rules for the governing of the habits of others. Of course the great problem of reform is to get people to want to improve themselves. Probably no professional and businesslike organization will ever quite achieve that task.

APPEARANCE DOES COUNT.

Experts now say personal appearance shouldn't count for much in deciding among applicants for jobs. Dress and cleanliness are minimized. The fact remains that they DO count and ALWAYS WILL COUNT, whether they should or not.

THE LADY CALLED FATE

By JOSEPHINE K. LITTLEJOHN

SYNOPSIS.

JOHN MOORE, New York business man, goes to Tucson, Ariz., on business, expecting to return to New York the next day. He meets a college associate, Philip Morton, who has business in Mexico. Both drink heavily of tequila and in the subsequent mixup in identity Moore finds himself in Mexico.

He has in his possession a portrait of a girl which had been Morton's. The girl, Ruth Henshaw, sends her ambassador, Ramon, to tell the supposed Morton that she will meet him at the church at Tubutama. She needs his help. He meets her, also Clench, an associate of her uncle's, and all go to the ranch, where John meets Lopez, Roderiguez and Barton Henshaw, the uncle. He learns that Morton's business with these men had to do with the secret importation of arms into Mexico.

Wong, Chinese cook, tells Moore to take Ruth away soon. John arranges with Ramon to have horses waiting to take them. Then Clench is murdered and Henshaw tries to fasten the murder on John.

John hears the sound of a motor, then Ruth's cry. He finds Wong lying beside the auto, stabbed to death. He goes to Ruth's room, holding Henshaw, Lopez and Roderiguez at the point of his gun, and directs her to come out. John, with Ruth's help, ties up the three men and he and Ruth ride away.

CHAPTER THIRTY-ONE.

There was a Mexican blanket on a wooden settee by the fireplace. John picked it up.

"No!" exclaimed the girl. "Do not cover him. He lived in the coverings of a cook. Let him alone now!"

And so, together, they left him there.

Again they were in the room with the three bound men on the floor.

"Where are the keys, do you know, to the outer doors?"

"In the gun cabinet."

John found them. "Listen a moment, Miss Henshaw. I want to lock these men into this house."

"There is only the kitchen door to the courtyard, which I bolted, and the dining room door to the garden. You have that key."

"Then we'll go. They'll find these men some time."

Back through the dining room to the great iron-barred garden door. The girl passed out; then John. He closed and locked the door.

The cold dawn was filtering through the garden as they mounted the terraces. The girl looked neither to left nor right. But the man looked everywhere. He was satisfied that he had done all he could to insure them a free head-start. He must see Ramon and tell him to turn those men over to the local authorities for murder—if he could manage it. If not, Ramon could at least delay releasing them until the girl and himself were far on their way. And that was all he asked of Fate—a head-start on the trail.

As he opened the door that led from the living room to the hilltop a dove wailed behind them. "Who's that? Who's that? Who's that?" it called.

"Hush," breathed the girl. "Do you hear that dove calling? I heard it last night. I could not sleep."

"I heard it," said John Moore. "Come."

But the girl stood still. "It stopped when you shot Clench—"

"Listen," said John. "I did not shoot Clench. No one did. He was stabbed with a hunting knife, just as Wong was."

A long shudder shook the girl.

"Come!" said John gently. "We must be gone from here.

He closed the door. There was no lock on the outside.

"Down that path," he directed the girl and she walked blindly where he pointed.

Where the hill dipped, John turned back for a last look at the great brick house. The door he had closed but a moment since swung open and a man stepped out. Seeing John, he darted inside again. But John had recognized him. It was Pedro, the chauffeur.

"The dove saw him!" was John's sudden thought; then, "We still have time. He won't follow us alone.' To the girl he said only, "We must go faster."

Together they sped down the hill and up the arroyo.

Beneath the palo verde tree where John Moore had stopped to laugh at his own precautionary measures stood Ramon with two saddled horses. The two men did not greet each other; they had no need of that. "Up," said John to the girl. She touched his hand with her foot and swung into her saddle.

"Start up the trail," said John to the girl. "I'll tell Ramon to release the men after a while."

"Good-bye Ramon," said Ruth, "and, thank you."

"Para nada, senorita," replied Ramon, simply. "De senor—he come."

As the girl moved forward John bent low on the neck of his horse. "Henshaw murdered Wong and Clench. I tied him with Roderiguez and Manuel and left them locked in the room off the dining room. I wounded Roderiguez and Manuel. But Henshaw is the one—look out for him. Roderiguez is a lamb beside him. Pedro, the chauffeur, followed us out on the hill. Head him off from releasing the others if you can. But don't take too many chances. We have a head-start."

"De horses are all out but dese, senor. What shall I do wid de bad men?"

"The police—?"

Ramon shrugged his shoulders hopelessly.

"Then just do your darndest! You'll hear from me soon. And see me as soon as I can manage it. Hasta luego, Ambassador! What's that—?"

Far away came the purr of a motor car.

"Good-bye!" called John, as he clapped heels to his horse.

He overtook the girl where the trail emerged from a clump of trees beside the dry stream bed into the open. The motor car was nearer now.

"Wait," said John, his hand on her horse's neck. "This is a much traveled road, this one in front of us?"

"The road from Magdalena."

"Ah! We'll wait in these trees and see—"

The girl dropped listlessly in her saddle.

A car swept around the bend of the road, towards them, passed them by.

"Ah!" said John Moore again. He lifted his hand to the girl's shoulder and gripped it. "Listen to me! Pedro is inside the big house now—and that man who passed was Morton. Wake up, girl. For Wong's sake—wake up!"

Slowly she looked up at him as if stirred from sleep.

John Moore smiled at her. "Good girl!" he cried. "Now, ride!"

From dawn to noon, from noon to dusk they had ridden the mountain trail beneath laden, sullen skies.

And now, with the dusk, came the rain. Great wind-driven sheets of it swinging from cliff to cliff down the valley, curtaining the mountain peaks from view and veiling the rocky gorge of the Fresnal in cold wet mist.

John Moore, watching it come swore to himself. "Damn the rain! She can't stand being wet. She's exhausted now."

The horses were picking their way among the rocks of the river bed. This was now merely a sandy wash, confined between great rock walls. It was the route the Ambassador had chosen—unless it should rain. John wondered how long it would be before a swift torrent might be tumbling over these rocks. He had heard of the sudden floods of this country.

He scanned the sides of the gulch. Straight and sheer they towered upward. Even these cow-ponies could not scale them! And according to Ramon they extended some four or five miles further. Could the horses make it in time? They were tired. The girl must be desperately so. She might be unable to go much farther without rest. She had ridden steadily all day, except for the two hours shelter from the rain, a fire against the cold night air, and hot food.

It did not occur to him that he might be unable to compel shelter for her from this wilderness of rocks and hills. Shelter she should have.

"Miss Henshaw," he said, "let's stop and hold a council of war."

Both horses stopped.

Ruth looked up at the man beside her. The cold wet wind had whipped the pink into her cheeks and beaded her hair with mist. But there were deep shadows beneath her eyes and her slender body drooped wearily in her saddle. Her hands rested one above the other on the saddlehorn while she waited for John Moore to speak again. She waited passively. She was too tired to wonder whey he hesitated.

He was gazing down at her with a cheerful, pleasant expression—the one he had worn all day. She did not know that at this moment it required all of his will to maintain that expression; nor that the muscles of his throat had contracted until he could not speak.

"I am killing her!" he thought. "She is completely worn out and I have to make her go on still." He gripped his horse with his knees until the animal moved uneasily. "If I dared let her rest awhile—if I might lift her down from her saddle—she is only a tired tired child now—and let her rest."

He forced his gaze away from her, up the mist-filled gorge. But the refrain in his heart beat its way into his consciousness and throbbed there. "Let her rest—in my arms—in my arms."

The gray curtain of the rain swung nearer and a few drops struck his upturned face. Immediately he turned and spoke as he swung himself down from his horse. "It looks as if we are in for a wetting, young lady. Take off your coat. Quickly!" He pulled Morton's fancy green sweater over his head and handed it up to her. "Put this on under your coat."

"Not your sweater; you'll be cold, too."

"Rot. Do as I tell you. Here. Hustle. I'll put on my coat."

He untied his coat from the back of his saddle and slipped into it. Then he stooped to pick up small twigs littered among the rocks.

"Are you going to build a fire here?" Ruth asked.

For answer he stuffed the twigs into his pockets and then proceeded to fill all the crevices of the saddle bags with them; smiling as if amused the while.

SCOUTMASTER FILES REPORT

Cost of Camp Operation at Lake Placentia Detailed.

Boy Scouts who enrolled at the summer camp at Lake Placentia at North Georgetown during the seven week term during the last summer were fed at a cost of 72 cents per diem, according to a report compiled by County Scoutmaster C. E. Felton and filed with the county council. The total cost of feeding the boys while in camp for the entire period was $1,750.49.

At the close of the season the operation of the camp showed a deficit of $476.63, but this is covered by a budget charge of $500 designated before the opening of the camp for a possible deficit.

Boy Scouts paid $5 per week for their stay in camp, and a total of 313 Scout weeks is disclosed by the report. From this source $1,565 has been received by those in authority. From other sources, and including the money paid for board by the campers the receipts for the season totaled $1,658.80. The total expenditure for the camp season was $2,135.43.

Twenty troops of Boy Scouts were represented during the camping season, 130 boys being enrolled.

The 10 leaders who took part in the camp work included County Scoutmaster C. E. Felton, as director; Kenneth Jones, Dr. Holzbacher, medical examiner; Homer Herman, Bugler; Donald Poole, life saving instructor; Lewis Moore swimming instructor; Fred Detwiler, nature study; Charles Lewton, William Baker and Paul Conrad assisting in different phases of boy scout work.

During the camp season 23 boys passed the "tenderfoot" tests and 12 boys passed second class. Six boys passed to first class, and during the season 58 merit badges were passed. Only the badges required to become an Eagle Scout were taught, such as bird study, outdoor cooking, pioneering, life saving, swimming and wood carving. Every boy in camp learned to swim there being 20 in the latter class to receive instruction. Seventeen boys passed the Junior Red Cross life saving examination, and one became a senior life saver. One scout became an examiner.

"There were no serious accidents while the boys were in camp," Felton declared, "and there were only two cases of home sickness. No property was destroyed, and the Lake Placentia Co., congratulated the boys upon their good behavior. Five adult persons were rescued from the lake by the boy scouts, these being strangers who visited the park."

The county council is interested in obtaining a permanent camping spot for the Columbiana County Boy Scout organization. It has been suggested that a site with ample water be procured later which would be used only for scout camp purposes.

Expenditures during the camp season included groceries, butter and eggs $773.92; meat and fish $340.77; milk $203; ice $15; cook $290; assistant cook $82.80; miscellaneous expenditures which include rental of camp site, equipment, pipe, lumber and training school $384.94.

Magnesia Best for Your Indigestion

Most people who suffer, either occasionally or chronically from gas, sourness and indigestion, have now discontinued disagreeable diet, patent foods and the use of harmful drugs, stomach tonics, medicines and artificial digestants, and instead, following the advice so often given in these columns, take a teaspoonful or four tablets of Bisurated Magnesia in a little water after meals with the result that their stomach no longer troubles them, they are able to eat as they please and they enjoy much better health. Those who use Bisurated Magnesia never dread the approach of meal time because they know this wonderful anti-acid and food corrective, which can be obtained from any good drug store, will instantly neutralize the stomach acidity, sweeten the stomach, prevent food fermentation, and make digestion easy. Try this plan yourself, but be certain to get Bisurated Magnesia especially prepared for stomach use.

BEEF CATTLE AT STATE FAIR

Proof that Ohio farmers know how to feed cattle for the production of juicy steaks and roasts will be in evidence, on the hoof, at the Ohio State Fair, August 29 to September 3.

A dozen carlots of fat cattle, steers brought from western ranges and fattened on Ohio farms, will be on exhibit this year as last year, under the supervision of live stock extension specialists of the Ohio State University and in cooperation with the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation and producers' commission firms.

Invitation to discuss, in open forum, the best way to produce good steaks at the lowest possible cost, will be extended to all who gather around the exhibit during State Fair week.

Since Ohio farmers repeatedly ask what part of the west the best feeder steers come from, the live stock extension men have arranged to have eight or ten cars of feeder cattle on view at the State Fair from as many different parts of the western range country, from Texas north to Montana.

Both feeder and fat cattle on exhibit will be sold at public auction at the close of the State Fair.

THE SERGEANT'S WERE GOOD SOLDIERS

THE WRECKAGE AT SHANGHAI MABEL'S

THE MILITARY POLICE SETTLED IT

FIRST EPISODE

IT STARTED back in Peking, where Sergt. Flagg and Sergt. Quirt were non-coms in the legation guard of the United States marines. The sergeants were good soldiers—both of them true to the best corps traditions, and both susceptible, as Shanghai Mabel discovered and proved to the satisfaction of the military police.

Sergt. Flagg had the pioneer spirit. He was easy to engage in amorous adventure, and the names of Maudes and Mamies and Daisies in a score of cities all over the world were tattooed on his brawny arms, and his chest and back bore likenesses to a portrait gallery of national beauties.

Legation guard life is leisurely but not always without its diversions—and diversions at this stage of the story was a synonym for Shanghai Mabel. Mabel had come to Peking out of the nowhere. Her next destination was as much a mystery as her last dwelling place.

What more natural than that Flagg's adventurous tendencies should involve Mabel also. The come-hither in Mabel's eye was as good as a command, and Sergt. Flagg pioneered in Mabel's affections.

Good soldiers are good followers as well as good leaders, and Sergt. Quirt found his way to Mabel's apartment without a compass. Flagg, who had brought offerings to the fair, resented the invasion. Quirt stayed, and Mabel's training in the diplomacy that deals with such situations between males equally well financed and therefore equally desirable, was unequal to the situation.

The incident was closed only after lively combat, the military police establishing peace after Mabel's apartment had been wrecked in the battle between the handsome sergeants.

MARCELINE DAY ROSE RAPIDLY

Girl in Barrymore Picture Entered Movies Two Years Ago.

Little more than two years ago, Marceline Day was attending high school at Venice, Calif., studying stenography. Through a trick of fate, she found herself drafted for a small "bit" in a motion picture. The movies promptly replaced stenography as her principal ambition and in the short time that has elapsed since her first screen test, she has come to be recognized as one of the most talented actresses in Hollywood at 17 years of age.

And now, at the critical point of her rapidly developing career, she appears in a feature role in "The Beloved Rogue," John Barrymore's first United Artists Pictures at the Ceramic theatre. On the strength of her showing in this elaborate screen classic her future is regarded as assured.

Cast as Charlotte de Vauxcelles, ward of Louis XI, eccentric ruler of France in the early fifteenth century, Marceline Day has been given a remarkable chance to shine brilliantly in innumerable scenes with the great Barrymore, who portrays France's famed vagabond poet, Francois Villon. She was selected for the part by Barrymore personally, because she fulfilled his idea of someone new, vibrant and girlish, for the most coveted role of its kind of the season. And these are the qualifications that enable her to accomplish her greatest stride towards stardom in "The Beloved Rogue."

Overjoyed at her selection for the role, Marceline said: "It is difficult for me to realize I am the luck girl to win this opportunity in 'The Beloved Rogue.' I feel it will mark the real turning point in my career, and whatever future seuccess I may have, I will owe largely to Mr. Barrymore, for he has given me my greatest chance."

PLAY FILMED ON BRINY DEEP

"Twelve Miles Out" was really filmed a hundred miles out!

This was decided upon when plans were completed for the sea scenes in John Gilbert's new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer starring vehicle, which is now showing at the American theatre. Gilbert, with Jack Conway, the director, sailed in an exact replica of a point some hundred miles west of Catalina, where thrilling races with revenue cutters and other graphic sea details were filmed.

The reason for the long trip is the difference between the Atlantic and the Pacific oceans. The Atlantic is so much rougher that at the twelve-mile limit the heavy waves that form an important part of the story may be seen, while on the Pacific the ocean is comparatively smooth for some eighty miles off the California coast. Beyond that the really waves, such as were necessary in story, begin.

The new picture is a vivid drama adventure on the high seas in which Gilbert plays the leading role as the nemesis of the ruler of a rum-running band headed by Ernest Torrence. Joan Crawford plays the heroine, and the cast includes Eileen Percy, Tom O'Brien, Bert Roach, Pauline Duval, Dorothy Sebastian, Gwen Lee and others of note.

It is an adaptation of William Anthony McGuire's stage play, directed by Jack Conway.

STATE PRISON AT MICHIGAN CITY, IND., WHERE D. C. STEPHENSON IS SERVING A LIFE SENTENCE. OTHER PHOTOS ARE OF THE PRSON CHAPEL AND STEPHENSON, AT HIS MURDER TRIAL.

XIV.

By BONITA WITT,

Staff Writer for Central Press and Review-Tribune.

(Bills charged against Stephensonism in the Indiana legislature are many).

In the early days of 1925 the Indiana legislature began to feel the power of D. C. Stephenson, who insists he obtained the election of many of its members.

Stephenson disliked to hear himself mentioned as Indiana's dictator, preferring to remain in the background, a figure of mystery.

He delighted in his ability to make or break men and it was his frequent boast, "Give an ordinary man a shove and hell do the rest—it's a feat to take a monumental ass and make a man of him!"

"Cracking the Whip."

Determined to "get returns" on the money which he alleged he spent on the election of legislators, Stephenson cracked the whip early in 1925.

The most talked of bill which he succeeded in shoving through the assembly was a nutrition bill which compelled the superintendent of public instruction to purchase a book on diet for use in the schools. So sure was Stephenson that the book he had had written on nutrition by a doctor would be the one purchased that its printing was under way while the measure was still on the floor of the assembly and the plates are still in existence. He might have realized close to half a million dollars from royalties on the book had he been able to consummate the deal before his imprisonment for murder. In 1927 the bill was removed from the statute books.

Among the lesser bills passed, which are attributed to his influence, are two providing that the federal constitution be read in all schools, public and parochial. One making compulsory the reading of the Bible in schools was defeated.

Passed—But Not a Bill.

One bill which Stephenson worked to defeat provided that all eating places using oleomargarine in place of butter display signs to that effect. In spite of his opposition the bill passed and presumably was sent to the governor's office. Since that day it never has been seen. Whether it reached the governor's office has not been determined.

Interests opposing another bill are said to have had Stephenson kill it—and it was said to have been worth thousands of dollars to them to have it killed.

It is believed Stephenson hoped to gain the establishment of a central board of control for Indiana's 19 state institutions, but never introduced this proposal as a bill. These combined institutions receive approximately $7,500,000 a year in appropriations. Since only 5 or 6 per cent of this is spent for personal services, a large sum is left available for supplies, improvements, etc.

Charged to His Power.

The defeat of one bill requiring the posting of an excessive bond by pawnbrokers and another designed to abolish an "odor nuisance" from a packing house are traced to the former grand dragon's control over the lower house.

He was not, however, always successful. The "regular" Klan often deadlocked his efforts in the hope of crushing the man who, although expelled from their ranks, continued to "rule" Indiana.

Among the bills he failed to shove through the legislature, either because of Klan opposition or because he lacked votes in the senate, were a uniform text book law requiring that school books for each grade be uniform and a professional licensing bill providing for one secretary for all professional licensing boards. A corrupt secretary could have filled his pockets and those of the person who put him into office, with money gained from the issuance of illegal licenses. Another placed all state inspectors, including fish and game wardens, under one head.

A Friend's Opinion.

One man, an intimate friend of Stephenson in his palmy days, remarked to the writer: "Why all this outcry against 'Steve' because of his power in the state? Is it a crime to own a man politically? I think not. . . . However, it IS a crime to be owned politically."

The bill from which Stephenson and his political henchmen hoped to gain the most seems to have been a "road ripper" measure designed to change the setup of the highway commission. Several prominent politicians have been heard to remark: "I never would have supported the 'road ripper' had the governor not personally requested me to do so!"

But the measure was defeated and the subsequent attack on the highway commission paved the way for the investigations which are laying bare Stephenson's political secrets.

WASHINGTON STEWART'S LETTER

CAPITAL FOLKS ARE EXPERTS AT POSING FOR PHOTOGRAPHS

Inclusive Central Press Dispatch to Review-Tribune.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—"A public man's usefulness seems to depend on the kind of photograph he takes."

This was a sarcastic crack I ran across the other day in an article I happened to be reading, commenting on the store politicians appear to set on getting effective-looking pictures of themselves before the voters in their various bailiwicks, or throughout the whole country, if they have ambitions on a national scale.

And never was a truer thing said in an ironical vein that this was.

THAT the right kind of a mug and general get-up mean ballots to a candidate on election day unquestionably is a theory with the overwhelming mass of expert testimony back of it. It's hardly possible to doubt its correctness—the belief in it's so nearly universal, on the part of those who actually have tested it, carefully.

A man may not want to resemble an Adonis. If he depends on hick support, he may want to look like a hick. If he depends on a labor constituency, he may want to look like a workingman. But he has an ideal that he wants to be coiled up to, whenever a cameraman's around.

Some of these folks are as finicky as any chorus girl. I've seen a congressman borrow his stenographer's vanity bag and powder his nose, to take the shine off, before posing.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE notably knows how to put his best foot foremost. Of course he's had a tremendous amount of practice. He doesn't go in for make-up but he knows all about lighting effects, pose, expression—how to make the most of himself.

Frequently he gives useful tips to experienced photographers.

The president quite frankly realizes that he isn't naturally the type to make a very telling picture, but everything that science, art and good management can do to offset his unavoidable disadvantages he attends to, if the comeramen neglect it.

MRS. COOLIDGE isn't as particular as her husband—doesn't need to be—not that she lays any claims to the "Miss America" style of beauty, but she has good, substantial features and about the most attractive smile of any woman who ever lived in the White House.

THE Washington news photographers make a great point these times of getting their victims "in character," as they express it.

That is, if you're Chief Marvin of the weather bureau, they portray you pointing to a meteorological map; if you're Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, they try to persuade you to pose counting a stack of greenbacks; if you're Chairman Borah of the senate foreign relations committee, they "shoot" you with a world atlas under your arm.

EARLY in the last session of congress, Representative MacGregor of Buffalo, who, as chairman of the house accounts committee, has charge of the capitol restaurant, made a terrible howl about the quality of pie they were serving there.

The photographers persuaded him to visit the restaurant, order a quarter section of the pastry—blueberry—and, after biting out a semicircle, sit with the rest of it in his hand, chewing, and wearing a disgusted expression on his face, to indicate that he didn't like his mouthful, while they took about twenty "shots" of him.

It was "in character" allright but MacGregor didn't like it, when he saw it reproduced in the newspapers, as well as he'd expected to.
